ALL-STAR COAST TEAM SELECTED

Associated Press Mythical Eleven Selected by 25 Football Experts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3 (AP)—Out of the huddle 11 young stalwarts stepped to the line of scrimmage today as the outstanding football players on the Pacific coast in 1929, a consensus compiled by the Associated Press revealed yesterday. More than 29 officials, coaches and sports writers of the west aided in the selections.

Out of a speedy, fighting aggregation of linemen and best backfield men winning berths on the mythical all-coast team, Rex Riegels, California captain and center, loomed above them all. After committing one of football's biggest "boners" last New Year's day in Pasadena, Riegels came back this season as reflected in the votes of the experts. Twenty-three out of 25 placed him at center.

Two of Riegels' teammates, Benjie Lom, halfback, and Schwarz, guard, were also given positions on the all-coast eleven. Stanford was represented on the team by one man, Don Muller, captain and end.

Out of the north galloped Merle Hufford of Washington as halfback, Austin Gilbert of Oregon, tackle, and Elmer Schwartz of Washington State college in the fullback position.

George Ackerman, St. Mary's tackle, placed on the first string eleven, while the University of Southern California is represented by Marshall Dorfled, quarterback; Francis Tappan, end, and Nate Lawrence, guard. Three other members of the mythical gridiron squad came from the northwest, three from the south and five from the San Francisco bay area, while California placed three on the team.

The new senator from Kansas asks Senator Caraway of Arkansas to speak so that he might understand him. Mr. Caraway replied that he didn't expect to live that long. This choice reply is just for your own use; free, if you're ever in a similar situation.

If your barber is strangely silent, he's probably been lobbing some flapper's hair.

He: "Don't you think it's getting chilly?"
She (resigning): "Oh, all right, go ahead and put your arm around me."

The fellow who wants to see you as a master of life or death may be only a life insurance agent.

He (discussing present day fair-socks): "I can't for the life of me see what keeps women from freezing. The president is taking steps to put the post office on a self-supporting basis... We have a gloomy feeling that they are going to substitute some skeletons from the dumps.

ing to death."
She (blushing): "I don't think you are supposed to see."
