Reception Given In Honor of Rev. and Mrs. Tennyson

A surprise reception was given the Rev. and Mrs. M. G. Tennyson of the Episcopal church last evening by about 60 members of the St. Peter's Episcopal guild at the parsonage.

During the evening Mr. Tennyson and George S. Birnie entertained with several solos. A delicious luncheon was served and the evening spent in pleasant social hours. Almost every family of the parish was represented.

The members of the guild then presented them with a cozy woolen blanket in honor of their coming here.

Mr. and Mrs. Tennyson came to La Grande a few weeks ago to replace the Rev. Oliver Riley, who has gone to Seattle that, Neb.

Announce Wedding Of 5 Weeks Ago

Miss Thelma Pickett recently announced her marriage of five weeks ago, to Jack Harkman, of Pendleton, to her friends here. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Pickett of La Grande. Mr. Harkman is employed by the Montross-Ward company with whom he has worked since its founding a store in Pendleton. Their many friends wish them happiness.

MENUS

By SISTER MARY

There are innumerable ways in which stale bread can be turned from waste into an actual asset to the kitchen.

When bread becomes too stale for table use it should be dried immediately. If allowed to accumulate for any length of time in the bread box it may become moldy and really worthless. When the bread is thoroughly dry and crisp, put it through the fine knife of the food chopper and the crumbs are ready for crumbing purposes.

Keep buttered toast crumbs separate from plain bread crumbs. Property cared for crumbs will keep indefinitely, but buttered crumbs can be kept only as long as the butter stays sweet.

Use a great convenience to have bread crumbs on hand for crumbing croquettes or combining with other materials in scalloped dishes, meat balls and loaves, puddings, thickenings, griddle cakes, omelets.

Use for Stale Crabs

Stale bread crumbs are usually coarse and are used when a light mixture is wanted. They absorb less moisture than the dried crumbs and are more delicate.

Whole slices of bread or parts of loaves that have become too stale to use on the table can be utilized in French toast. This is good for breakfast or luncheon.

Veal cuttings are at their best when made with coarse stale bread crumbs.

The bread puddings are almost legion and range from the simplest affair for children to a rich and plummy suet pudding for festive occasions.

While a carelessly made bread pudding is far from inviting, a well made one is sure to be popular. This sort of dessert is nourishing, combining the "stuff of life" with milk and eggs. It should be served for luncheon rather than dinner unless the meat course is quite light.

Scenic Motif In Evening Coats

luncheon consisting of a soup, vegetable salad and bread pudding is well balanced and wholesome.

Bread Pudding

One and one-half cups stale bread crumbs, 3 cups milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 lemon, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup stewed and sifted fruit.

Heat milk and put over crumbs. Add sugar, butter and grated rind of lemon. Let cool and add yolks of eggs well beaten. Mix thoroughly and pour into a buttered pudding dish. Bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes or until firm. Remove from oven and cover with a layer of jam. Cover this with the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry with four tablespoons sugar and a few drops of vanilla. Return pudding to the oven for eight minutes to bake and color the meringue. Serve warm with or without cream.

True Nobility

If there be no nobility of descent, all the more indispensable is it that there should be nobility of ascent—a character in them that bear rule so fine and high and pure that as men come within the circle of its influence they involuntarily pay homage to that which is the one pre-eminent distinction, the royalty of virtue.—Bishop Henry Codman Potter (1825-1893). Address on Washington.

Discontent

There are two kinds of discontent in this world; the discontent that works and the discontent that wrings its hands. The first gets what it wants and the second loses what it has. There's no cure for the first but success; and there's no cure at all for the second.—Tim Linn.

BATTERY THOUGHTS

Under your floor board or your car seat is a little black box called a battery. Most people think there is electricity stored in it. The fact is there is very little electricity in it. It makes the current as you ask for it. Ohlinging isn't it?

In this box there are three working parts: positive plates or lead peroxide, negative plates or pure spongy lead and the liquid or electrolyte composed of water and sulphuric acid. Just the exact amount of each to make it work right for a long time.

When you step on your starter, blow your horn or turn on your lights, this mixture of water and sulphuric acid goes in the plates and makes a pressure. So just as water flows from high place to low, so the current flows from high pressure to low and your starter works, the horn blows or your lights light up the road on the same principle that the water wheel works in a current of water.

After driving for a while this liquid spills out and you keep putting water in until you have very little left but water. The balance of your battery is then upset and the plates in your battery are over-worked. They will wear out quickly in this condition.

To get the best action and longest life from your battery you must have the liquid balanced or adjusted when necessary and the leaks stopped.

If you will call regularly at your battery service station and let them test and fill your battery they will tell you what that is necessary.

In winter it is more important because a battery that has lost its acid will freeze easily and be ruined, according to Mr. Sine, local manager of the Automotive Electric company, Willard service station.

YOUR grocer returns your money instantly if you don't like Schilling's best

Your statement is enough. Your grocer pays you. We pay him. You keep the goods. PEPPER is not just pepper. They are not all alike—not by any means! Schilling's is rich in aromatic oils, and full of flavor—some are merely stinging dust. There is one delicately flavored VANILLA. Others are harsh and pungent. Some are in-between. Do you know which is which—or why? Pure food experts do. Some of them use one brand by which to judge all others. That one is Schilling! Schilling LEMON contains more than three times the amount of lemon oil prescribed by the Pure Food Laws. Schilling MUSTARD contains none of the flat, flavorless mustard bran that weakens the flavor of all others. And so on down the long list of 47 SPICES and 32 EXTRACTS.
