The Army has conducted a search for a new color and tried to the gridiron as any outfit over a considerable span of years, with such stars as Merrill, McKean, Gersbach, "Light Horse Harry" Wilson, among others. That it will be some time before the "Knickerbocker" exact the combination of Jones and Cagle—Captain "Biff" the coach, and Chris the redhead. These two wind up a glamorous four years at West Point this season. Jones to take another post in the regular course of Army events and Cagle to seek his career. In no other period of Army football history has the coach coached such a plethora of popularity or attracted such nationwide attention as he has during the reign of Jones. Although it rubs the football world of one of its best, spectators for the time being the break with the Navy east West Point building in prestige. Another it served to enhance the Army's reputation on the gridiron, for the "Knickerbocker" and his supporters covering a wider range than ever before as a direct result of the split with the Knickerbocker. Nevertheless it would have suited Messers Jones and Cagle better if the famous breach between the two academies had been avoided or healed quicker than has been possible. Jones introduced Cagle in a running mate for Wilson in 1924 when the academics played their celebrated 21-21 tie at Chili. The same pair starred in the Army's 14-3 victory over the Navy in the last service classic in 1927 at the Polo Grounds. Knickerbocker has sought to lay a hand on the redhead since then. End from the Annapolis point of view that may have been all for the best.

knickerbocker of the title door for a second time. Some 25,000 persons, according to a note of between $25,000 and $30,000, will be in attendance to see Walker in his final fight. The fight is expected to be a championship or semi-championship in the main, in the main of those who have tried and failed. Different in their ring styles, each however, an old-fashioned "batter" in the usual analysis. Walker is the better boxer and harder puncher. Hudkins maintains the "knickerbocker" nerve in steady to the ultimate end of wearing down his opponents. A month's training grind had put both champions and challenger in the peak of physical condition. There will be no rest from either side. Those who back their opinion with money have made Walker a 10-8 favorite, although in some quarters they stand up even. It will be Walker's third defense of the title since he won it from "Tiger" Flowers in 1926. In 1927 he knocked out Tommy Milligan in London and last year edged out the champion over Hudkins. Each is supremely confident. Hudkins is the extent of deriding the future as "the middleweight champ." Walker has confidence is equally determined he will retain his championship. Now normally scaling over the middleweight limit, Walker was down to 162 pounds yesterday. A "fighting" weight was expected to be maintained without difficulty, to the proper poundage. Hudkins is a legitimate middleweight and tips the beam well under the limit.
