A lady went into a hardware store to buy a drinking dish for her dog. "Would you like one with the words 'For the dog' printed on it?" "Oh, no, thank you!" replied the customer. "You see Fido can't read, and my husband never drinks water!"

The small boy's chief fear is that his stomach won't hold enough to keep him from starving to death.

"Waiter! Why is this milk so weak?"

"The cows got caught in the rain, sir."

A little La Grande girl wanted to play army with several of the boys who objected on the grounds that she was a "woman."

The other general replied, "Aw, let her play; she can be the widows and orphans."

REPORTED FROM COURT

"Is it true that you called your wife a woman?"

"Yes, your honor. We-and-in-a-spectropher she's always wantin' something."

Be thorough. When you teach a child not to point, also teach it to read a noun printed in French.

A zealous but untrained reformer secured permission to speak at the Northampton county jail.

"Brothers," he pleaded with them, "lose no time in turning to the pathway of righteousness. Remember, we are here today and gone tomorrow."

"Don't kill yourself," came a gloomy voice from the rear. "I got eight years left yet."

AT THE THEATERS

Ernest Torrence Has Part In Picture At Star

Uncle Flo, the character onetime in Thornton Wilder's sensational novel, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," is being portrayed on the screen by Ernest Torrence, of "Covered Wagon" and "Cowboy" fame, in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production at the Star theater today.

The production is a vivid and spectacular romance of Peru, closely following the famous book, with impressive cathedral scenes, the falling of the great bridge, and other elaborate detail. Charles Brabin, directed, with a cast that includes Raquel Torres, Lily Damita, Mitchell Lewis, Henry H. Walthall, Tully Marshall, Don Alvarado, Jane Winston, Paul Ellis, Gordon Thorpe, Duncan Hinnald and others of note.

"Father And Son" Is Film Of Deep Heart Interest

Human understanding, family strife, sacrifice and an overpowering love are all incorporated in "Father and Son," the new Columbia picture synchronized with dialogue and music, which opens at the Arcade theater today with Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and Mickey McLean in the featured roles.

It is a story of deep heart interest. A hypocritical stepmother, played by Dorothy Revier, attempts to destroy the deep and tender love existing between a father and his son, played respectively by Jack Holt and Mickey McLean. Her malicious nature gives rise to many sad complications, culminating in murder. Father and son, each thinking the other committed the crime, lie in protest each other. A surprising bit of evidence clears them both and ends the story on a happy note. Jack Holt gives a splendid performance as does Dorothy Revier, who shows a power and subtlety that establishes her as a great dramatic actress. Little Mickey McLean handles his role with a great deal of simplicity and charm.
