Fresh Eggs Go
Higher; Butter
Price Steady

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 14 (AP)—Fresh eggs took another advance today. Extras to retailers went up two cents to 49, fresh medium to 46 and fresh pullets to 29. And some retailers were quoting the price of the choice sorts two cents above these figures.

Other grades were unchanged. Butter was steady at Friday's value. No season has been held since then by the Portland produce exchange.

Receipt of a carload of Imperial cantaloupes was reported today, ranging in price from $3 to $3.25 a crate, according to size.

Local tomatoes are dwindling and California ones begun to ship in. The latter were quoted at $1.25.

Cauliflower was excellent and plentiful at 75¢ to $1.00.

Oranges had a wide range from $2.25 to $3, according to size.

Wheat Setback In Chicago Market

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP)—Rain reports from Australia, where moisture shortage has been prevalent led to downturns in Chicago wheat prices today, much more than offsetting early gains. Revised estimates of wheat yields in Australia were current, and higher quotations at Liverpool were ignored. Opening 1/4 to 1/8 higher, Chicago wheat afterward showed a decided loss all around. Corn and oats turned downward also, corn starting unchanged to 1/4 cent higher but subsequently losing. Provisions held about steady.

QUOTATIONS ON WHEAT STEADY

Favorable Weather, Threshing Returns Increase Grain Supply

PORTLAND, Oct. 14—Grain markets continued rather unsettled during the week ending October 12. Wheat prices held steady, influenced by a slightly improved export inquiry and less favorable reports on the Argentine crop, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agriculture economics. Fed grains declined, with late corn improved by favorable weather and larger supplies of other feed grains indicating better threshing returns. Eye continued weak, but flax was firm as a result of a sharp reduction in current receipts.

The larger market stocks of wheat in North America, which are now within about three million bushels of the record accumulation at the close of December last year, continue to be the principal weak factor in the wheat market situation. Some improvement in export inquiry, however, tended to offset the influence of large stocks and had a steadying effect upon the markets. Weather in Argentina is still too dry for favorable growth of the wheat crop and the outlook in two of the important wheat-growing provinces is for a reduction of 30 to 40 per cent from last year's harvest, according to trade reports. The official estimate places the total Argentine wheat acreage at 19,486,000 acres. Stocks of old wheat in commercial channels are reported around 8,000,000 bushels and shipments for the week totaled 4,720,000 bushels, which is unusually large for this season of the year.

Native wheat continues to be offered freely in European countries. The German government has recently issued a decree obliging mills to use 60 per cent home grown wheat in their grindings. This has advanced prices of native wheat in Germany, good milling quality being quoted at Hamburg at $1.64 1/2. In Italy millers were reported buying low grade Manitoba Durums and No. 1 U. S. hard winter for gluten content, although native supplies are plentiful. English buyers were reported purchasing large quantities of wheat from Yugoslavia at approximately $1.31 per bushel C. I. P. English markets, United Kingdom port stocks are estimated at 11,440,000 bushels and stocks on ocean passage at 42,375,000 bushels. Shipments of wheat through continuous large and export sales recently are said to have been mostly of wheat abroad and at prices below those at which it could be replaced in the exporting markets.

Domestic cash markets held generally steady. Receipts of hard winter wheat were fairly liberal at most markets with demand less urgent.

Spring wheat markets were slightly easier with mill demand less active than a week ago. The October estimate for spring wheat other than Durum, placed the 1929 crop at 171,857,000 bushels, or about 7,500,000 bushels over the September estimate. Marketings, however, continue relatively small and market stocks are not increasing as rapidly as last season.

Milling demand at Portland was slow except for a limited amount of hard white wheat. Some inquiry from the Orient for export flour was reported received by local mills but bids were mostly below current prices. Some parcels of wheat of wheat were reported sold to the continent and United Kingdom at prices considerably below replacement values. Farmers are not selling freely, and receipts at Portland totaled only 248 cars for the week, against 346 for the same period last year. Exports of grain and flour from Columbia River and Puget Sound ports, however, for the season have been slightly larger than for the same period last year and totaled nearly 16,000,000 bushels. At the close of the week Big Bend Bluestem and hard white were quoted at Portland at $1.27, soft white and wheat on white at $1.23 1/2, hard winter, northern spring and western red $1.21 1/2 per bushel, basis No. 3 wheat.

braska Wesleyan university, member of the world service commission, were the speakers at the three meetings. No evening service was held at the Island City church so that members of the congregation might also attend the meeting in the La Grande house of worship.

With a large crowd present at the M. E. church last night, three very interesting talks were presented. Dr. Gilbert explained the necessity of systematically supporting the world service work. Dr. Edwards gave a brief outline of religious history of India, and told of the fact that the natives are rapidly swinging toward Christ, although in a different manner than in the western world. Dr. Musser gave a very interesting talk of the jungle land district in India.

Revival Meeting Begins
At the M. E. church South a series of revival meetings conducted by the Rev. Frank Hopkins, pastor, and his son Albert, started. These meetings are to continue about two weeks. Mr. Hopkins has had wide experience in revival work in several states.

In addition to these outstanding services, several very interesting programs were carried out. At the Baptist church Leo Cullen Bryant played a violin solo. The pastor drew a graphic picture of the story of a boy of the slums who was offered a home and the place and privileges of a son by a big-hearted man in spite of the fact that he knew the boy to be a thief and liar. Placing a chair to the front of the platform, he imagined the boy seated there while he asked him some pointed questions as to what kind of boy he ought to be in return for the undeserved kindness of his benefactor, the audience sitting in judgment on the questions and answers. In the evening his subject was "Dead Cities That Still Speak." At the young people's meeting Miss Whitman led in the discussion.

SOVIET FLIERS REACH SEATTLE

A survey of the motors was expected to determine whether their stop here would be more than three days before the flight to San Francisco.

The aviators have received a special invitation to visit Henry Ford at Dearborn, they disclosed. Since their departure from Moscow the fliers have been in the air about 100 hours for the 10,000 mile trip.

Most strenuous flight
Yesterday's flight from Waterfall was in some respects the most strenuous, the fliers agreed. Credit for their success was attributed to the cooperation they had received from various American government agencies, the navy, coast guard and weather bureau all receiving special commendation from the aviators.

Several thousand former Russians and others gave the fliers a noisy greeting as their plane flew low over the western hills into the naval air station on Lake Washington.

The Russian aviators want to talk with Henry Ford and President Hoover, they declared shortly after they landed.

We hear a great deal in Russia about the famous American engineer—Ford and Hoover, one of the four fliers said. "We hope to be fortunate enough to meet both."

In addition to the meeting held at the Episcopal church, which was regarded as one of the most important in that church in many years in La Grande, there were other services of particular interest.

Missionary meetings were held at three Methodist churches in La Grande yesterday—St. Paul's and Union in the morning and Trinity in the evening. up, he said, and drove away with her.
Miss Johnston's body was found in a clump of bushes not far from the spot where Preston's rented automobile had been abandoned. It was on a little-used roadway near West Chicago. The young woman had been severely beaten. Her clothing was torn and her face was cut and swollen. There were finger marks on her neck.

Miss Mithilda Murphy, cousin of Miss Johnston, and her companion on the Saturday night party, told of events preceding the slaying.

They had gone with Preston, she said, only after much insistence by him, and they became alarmed at his behavior after he had several drinks at a roadhouse.

Upon their demanding that he take them home, all three got into the car, Preston, Miss Murphy said, continued his objectionable manner, and both women leaped from the machine and ran. Miss Murphy escaped, although Preston struck her in the face, she said. When she picked herself up Preston was carrying the struggling Johnston girl to the car and shortly afterward he drove away.
