Y. W. E. A. Resumes Meetings; 70 At Session Last Night

The Young Women's Educational association of the First Methodist church met last night in the church basement for the first regular session this fall. About 70 members were present.

A country fare was in session during most of the evening with horse races, contests and picnic luncheon. The entertainment began with selections by the orchestra, and a selection from comic opera. Mrs. Claude Cooper, Miss Effie Saiter, Miss Nell Maloney, and Mrs. Helen Tully were prizewinners in the evening's contests.

A motion picture and a booth of exhibits added interest to the event. Miss Bertha Wallinger and Miss Ruth Margaret Hall told fortunes.

The course of study this year will be "Seeing America." In accordance with this plan an important part of the itinerary of America was given by different groups of the assembly.

Dr. Lewa Wilkes, president, presided at a short business meeting at which the constitution was read, and plans for the coming year discussed. A motion was made that a resolution be drawn up and presented to the president's club that the present rules for the Y. W. E. A. also include Camp Fire Girls.

Mrs. Claude Cooper has charge of the year's program and will announce her committee this week for the next meeting in October.

Those on the committee last evening were: Miss Blanche Clark, Miss Miana Cooper, Miss Augusta Johnson, Mrs. Sherwood Williams, Mrs. H. E. Dixon, Miss Mahet Doty, Miss Bertha Wallinger, Miss Lulu McNeese, and Mrs. Renwick Clark.

What do you do with the coarse outer stalks of celery—consign them to the garbage can or worthless? Too often we do this, and overlook their possibilities as an excellent cooked vegetable.

Cream of celery soup is appetizing for luncheon or dinner. Celery sticks are a filler-like concoction that will appear when the meat course is light. Celery served in a white sauce on toast with crisp broiled bacon is acceptable for luncheon or breakfast.

The English make a dish of celery, a little onion, macaroni and white sauce that is unusual and palatable.

In order not to repeat flavors, do not serve a cooked celery dish in the same meal with fresh celery.

Care should be taken that the pieces used for cooking are quite as crisp as those served fresh. Chop in cold water, removing any rust, blanch and drain.

If these suggested precautions are kept in mind when preparing celery you will find that your original purchase answers a twofold purpose and that a delicious hearty vegetable develops from the usual waste included in a bunch of celery.

Twelve stalks of celery, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 eggs, fine dried bread crumbs.

Cut celery in pieces three or four inches long. Let stand in cold water to which vinegar has been added for half an hour. Drain and parboil in slightly salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and chill. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add salt, pepper and 1 egg well beaten. Set aside until cold. Dip each piece of celery in the sauce to completely mask it. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg slightly beaten and roll again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread from the soft part of the loaf in 60 seconds.

The sauce and the celery can be prepared in the morning. The little dish is easily and quickly finished at dinner time.

Cut celery in pieces three or four inches long. Let stand in cold water to which vinegar has been added for half an hour. Drain and parboil in slightly salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and chill. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add salt, pepper and 1 egg well beaten. Set aside until cold. Dip each piece of celery in the sauce to completely mask it. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg slightly beaten and roll again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread from the soft part of the loaf in 60 seconds.

The sauce and the celery can be prepared in the morning. The little dish is easily and quickly finished at dinner time.
