pany warehouse by 11 growers during yesterday were graded by L. J. Bell, association grader. Half of the birds were packed in boxes while the remainder were packed in crates in the refrigerator car.

"Mr. Bell stated that three-fifths of the Baker county turkeys were exceptionally good, while the remaining two-fifths were exceptionally poor. He added that some growers were careless in dressing the birds.

The prices previously advertised were as follows: Young fawns, 22 cents; hens, 20 cents; old toms, 27 cents; No. 2 birds 16 cents, less in each classification. Striking an average price of 27 cents per pound the 40,000 pounds of turkeys would bring to Baker county growers a total of $10,800.

Visit Daughter
Members of the Andrew Blokland family drove to Nyssa, Oregon recently and visited with their daughter and sister, Rev. Joseph Blokland who is serving now as pastor of the Methodist church in that place. Miss Blokland likes her new charge very much, as does Miss Cone her work in the parsonage. The congregation is encouraging the parsonage to accommodate the three ladies who have lived together for several years. Miss Blokland, Miss Cone and Miss Aubin, the latter a former pastor at Imbler. Miss Aubin has been quite ill, but is reported as being much better and busier.

STRENUOUS TIMES SIXTY YEARS AGO FOR POLITICS

Ten years of his young manhood days ex-Governor T. T. Geer spent on his father's farm east of Coville, the home of the C. N. Ogilvie family. Mr. Geer is remembered by many of the older residents of this section today. A story of some of the political strife of the early days in this locality is very interesting as excerpts from Mr. Geer's book, "Sixty Years in Oregon," give glimpses of it.

Public interest was intense and party feeling was running high when the Democrats had made arrangements to start a paper in La Grande about the first of May, 1868, in order more successfully to spread the gospel of democracy. The Republicans, not to be outdone, by a little bustling and pushing on the part of a few, succeeded in obtaining a sum of money sufficiently large to purchase a piece of their own and announced a paper in the "near future."

By some delay in the matter of freight delivery, the Democrats were unable to issue the first number of the "Democrat Sentinel" until the Republican rival, the "Blue Mountain Times," had presented itself and taken the prize of the first newspaper venture in eastern Oregon. This was very humiliating to the Democrats, but they made the fair try a few weeks later.

The debating society in Cove the previous winter preferred political questions as subjects for discussion. Before the campaign opened the Cove debaters were in good trim as a result of any debatable problem that appeared to be afflicting the public mind. In Cove, the first newspaper venture in eastern Oregon. This was very humiliating to the Democrats, but they made the fair try a few weeks later.

Take Wire From Cow's Heart; She Will Recover

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 22.—A stab in the heart is generally considered equivalent to a call for the coroner, but not so in the bovine world. A valuable dairy cow in the college's herd has just been operated on successfully for removal of a piece of wire that had worked through the stomach and penetrated the heart itself.

The animal was observed to lose appetite and become what is known as a chronic "light color" and then to show symptoms of heart disturbance. Imagining the trouble, the college veterinary staff operated through the stomach and took out a six-inch length of halber wire, one end of which had worked through the stomach wall and into the heart muscle.

"This operation is not new, though it is a fairly recent development in veterinary science," explained Dr. R. T. Simons, head of the department here. "Most dairymen, however, are ignorant of the fact that the modern veterinarian, and hence less valuable animals that could be saved."

"A cow is such a voracious eater that it is not uncommon at all for her to eat nails, pieces of wire or other hard substances carelessly allowed to get in her feed," he continued. "These stay in the stomach sometimes for months and then under some unusual strain, such as milking, work through the stomach wall. Unless relief is given soon the animal will die. About 70 per cent of the cases, taken in time, however, are being saved."

Severe Winter Would Create Feed Problem

The livestock are able to secure some extra feed until the snow comes too deep and the straw has rotted from fall moisture.

"Continued fair weather and mild winds have proved a great aid to the work of putting the surface on a stretch of road east of town by the county road building crew which has been engaged here for the past three or four weeks. Three large trucks are busy hauling material from the serving plant on the C. W. Mumford farm and according to those in charge, the job will be finished some time the latter part of this month.

Poultry Meet Shows Increase In Interest

The attendance last evening at the poultry meeting at Imbler showed an increase both in attendance and interest, according to those who were present. Seventeen poultry men and women gathered in the gymnasium at the Imbler high school, where the round table discussions are being held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week under the direction of Professor Don Stewart.

The discussion last evening centered around the feeding problem. Some of those present were users of commercial feeds and believed most thoroughly in them, while others were using home prepared feeds and had found that arrangement most satisfactory. The study of the evening does not take the form of a lecture, but rather a topical discussion in which all participate. County Agent Wray Lawrence and Albert Hunter, secretary of the county chamber of commerce, were present last evening and each spoke briefly.

On next Tuesday evening the subject to be considered is that of housing. The meeting starts at 8 o'clock, closes promptly at 9:30, and the meeting is open to all who are interested, the object being merely the improvement of the poultry raising business in this valley.

Had Suffered 15 Years, She Says

"I suffered for fifteen years until life hardly seemed worth living, but thanks to Sargol I'm now well and strong again."

MRS. G. F. NEFF

"Illness and constipation kept me ailing almost continually. Even the simplest foods brought on spells of nausea and I had a terrible sick headache. I had a tired, aching feeling all the time, and all my strength and ambition seemed to leave me. I slept but little.

"I tried medicines until I was discouraged, but when I got Sargol I soon knew I had found the right medicine at last. I eat heartily now without a sign of indigestion. Sargol Soft Mass Pills gave me lasting relief from illness and constipation. Headaches are a thing of the past, and I'm full of new strength and energy, and in the finest health I've been in fifteen years. I'm telling all my friends about Sargol."—Mrs. G. F. Neff, 1045 Commercial St., Portland.
