THE KING CROWNED—So then, after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God.—Mark 16:19.

Abe Martin

Those who've seen Lionel Kites' fourth wife say she can be painted to look all right. Kites' former wife is depicted in an office as a week to plain fingers, an $8 a week an' gas to fancy shorters.

BETTER BAKING? OF COURSE!

THIS TEST PROVES IT! How would you like to improve all your home baking? Here's a way. To show how possible it is, make this simple test: Use Sperry Drifted Snow Flour in this delightful muffin recipe. Note the finer results. Drifted Snow—the West's largest selling flour—will improve everything you bake. Follow directions carefully.

2 cups sifted flour 1 well-beaten egg
4 level teaspoons 1 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar 2 1/2 teaspoons of melted shortening
2 tablespoons salt 1 teaspoon salt

Sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Beat egg well, add milk. Then gradually add this mixture to dry ingredients beating until smooth. Add shortening. Half fill well-greased muffin pans and bake about 20 minutes in a hot oven (425°).

OK

Well, at least one thing seems sure. People will be mighty careful about inviting Brookhart to dinner after this.

Although no membership drive is being undertaken in Union county this year, there are many people who value the opportunity to get a membership in the national Red Cross and thus have a small part in the fine service of this organization. Sherwood Williams is receiving the dollar fee as local chairman. If you "have a heart and a dollar," you can show both to excellent advantage by Red Cross enrollment.

DETERRENTS TO VOTING

France polls from 85 to 90 per cent of her qualified vote at her national elections, yet Americans have been told times without number that French politics are of the comic-opera variety. Of France it is said that her representation is ill-adjusted, that the ballot is complicated, that no one places any confidence in the integrity of her politicians. Nevertheless, France gets out on election day about 40 per cent more of her vote than does the United States, and it is said of the United States that representation is usually well-adjusted, politics serious, the ballot simple and public confidence in politicians not unduly shaky. If comic-opera politics, unequal representation, a complicated ballot and tinpot statesmen are deterrents to voting, the figures seem to indicate that American politics is from three to four times as bad as French. Perhaps French politics has reformed since its unenviable reputation was earned. If it has, the credit most likely belongs to the civic consciousness of the people as reflected in the large vote. From this Americans who scold the government and slander the politicians, but who avoid the polls as though they exerted some contaminating influence, might take a cue.

GRUNDY'S AMAZING THEORY

The attitude of some high-powered industrialists toward the country as a whole has never been put more frankly and more brutally than by Joseph R. Grundy, the Pennsylvania high-tariff lobbyist, in his testimony before a senate committee.

Grundy, vexed because the wishes of Pennsylvania industry are being blocked by a coalition of western and southern senators, declared that agricultural states, which lack large manufacturing interests and are consequently rather cool toward extensive tariff increases, are "backward" and ought not to have as much representation in the senate as industrial states like Pennsylvania.

The small states, said Grundy, "haven't any chips in the game," and ought to be content to keep still when the tariff is being discussed, letting their brethren from the big manufacturing states settle matters for them.

Grundy has long been known as the country's leading exponent of a high tariff. Apparently no height would be too great to suit him. His views, consequently, are not especially surprising. They are worth noticing, however, in that they express a viewpoint held by a good many powerful people.

This viewpoint is that industry is all-important. Dividends must be protected, at no matter what cost. No one is competent even to discuss such matters except one who has large industrial interests.

Such an attitude, of course, is an utter negation of democracy. Our country was founded on the theory that human rights are all-important. If Grundy is right, our whole democratic system is wrong.
