The checked career of Lew Fonseca, the Oakland Portuguese, reached a climax when he was selected, unofficially but nevertheless decisively for the American League's "most valuable player" distinction of 1929. The swarthy flogger, who was supposed to be about through as a major leaguer, put on a great exhibition to beat out Al Simmons and Jimmy Fox for the batting championship. Here's how Gordon Cobbledick, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, summed up his work:

Fonseca, in addition to being the league's leading batsman, was one of its best defensive first basemen and a leading base-runner. He furnished much of the punch and more of the inspiration that enabled the Indians to make their spectacular climb from seventh place to third.

"For six weeks in the early part of the season, when the Cleveland pitchers were going badly and no one else was hitting, Fonseca single-handed kept the tribe from slipping into the cellar. I firmly believe that without Fonseca the Indians would have finished in the second division and in the opinion of many of the support of many of his team-mates."

Theoretically sprinters should make good ball-carriers, providing they can be "shaken loose" in an open field, but usually they lack shiftiness and durability. Red Grange and Red Cagle never won any sprint titles, but they have been low ball-carriers on hard to catch on any gridiron as these two. They combined average speed with elusiveness, which happens to be just as essential when a flock of tacklers are to be avoided.

Ray Harbitt and Chet Bowman scored touchdowns as well as points for the Redskins. Harbitt, banged enough to make in both sports and then won Olympic laurels, may try the professional gridiron. Al Miller, Harvard's 220-pound sprinter, was also a point halfback and Charley Rogers, Penn track star, outran the secondary defense of a number of teams a few years ago.

George Stinson, of Ohio State, the world's 100-yard record-holder, and his Texas rival, Claude Bracey of Rice Institute, re-remembered to try the gridiron but Cy Roland of Texas Christian has changed his address for Paris.

Two of the fastest men on the gridiron this fall are Jesse Hill, the Southern California fullback, and Jack Elder, the flashy Notre Dame ball-carrier. Both are quick starters, with the weight and drive to shake off would-be tacklers. They will do their stuff on the same scene of action, Soldiers Field at Chicago, on November 9, with the prospect of well over 100,000 spectators being on hand for one of the main inter-sectional battles of the year.

Japanese Woman Breaks Jump Mark

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 26 (AP)—Miss Kimura, 19-year-old Japanese Olympic athlete, beat her own world's record for the running broad jump for women today, clearing twenty feet, two and a quarter inches.

Miss Kimura's latest performance exceeds by three and three-quarter inches her record-breaking leap of five days ago. It is the latest in a remarkable series of recent feats which have enabled the Japanese to lower the world's record for her sex in the 100-metre and 50-metre sprints as well as the running broad jump.

Willamette Trims College of Idaho

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 26 (AP)—Willamette university, after scoring a touchdown in the first play after the kickoff, opened an attack on the College of Idaho eleven on here yesterday which ended with the third period and a 42 to 0 score for Willamette. A 54 yard run by Erickson, Bear halfback, was the big play of the game.

FORMER GRID MAN HELD IN ASSAULT CASE

ALBANY, Ore., Oct. 26 (AP)—William Hauke, captain of the Salem, Ore., high school football team last year, was arrested here last night on a charge of assault and battery upon Coach Tucker of the Albany high school.

Hauke had gone into the high school gymnasium dressing room to obtain a football used in the Salem-Albany game here today and won by Salem. Coach Tucker remonstrated with him and it is charged Hauke struck Tucker on the head. The coach was unconscious 20 minutes, according to the witnesses.

Hauke posted a $25 bond and was released.

Eckersall Again On Madison Field

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 26 (AP)—For the first time since he was almost mobbed by infuriated Badger fans in 1927, Walter Eckersall of Chicago was back in Madison today to referee a Wisconsin football game.

Eckersall, former University of Chicago gridiron star, refereed the Michigan-Wisconsin game in 1927 when Rockwell of the Wolverines made his disputed run, giving his team a 6 to 2 victory. As soon as the game was finished several hundred Badger readers dashed on the field and Eckersall was saved by the quick action of football players of both teams.

The contention that he was forced to accept the ruling of the field judge on the disputed run satisfied Wisconsin officials and has now had feeling of fans has subsided against him, he was requested to referee today's game between the Indians and Iowa.

Offer Sharkey $250,000 to Fight

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Whitford World sportsman banker of Phil Scott, has formed a syndicate which announced today that it is prepared to guarantee Jack Sharkey 50,000 sterling (about $250,000) to fight the English heavyweight in an open air bout in London next spring for the world's championship.

Whitford and his associates also are prepared to water 5,000 sterling (about $25,000) with Sharkey that Scott defends him when they meet either in America or in England.

YEARLING TEAMS PLAYING

RUGBY, Ore., Oct. 26 (AP)—A smaller but more the less fierce division of the University of Washington will battle the University of Oregon today here today.

With the varieties of the two teams fighting it out in Seattle, the youngsters are all the more anxious to make a showing.

Skies were overcast.

EUGENE HIGH WINS

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 26 (AP)—The Eugene high school football team defeated Cottage Grove 22 to 0 yesterday.

Has Half of Her Face Lifted

NEA Los Angeles Bureau

One-half of her face has been lifted, the other half has not—and this startling photograph of Mrs. Charlotte Mandley of Los Angeles—un-retouched except for the dividing line—illustrates the difference between a face lifted and one not so treated. At a Los Angeles beauty show, Mrs. Mandley submitted to a plastic surgical operation on the right side of her face, her left side remaining untouched, to illustrate the difference.

GREAT CROWD IS VIEWING BATTLE

Eighty-Nine Thousand People Crowd Into Stadium at Palo Alto.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Oct. 26 (AP)—With what has been called the strongest Southern California eleven in the history of the university, and before a crowd of 89,000 enthusiastic fans, Coach Howard Jones' Trojans were here to meet Stanford today in their annual battle which this year will virtually eliminate one or the other from the championship race.

Stanford faced the invaders with only one regular on the injured list, if a dozen others, having recovered from a bad knee epidemic that struck the Warner squad early this season. Pete Holmer, first string guard, will view the proceedings from the bench, his place being taken by Ray Lawson.

Southern California planned her hopes for victory on the power, cut and speedily running attack that has enabled her to score 209 points already this season, plus a line that averages 194 pounds from end to end.

The Cardinals banked on the line smashing ability of Smalling, Fielshacker and Hillman; the clever passing of Simkins; and the elusive halfbacks, Frontrop and Moffatt.

O. S. C. PLAYS IDAHO

COHVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 25 (AP)—Idaho's Vandals and Oregon State's Beavers were matched today in what promised to be the closest game of years on Hill field here. Both teams were said by their respective coaches to be in excellent shape and, crisp, bright weather gave promise of a fast field.

Coach Leo Calland of the Vandals declared he would start Bert at fullback, saying Willie, who was said not to be in the best of condition, for an emergency.

Paul Schuster, Oregon State mentor, said he planned several changes in the starting lineup. Peter Miller, the oldest man on the Beaver squad, was to start at tackle while Kerr was to replace Sitewood at halfback.

OREGON PLAYS HUSKIES

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 26 (AP)—Virtually their last chance for a Pacific coast victory this season the University of Washington Huskies were out today to "turn the tables" on the University of Oregon eleven. Last year the Washington team journeyed into Oregon an overwhelming favorite to defeat the Webfooters but the Huskies were smothered under a surprising 20 to 7 score. Yesterday, the Oregon eleven came to Seattle in big favor to defeat Washington which has lost its first three starts this season.

Faced with stern necessity of winning, the Husky players were expected to make it at least interesting for the Webfooters. Although Coach Knesh Hugsaw resigned effective last Wednesday he offered to remain in the coaching position until the end of the 1929 season.

The Oregon team came to Seattle with three of its regulars on the injured list. George Stinson, center, was left at home with a broken ankle. Jerry Robinson, negro half back, and Austin Colbert, tackle, were hurt last week and it was improbable that they should see action today.

Pacific Playing Puget Sound Team

PORTLAND, Oct. 26 (AP)—With the Oregon team a slight favorite, Pacific university and College of Puget Sound were matched in a northern conference game at Multnomah stadium today. The game was to start at 2:15 P. M.

By virtue of a 19 to 7 victory over Columbia university the Pacific team is given a slight edge.

In nine games between the two schools, College of Puget Sound has won only two. These were taken in 1927 and 1928.

FILES SUIT TO RECOVER FUND SPENT, LIQUOR

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 26 (AP)—J. G. Gillingham, trustee in bankruptcy for the defunct brokerage firm of Overbeck and Cooke, filed an amended complaint in circuit court today seeking the recovery of $27,729 from Frank Hochfield, professional bondsman, alleged to have been paid for liquor unlawfully delivered to officers of the firm.

At the same time amended complaints seeking judgment for an amount of $27,526.24 from three defendants also were filed.

The liquor deliveries, according to the complaint, were made between November 1, 1927, and December 1, 1927. The original action was for $11,253, which, it was alleged, Hochfield owed the firm on money advanced in the purchase of stocks between May, 1926, and December, 1927.

The complaint sets forth that Hochfield violated the liquor delivery in violation of the law for the personal use of the officers and not for "any lawful corporate purpose." It is further contended that officers took money belonging to the firm to pay for the liquor.

Where Lindy Searched For Lost Maya Cities

It was over remote jungle areas like those on the Yucatan peninsula that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh conducted his aerial exploration in quest of lost cities of the ancient Maya Indians, whose remarkable civilization flourished 2000 years ago. Below, at the left, is the "Temple of the Serpent," excavated by the Mexican government, and at the right the "Temple of the Warriors," a Carnegie Institution excavation.

of schools, took exception to the guardianship procedure and endeavored to prove that such papers were issued just after La Grande protested.

A sharp debate ensued between La Grande and Baker officials when Baker introduced A. S. Grant, an attorney of that city, to present the legal end. The board ruled that testimony and records be kept within school officials and that legal advice was not permissible at a hearing between school teachers.

Officers at Port

Coleman, just prior to the start of the hearing, which was called to order by G. H. Conkley, principal of the Medford, Ore., high school, and a member of the board, sprang a surprise by eliminating the names of Crawford and Smith from the protested list.

"We will forfeit all games Baker has played with other schools in which Crawford and Smith have played," he said.

ANNEXATION OPPOSITION ENCOUNTERED

exclusion of industries from the proposed boundary extension, stating this was being unfair to the smaller taxpayer who has to pay an increased amount due to the tax exempt industries.

Regarding city water service for those living in the territory that would extend its lines in this sparsely settled area as mentioned in the La Grande Observer, without a bond issue on which the city as a whole would vote with the likelihood of its failure.

He also pointed out that a very negligible number in the affected district would immediately receive the $1 monthly saving in rates as mentioned at the chamber of commerce dinner.

Harvey Smith spoke regarding saving in insurance rates by coming into the city, stating that this was not correct as in his case, he now pays higher rates for property in the city than he does for his home place. He also took issue with City Manager W. C. Crews on his price of paving as quoted in The Observer.

Mr. Hunter spoke in reference to the object of the proposed annexation sponsored by the chamber of commerce, pointing out the advantages held by cities of 10,000 and more population, from a business and industrial standpoint, basing this view from examples of other cities which have increased their populations through annexation. He stressed the advantages of having institutions like the Normal school and the state highway shops in the

It is believed locally that the filing of rumors at Portland today by Mr. Towler was to justify the original investigation which led to the filing of the protest. Also, local people feel that the protest has been fully justified by the fact that Crawford and Smith, two of the men protested by La Grande, are admitted as ineligible by Baker, and have been withdrawn.

Towler traced the history from the La Grande angle and said he had heard insistent rumors that Baker had raised $500 for the subsidy of high school athletes, but Coach Scott, retaliating by declaring that under the tutorage of Coach Paul Schuster, Oregon State college mentor, he had been instructed "never to import athletes."

The board, consisting of Conkley, G. A. Robinson, of Milton-Freewater, and Roy Cannon, chairman, decided that the discussion would be limited to whether the protested players were eligible or ineligible and lodged a sharp rebuke when personalities were brought into the case between Coleman and Adams.

La Grande Plus Statement

In a written statement filed by the La Grande delegation in the Portland hearing today, eleven points were mentioned. In addition to the charges mentioned in the Associated Press story from Portland, it is charged that the players are ineligible under the meaning of the ruling because they have not earned one semester's credits in the Baker high school. It is pointed out that Baker entered one or more of these alleged ineligible students in the football games with Nyssa, Prairie City and Boise, although the players have failed to certify to the state board as eligible.

Point No. 4 said "that some or all of the above named players were induced to enter Baker high school for the purpose of playing football" and No. 7 says "That in no case did the parents of any of these above named football players move into the Baker high school district with them."

Point No. 8 states that letters of guardianship were issued to R. U. Frisbie, William North and to Rosa Perkins, and that these letters of guardianship were issued and filed on Oct. 23 after some or all of these players participated in football contests with other member high schools of the association and after they had been certified with one exception, on Oct. 22, as eligible to participate in a football game with La Grande high, and after the filing of La Grande's protest on Oct. 22.

Point No. 19 says: "That it is the general understanding in the city of Baker, as indicated by the press of that city and other sources, that the above players have been brought to Baker for the purpose of playing high school football; that they have been given jobs to provide for their support, and that in order to make them technically eligible the above mentioned letters of guardianship have been issued, based upon papers all of which bear the imprint of Attorney A. R. Grant."

city, the future value of which could not be estimated in bringing people to the city.

Commissioner's Position

Commissioner Playle stated the commissioner's position as neutral, saying that the city would do all it could to supply the affected district with water as soon as possible after inclusion. He pointed out the advantages of fire protection both for those inside and outside the city limits, stating that the fire engine have gone to fire outside of the city without charge.

He also said that the bonded indebtedness, which was approximately $171,000 when he became commissioner, has been increased since then to about $388,000 because of the necessity of building the present modern sewage disposal plant and improving the water system. He stated that the city's sewerage and water system compared with any city of its size and its water was on a par with Portland for purity.

He held that including of industries to the city by offers of free sites and taxes to be good business in giving increased employment to those here at present.

Mr. Salsbury said he would like to see it come to a vote, but that as far as he could see he was well enough of where he was.

Others spoke regarding employment by local industrial plants of out-of-state people, basing their remarks on the number of "foreign" cars parked at these places.

Mr. Bocher stated that it was unfair to the American workman striving to make a living for his family to place the burden of taxation on him while large industries were exempt in the community. Fred Bennett thanked Mr. Playle and Mr. Hunter for their presence and their explanation of the city and chamber of commerce negotiations. C. E. Shelton spoke regarding present high taxation in the city, taking as examples property owned by him at P. and W. The taxes and improvements of which are more than he will ever realize on the property. He thought a budget system for improvement would be more equitable and fair than the present direct tax on property.

A canvass of the meeting of 65 present showed two to be in favor of annexation. After the meeting light refreshments of coffee, sandwiches and cake were enjoyed by all.
