BAKER'S PAPER OBJECTS

Baker Democrat-Herald—"While I do not wish to charge the board with wrongdoing I feel confident that two members knew they were going to 'soak' Baker before the hearing began. The unfairness of the rulings speak for themselves. No comment is needed. That the board worded its decision so as to give a public impression that Baker had been convicted of all charges, yet lacked the courage to declare the contested men ineligible convinces me that they knew in their hearts that the players were eligible on the grounds contested and purposely left the matter ambiguous so as to have a hole to crawl into if their decree was contested in the courts. That Baker innocently played either one or two men in the Prairie City and Nyssa games whose eligibility was later questioned by alleged failure to make certain credits in Corvallis and Salem respectively, gives the board a chance later to say that this was what it penalized Baker for if that becomes desirable. This violation if it occurred was purely technical and involved no wrongful intent. This was recognized by everyone at the hearing as the record will show. In the meantime the impression goes out that Baker was convicted of a far more serious offense.

"What are we to do about it? I have no recommendation to make. It will depend on the attitude of the people, which seems to be 'plenty hot.' The fact that we have been wronged does not necessarily give us a right of appeal to the courts, but there are probably three or four points from which such a fight could be launched if the community wants to do it. The fact that we have been wronged and have a legal remedy does not mean that we necessarily ought to avail ourselves of it. That will depend upon the attitude of various interests, parents and guardians of the boys, the school board, business and civic groups and individual citizens. That is for them to determine. My job is to give the people the facts they are entitled to have before they do anything.

"In the meantime La Grande has won her fight. The Baker football team, which perhaps could not have been defeated on the gridiron, has been put out of business by order of an athletic committee. Regardless of what is done we will in all probability be unable to play any schools that are members of the state association this year. We are out of the Eastern Oregon championship race. It is customary for the losers to extend congratulations to the winner of a hard fought battle, and on behalf of the people of Baker The Democrat-Herald congratulates our neighbor city on her victory. We trust it will be worth to her what it has cost and will cost."

The above is a portion of the editorial comment of Mr. Mainwaring in the Baker Democrat-Herald yesterday following the protest decision by the state board Saturday. He does not "wish to charge the board with wrongdoing" but says that the "board worded its decision so as to give a public impression that Baker had been convicted of all charges, yet lacked the courage to declare the contested men ineligible."

We are sorry to see the Baker paper thus charge the state board with an unfair decision, to raise the cry of "dirty deal." It is quite possible that the state board may have acted wrongly—equally possible that they may have acted rightly. The important thing is that the state board is a properly delegated authority to decide such matters for the state association of which the Baker school was a member.

It is unfortunate that the Baker paper is not good sport enough to accept the decision, wronged as it may feel, and let the matter drop. Unintentional violations of a rule, if such they were, do not make the rule less binding. Baker may justly feel that her school is the goat in a test case of eligibility but her people should also feel, as we believe many of them do, that scholastic athletics in the state have been well served by this airing of eligibility regulations and practices in the interest of better, more sportsmanlike competition, that the state board's authority shall be recognized and a new start made.

The sorry thing in the whole matter is this printed opinion of the Baker paper that two members of the state board were determined "to soak Baker" before the evidence was presented. That is serious, ill advised. We hope that a retraction of this statement can be made when the Baker editor has had time to give sober, thoughtful consideration to its unfortunate implications.

Health Talks

YOUR CHILD'S BIRTHRIGHT

By Edward Sheppard Oliver, M. D., New York City, New York.

The men who have done big things in life have done so largely because a lack of good had been prepared in childhood. The rugged outdoor life of Lincoln's early days undoubtedly gave him the strength and endurance without which he might have faded in his great task. Roosevelt's early years in the open without question gave him physical strength to prosecute so successfully the tremendous projects of his career.

President Hoover, as president of the American Child Health Association, gave the child's bill of rights, and I can do no better than quote what he has said: "The ideal to which we should strive is that there shall be no child in America that has not been born under proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever suffers from undernourishment, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health; that there shall be no child that has not the complete brightness of a sound mind in a sound body and the encouragement to express in the fullest measure the spirit within, which is the final endowment of every human being."

be healthy, the overcoming of handicaps and the avoidance of mental or physical weakness can be today's gift to a triumphant tomorrow. And these are nowhere more readily obtained than by the regular annual visit to that excellent friend, the family doctor. The well child is a happy child; he is alert, he eats with appetite, plays with keen enjoyment and sleeps soundly. The reverse also is true; the irritable, unhappy, head-bobbing youngster is not in normal health. We need more and more to get happiness into health, through play and sports and achievement that enriches with music and beauty and color, heroism, the love of nature, the love of mankind, the love of God.

President Hoover, as president of the American Child Health Association, gave the child's bill of rights, and I can do no better than quote what he has said:

"The ideal to which we should strive is that there shall be no child in America that has not been born under proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever suffers from undernourishment, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health; that there shall be no child that has not the complete brightness of a sound mind in a sound body and the encouragement to express in the fullest measure the spirit within, which is the final endowment of every human being."

Man Who Witnessed Assassination Dies

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22 (AP)—Dr. John B. Robinson, a major in the Union army during the Civil war, who ministered to Abraham Lincoln as staff physician to the war time president, died Saturday at the Young Men's veterans' home, it became known yesterday. He was 94.

Dr. Robinson was a witness to the tragic events of April 15, 1865, when the president was shot as he sat in his box at Ford's theater in Washington and when the president lay on his death bed. Dr. Robinson was at his side.

COOKING experts are using their ingenuity to develop delicious methods of preparing vegetables. A well-known expert furnishes us this recipe for Polish Beets:
Peel 12 small cooked beets and mince fine with a fork. Put in a saucepan and sprinkle with a tablespoon of sugar. Add a tablespoon of vinegar, 1 tablespoon of salt and pepper and heat. Melt 2 tablespoons of butter and blend with it 1 tablespoon of flour. Stir this into the mixture. Add 1/2 cup sour cream and heat.
Whatever recipe you are using and whatever vegetable you are cooking, try adding a dash of sugar for a new, enjoyable flavor. This is an old secret recently rediscovered. It is not the purpose of the sugar to make the vegetables taste sweet. The dash of sugar brings out the delicate flavors of the foods and blends these with the seasonings used. Sugar is the master blender and the supreme condiment. It is the right hand of the cookery.
Serve a varied, balanced diet—at least two cooked vegetables and at least two fruits daily. See that each member of your family drinks milk and eats milk desserts. You can often make meats more appetizing by adding a dash of sugar while cooking. Use a dash of sugar to improve meat gravies, sauces and soups. Learn the art of serving colorful and satisfying desserts. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.
