Abe Martin

Commissioner of Prohibition Dean says conditions are better than they've ever been. Yes, after all the white rats that's been washed into a little sea on it conditions 'll be still better. It's allus funny to hear some loud-dad talk about what he's goin' to make out of a 909.

Weather Holds Up Soviet Take-off

SITKA, Alaska, Oct. 2 (AP)—The Russian airplane "Land of the Soviets" was still anchored in the harbor here at 9 a. m. Pacific standard time, and it was uncertain whether the four aviators would leave for Seattle today.

WORKERS PROTECTED

ZECHIN (AP)—Nearly one-fifth of all workers in Swiss factories are protected by unemployment insurance. Swiss economists have concluded that this is a better way of relieving distress of the idle than the dole systems used in England, Poland and several other countries.

PILOT IS UNHURT

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 2 (AP)—Walter Egeen, Salt Lake City, pilot of Varney air line mail plane, escaped injury last night when he was forced to land his plane on the mud flats north of a harbor terminal. The plane, flipped over on its back. An ambulance was rushed to the scene, but Egeen crawled from the plane unhurt.

ARRESTED 18 TIMES

CONSTANTINOPLE (AP)—Harmus Hahem, a Turkish woman moonshiner, has just been arrested for the eighteenth time. Agents of the state flower recently found on her premises a still and gallons of raki, the powerful Turkish con- tin of Russian vodka, Swedish aquavit and Aldama corn.

OUT OUR WAY

West Virginia Women Leave East Oregon After Enjoyable Visit

"There's only one thing about the west I don't like and that is the yellow jackets," Mrs. Emma Drennin said a few days ago when she and Mrs. Daisy Cook left La Grande after a six weeks stay. "They sting me all over." They are from Charleston, West Virginia, and plan to spend a year touring the United States.

Like Sleep Camp

"This climate is certainly good for appetites," they both agreed, and confessed to owning hearty ones, since their arrival here. "Sleep herding appeals to us; we like it and the sour dough biscuits the herder gave us, while we visited a sheep camp in the north woods for a week."

THE WESTERN PEOPLE TAKE THINGS SO SLOW

"The western people take things so slow," Mrs. Drennin said. "Back east there is so much more tension, and people are more serious, their tempers easily aroused; I think it is because they are more crowded. People are like the country they live in, I think. Here the country is broad, plenty of space, no hurry, seems to be plenty of time, and the people are the same way—broad and unhurried. I like their attitude. The density of the population in the east, the crowding, the rush, tend to make people more fiery," and she should know because their business is well-kept real estate.

WE ARE JUST SEEING THE COUNTRY AND THE KIN FOLKS

"We are just seeing the country and the kin folks," they said. "The westerners are so hospitable. Strangers have said 'come and stay with us a week, it won't cost they probably wanted us to hurry through. Sagoosh, sand, and jackalbits they have seen in large quantities. 'We have enjoyed the desert lands, they are wonderful in their own way.' This is their first trip of this kind, and they have travelled about 4500 miles this far.

Both Widows

They are sisters who have spent most of their life together, except when they were married, and have never quarreled with each other. "If you are ever going on a trip like this turn all your worries loose; forget about your possessions, and enjoy your stay," they warned. "I don't know how many more trophies we'll have when we finally reach home," one of them said.

Put a little oil into the machine of everyday living; say something pleasant now and then; offer a word of praise, a helping hand. A smile doesn't cost you anything and laughter will help keep you young.

Three candidates for "Missouri"

The hitchhacker, the petticoat and the boot-jack. Young man in a crowded car, trod on the toes of an old gentleman in a seat. "It's sorry," he said. Old Gentleman (hand behind ear)—"Eh?" Young Man (more loudly)—"I beg your pardon." Old Gentleman—"Eh-h-h?" Young Man (shouting)—"I trod on your foot. It was an accident—on accident!" Old Gentleman (catching the last word only)—"An accident? You don't say! Anybody hurt?" "That stovekeeper is never bothered with loafers." "How's that?" "He sells insurance on the side." "Do you know, only two things prevent you becoming a great dancer?" "Indeed? What are they?" "Your feet."

They Never Do

"I can't eat this stuff. Call the manager." "It's no use, sir. He can't eat it either." We never see the woman any more who was afraid a mouse would run up her dress. There isn't enough dress left. One of these days some one is going to attempt an endurance record of minding his own business, and that will be news.

A Wisconsin hunter was shot by mistake for a duck. His last words were, "Tell my friends that I did it myself."

When the government gets through worrying about corn borer, will it kindly pay a little attention to the mosquito?

While (to hardware store clerk): "I want a dozen of the kind of tools that school teachers sit on."

A dreamer thinks but never works. A thinker thinks and puts his thoughts into action. Be a thinker.

It was during the war, train was falling steadily as the weary cyclist slowed through the mud. At last he spied a Gnu walking toward him through the gloom. He asked the native: "How far away is the village of Poppleton?" "Ten miles the other way," replied the native. "The other way," exclaimed the cyclist, "but the last sign post I passed said it was in this direction." "Oh," replied the native, "we turned them sign posts around backwards to fool the zepplins."

You only have to go out on the roads of a Sunday afternoon to realize what a great turnover the American motor industry is having.

Fine And Marriage By Same Justice

FINE AND—back MEDFORD, Ore., Oct. 2 (AP)—A few minutes after a Justice of peace had imposed a $5 fine on C. J. Mays, Ashland, potential bridegroom, for driving a car with four in the front seat, the same Justice married Miss and Miss Hazel Massey, 19. Mays, his bride to be, and two witnesses, en route to purchase a marriage license, were arrested. The Justice fined Mays $5. Then Mays bought the marriage license, returned to the same Justice, and Miss Massey became Mrs. Mays.

VALUE 47 MILLIONS

LONDON (AP)—The new taxable value of the city of Westminster, a mile square in metropolitan London, is $47,993,400, making it second only to Glasgow, Scotland, among British cities. In Westminster are Buckingham and St. James palaces, the House of Parliament, Westminster abbey and St. James park.
