Hallow'e'en Party Is Given Friday By House Mother

Hallow'e'en was celebrated in Arno Old Boston style at the Casa de Servicio home last Friday evening at a party given by the house mother, Mrs. W. H. Russell, assisted by Helen Young.

Cats and witches hovered in each shadowy corner, while the deep, vibrant tones of the "Screech" read the guests' future as it appeared in her magic cards.

So enraptured was each young woman with her respective fortune that refreshments would have been omitted had not the fortune teller signified an intermission for them, and found them delectous.

The guests and hostess of this delightful evening were: Alice Azucena, Ida Walters, Grace Walters, Alta Langley, Gertrude Moore, Louise Crable, Vivian Beardon, Mable Elliott, Clara Estes, Lucy Williams, Gertrude Johnson, Marvin Albers, Esther White, Carmen Elford, Connie Leavitt, Beatrice Young and Mrs. Russell.

P.-T. Association Enjoys Program

More than one hundred persons attended the meeting of the Riveria P.-T. A. held last Friday at the Lane-chapel. A short business session, with the president, Mrs. Fred Gehring, presiding, was followed by an interesting program and social hour.

The sixth grade room of Miss Florence Smith won the $5 prize for the per cent of 88.47 membership, the highest in the school. This was a drive carried on in the school through the children. At the close of this drive Riveria P.-T. A. had 197 paid memberships. Mrs. Carolyn Carroll's seventh grade room won second prize of $2.50 with 82 per cent. Miss Moore was presented with the consolation prize. This drive aided the La Grande city council in its winning of the Gabriel medals, which cup for the second year in succession.

Miss Ruth Garrick, chairman of the picture committee, reported back of the pump and the chuck rib all are used and make excellent roasts of varying sizes.

Before putting a roast in the oven, wipe it well with a damp cloth—but do not put it in water. Cold water has a tendency to draw out the juices and also toughens the fibers of the meat.

An oven that is hot when the roast is first put in sears the entire surface of the meat and prevents the escape of the meat juices. The intense heat hardens the protein on the outside of the roast.

A self-basting or opening roaster can be used. No water should ever be added during the cooking process. The meat self-furnishes plenty of moisture and water causes loss of flavor.

Weight of Roast Important

It is important that the weight of the roast is known. Seasoning and time of roasting are reckoned according to weight. Allow 3 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper for each pound of meat. Fifteen to 20 minutes are allowed to the pound for roasting. A rolled roast which is most compact than a cut, containing bones requires 20 minutes to the pound. If the meat is to be rare, a standing rib roast needs only 15 minutes to the pound to be roasted rare. Twenty-five or 30 minutes to the pound produce well done roast.

After the first 15 minutes of roasting, reduce the heat of the oven. Preheat oven to 500 degrees F. This is hot enough for roasting. At the end of 15 minutes, the surface of the roast is well sealed to prevent the escape of the flavorful juices. Reduce heat to 350 to 375 degrees F. and roast for the required length of time. If a covered roaster is used, do not put on the cover until the heat is reduced.

Rub roast with salt and pepper mixed with a little flour when ready to put in the oven.

Refreshments were served during the delightful social hour with Mrs. Eugene Millering as chairman for the evening.

MENUS

By Sister Mary

Probably no meat is more universally popular than roast beef. The temperature is carefully watched and the time calculated, even a small roast proves satisfactory.

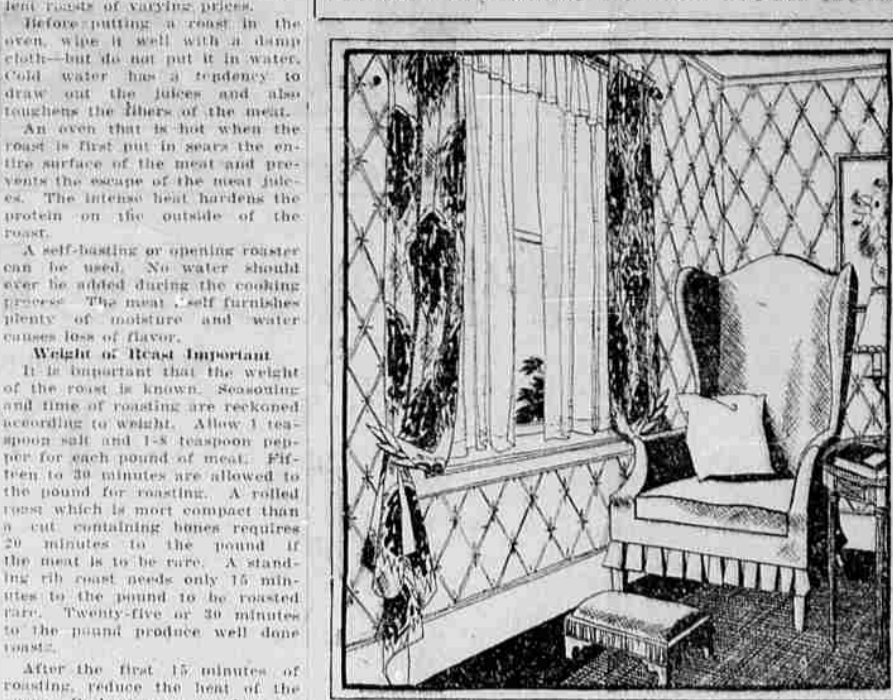

A fillet of beef or the tenderloin is the tenderest cut for a roast. It is also the highest in price, but there is no waste of any sort in home, pot roast or fat.

Next to the fillet, the best cuts for roasting are the porterhouse and "prime" rib cuts. Many discriminating people prefer these roasts to the expensive fillet, considering that they are more flavorful and juicy.

"Rolled Roast" Popular

When the bones are left in a rib roast it is called a "standing rib roast." Stripping the meat from the bones and rolling and tying the meat in shape produces the popular "rolled roast." The rolled roast is easier to carve, but the home flavor the meat and gravy. A middle cut of the sirloin, the

The living-room in this Colonial cottage is somewhat longer than usual, inasmuch as it serves as both a living room and solarium. The room at one end has exposure on three sides, insuring a most generous supply of fresh air and sunlight during all hours of the day and all seasons of the year. The other end of this room is devoted to an attractive fireplace, balanced by an arched opening, framed in a Colonial manner, leading to the dining room.

The floor plan is very compact and practical in all its parts. Access to the front door from the kitchen is short and direct as is also the rear door at grade level, from which entry, doors lead to the bathroom, toilet room and kitchen. One chimney serves the entire house.

The exterior walls are of silver gray with dark purple wood shingle roof and the brick chimney is

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

If You Were Lending Money What Would You Require?

If you had a few thousand or a few hundred dollars to lend, what kind of loans would you seek? Naturally you would not loan your hard-earned money to just anybody who might want it—you'd rather pick and choose a little.

Wouldn't you insist that your loan be made only to someone who possessed something of sufficient value so that you could be protected in an emergency? Someone who had shown his ability to handle money wisely by already accumulating a little property? Someone who had already proved a reasonable ability to repay you by saving in the past. Someone who had demonstrated the ability to make money and, at the same time, to spend less than he made?

Your requirements would be very much along this line if you were making a loan, we are sure, because you would know that the person who can handle his or her own money well, can probably handle yours well, too.

Reasonable loans are always quickly secured by people who have guarded their credit, who have built confidence by handling their money properly, whether it be a $25 a week income or a million dollar capital. Your credit may be strengthened and increased by friendly counsel with your banker.
