A DOUBLE QUESTION—If ye have not been faithful in the unchristian manner, who will commit to your trust the true riches? And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?—Luke 16:11, 12.

An auto driver with no life insurance is neglecting his family when he admires the scenery.

The man who stole a truck load of turkeys must have a tremendous family reunion in prospect for Thanksgiving.

A decrease in the income tax rate is the latest administration proposal. If Hoover can hurry that farm board into effective action, he will start his second year in office with wide acclaim.

"I end my life because it seems not only futile, but wrong, to go on existing. . . . Everything has been discord when I long for harmony." So reads an 18-year-old girl's suicide note. She failed to realize that an individual gets out of life just what is put in. It is futile for those whose efforts and vision are futile. It is discordant only to those who will not put themselves in tune. It promises no millennium, no Utopia. And what an uninteresting thing life would be if it did!

Headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars issues a bulletin warning all ex-service men who have not yet applied for their adjusted compensation certificates that the time limit for such applications is Jan. 1. Twice in the past Congress has extended the limit, but the V. F. W. doubts that this will be done again. There are still more than a million World War veterans who have not applied for their certificates. The average certificate is worth about $1000, giving the veteran a paid-up 20-year endowment insurance policy. Ex-service men who wish to take advantage of this opportunity and have not yet done so have only about six weeks left in which to act.

Winning the football game with Milton-Freewater tomorrow is the all-absorbing topic among high school students today. Their enthusiasm, their school spirit is a joy to see—and hear. No one who experiences it can fail to appreciate the benefits of athletic competition in our education system. It is an enthusiasm that is carried into every classroom, every school activity. More important still is the emphasis it places on hospitality, unity of effort, sportsmanship. No one realizes better than La Grande high school students that playing the game is as significant as winning it. There's going to be a lot of both tomorrow. For those sedate and dignified adults who would renew their youth with a vengeance tomorrow, we urge that they go to the field early and carry muffs for weak ears. The student body will be there one hundred per cent, and our guess is that the rest of the town will be fairly well deserted, too. It is the championship contest of the season and La Grande is out to win.

It is hard to realize the extent to which the remote places of the earth are coming under the influence of modern civilization—until you read that the lost Canadian airmen, missing for weeks on a lonely island within the Arctic Circle, were found because an Eskimo, listening in on his radio, heard that they were missing somewhere in his vicinity, and went out to hunt for them.

Of all the places on the earth where you would expect to find life running its placid course much as it used to in prehistoric times, an Eskimo's igloo in the far north would be the first. Yet, if these early reports are correct, the radio set—most characteristic of all features of our modern life—has gone to the northland, and the slant-eyed denizen of the land of eternal snows is rapidly imbibing at least the surface developments of the unknown lands to the south of him.

Whether we like it or not, that is the way things are going. The remote places are not so remote, now. Go to darkest Africa and you are apt to stumble over a flyover. Fly to the South Sea islands and you will find the movies there ahead of you. Go to the Arctic and you find radio sets. There is no escaping from our factory civilization.

Perhaps this helps to explain our increasing attitude of confidence and assurance. There are not many mysteries left for us. The man who lived a hundred years ago knew that most of the earth's surface was still little-known, existing after the manner of its forgotten ancestors; and the knowledge impressed upon him the fact that the earth was full of surprises. But the surprises, now, are gone.

What use to seek knowledge far afield, when you will find the same things there you are used to at home?

About the only bargain I know of is a used cruiser, but there's so many things the average family needs for a cruise. One of the finest things about Florida is that when you hang a screen door you're thro' with it for life.
