Seventh World Series For A's; Won First A. L. Pennant in 1905

By JOHN H. REFFINGER (Associated Press Staff Writer)

PHILADELPHIA.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics will participate in the world's series for the seventh time.

Only one man connected with the playing side of the club when the White Elephants entered their first world's series in 1905 remains in the same position. He is Cornelius McGillicuddy, 66-year-old manager, who still is matching wits with the best of the younger ballplayers.

The Athletics of the Athletics 24 years ago were the New York Giants under the management of John J. McGraw. Each team had won two pennants in their leagues, New York in 1891 and 1892 and the Athletics in 1902 and 1903, an eight-year aggregation were regarded as even recently matched.

It was the first world's series played under the national commission rules, which, with a few modifications, still prevail.

The Athletics defeated the Athletics four games to one mainly through the great pitching of the masterly Christy Mathewson. The series was remarkable because not a run was scored by the home team. Three were five games played, each resulting in a shut out. This performance has never been repeated in a world's series since. But this will not be considered as very remarkable when one remembers that the winning pitchers were Mathewson, "Iron Man" McGillicuddy and Chief Bender.

Mathewson performed the remarkable feat of striking out the American league champions without a run in the three games he pitched, or 21 consecutive innings.

Chief Bender pitched two games, allowing only two runs in 18 innings, winning his first game 2 to 0 and losing the second 2 to 0.

A ball that pleased the Philadelphia fans was the striking out of Dan Moran by McGillicuddy in the first game.
