

CLUB GIRLS, BOYS GUESTS AT BANQUET

Chamber of Commerce Host at Recognition Dinner Given Last Night.

STATE LEADER IS AMONG SPEAKERS

Prize Fat Steer, Which Sold at 18 Cents in Portland, Served to Crowd of 225.

Two hours of more 4-H boys and girls, most of them winners of awards at the Oregon state fair, the Pacific International livestock exposition or the Eastern Oregon livestock show, were guests with their parents and club leaders at a Union county chamber of commerce recognition banquet last evening in the La Grande hotel ball room.

To the younger guests, the dinner gave assurance that the business men of this community are supporting their school and patriotic efforts in their club work and to the older guests, the gathering was proof positive that the youth of Oregon and the nation is "growing better and better every day."

225 in Attendance

In all, about 225 were in attendance at the banquet, which opened at 7 o'clock with the singing of "America," directed by George Birnie, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Birnie.

The fat steer, which stood second in its class at the Pacific International livestock exposition at Portland this fall, raised by Lloyd Mills, of Cove, and purchased through the chamber of commerce by the Grande Foods Meat company at 18 cents a pound, was the main item on the menu—and those in attendance found the prize-winning meat tasty and satisfying. The idea of purchasing the finest fat steer shown at the U. I. from Union county clubs was born in the minds of J. E. Mills and F. A. Epling and when proposed to the chamber of commerce, was met with hearty approval, and A. R. Hunter, secretary, was sent to Portland to bid on the animal.

Club Leader Speaks

"This will reach farther than Union county or the state of Oregon—it will receive widespread recognition over the nation," said H. C. Seymour, main speaker of the evening, who complimented the boys and girls of Oregon and particularly Union county, for their wonderful achievements in 4-H clubwork. Mr. Seymour, who is state club leader with headquarters at Corvallis, pointed out that there are 14,000 clubworkers over Oregon and that their work this year will run well over $200,000 at market quotations. He paid a high tribute to Clayton Fox, of Imbler, for his leadership, and complimented the parents of clubworkers and particularly Union county, for their wonderful achievements in 4-H clubwork. Dr. Bouvy Speaks At Rotary Club

Members of the La Grande Rotary club listened to an interesting account of Dr. Leo B. Bouvy's recent trip into the Midwest and east at today's luncheon in the La Grande hotel. Dr. Bouvy mentioned the nature of the work done at Rochester, Minn., calling attention to the fact that fees were not a person's wealth and that no one was refused medical care because he lacked money. He also gave an account of his visits in Chicago, New York and Atlantic City.

Tigers and Pioneers To Battle For Championship Here Saturday

Mac-Hi, the only team that now stands between La Grande high and an Eastern Oregon championship, will invade this city Saturday and by 5 o'clock that evening, having a tie, either the Milton-Freewater school will have won three straight championships or La Grande will have its first clear title since the days when Charles Reynolds used to coach the Tigers, known under a different name then, however.

Mac-Hi Strongest on Dope

On comparative scores, Mac-Hi has a margin of two touchdowns over the Tigers, having defeated Pendleton 12 to 6 compared with La Grande's 7 to 6 victory. Mac-Hi is known to have a smooth, powerful offense and a very strong defense and would be nobody's set-up in any high school championship game, observers say.

Loss of Evans Hurts Chances

Bob Evans, La Grande's crack halfback and one of the best open field runners and tacklers in this section, is injured. It is doubtful whether he will be recovered sufficiently to witness Saturday's game, although some of his friends predict that he will be there to cheer his team in spite of three cracked and one broken ribs. Evans' loss to the team is a serious one, particularly coming as it does before the big game of the season.

The foyer will be decorated at each end with a silk damask banner hung on a wrought iron pole.

In the auditorium the organ grills will be backed up with a gold and damask, while an automobile curtain of damask will give the interior a touch of rich color. The carpets have a rich red as the predominant color in a large, attractive pattern. The buffet room is arranged in keeping with the

Mercury Slumps To New Minimum

All East—Oregon in Cold Wave—Below Zero in Rocky Mountains.

Eastern Oregon is in the grip of its first cold wave of the fall season today, with the official mercury dropping to a minimum of 18 above, two degrees colder than the night before. At 7:30 o'clock this morning the temperature was only 19 above and blankets were being used freely by motorists to keep their cars from freezing up.

Bright sunshine yesterday failed to bring the temperature higher than 42 above, just 10 degrees from freezing point, and when the sun dropped behind the hills late yesterday, the mercury took a corresponding drop. The 8:15 train left clear this morning but another chilly day is in store.

Ice has formed on lakes and the slower creeks over the valley and the cold weather is keeping snow that fell over the weekend, intact in the mountains, where near zero weather was reported.

Waker reported a minimum of 12 above yesterday, while Pendleton's figure was 19 above, both colder than the 20 registered here yesterday.

20 Below in Montana

DENVER, Nov. 13 (AP)—Excessive cold and heavy snow in the past few days in the Rocky mountain region caused one death, several injuries and some persons arrested for giving rise to some apprehension for the sugar beet harvest.

The coldest temperature was an official report yesterday from the Gallatin canyon near Bozeman, Mont., where the thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero. A five-inch snowfall accompanied the cold. Temperatures generally in Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

Mrs. H. L. Winn In Southern Pacific Robbery, Wreck

Mrs. H. L. Winn, after spending a pleasant two weeks in Los Angeles with her daughter, Mrs. C. M. Coombs, had an unusual experience on her return trip—she was a passenger on the Southern Pacific train which was wrecked and robbed.

She began her return trip last Sunday and was a little distance from Los Angeles when a crash was heard, and the train was violently shaken. The car just ahead of hers was derailed along with four others and the engine. The only person injured in the wreck was the engineer who was seriously injured, but is expected to recover.

Bandits had stopped the train in order to rob it. One of the men came into the car where Mrs. Winn was and ordered them to be quiet, but didn't take anything. It was estimated that about $500 was taken from the rear car. After the event, Mrs. Winn was interviewed by detectives and newspaper reporters, giving them a description of the bandit she had seen.

"It was a very interesting and thrilling experience," and I'm glad not to have any injuries after it," she said this morning when she arrived in La Grande.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Arthur Curtis James, largest stockholder of railroad securities in the world, was the first witness today in the hearing by the interstate commerce commission of the petition of the Great Northern and Western Pacific railroads to connect their lines in northeastern California.

Mr. James was immediately put on the stand and, after identifying himself, read a prepared statement, setting forth his reasons for moving in support of the petition.

He said that it had been his dream to participate in actual railroad development of northern California and the Pacific northwest, and he believed the transportation and industrial situation in central and northern California presents an opportunity for constructive work along the line of the Great Northern and Western Pacific project.

The issue is the right of the Western Pacific and the Great Northern to construct a 200-mile
