Colonial Party Event of Evening

A quaint colonial party was given last night by the committee of the Young Women's Educational auxiliary in the basement of the Methodist church. Of special interest was the stage set as a room in an old colonial home, with wall hangings, and other novelties of an age long passed.

Two delightful readings were given by Miss Mary Vaughn Hendrickson dressed as a "puckaniny." Mrs. W. P. McAdory attired in hoop skirts, and a lovely white wig, read, "Christmas in the Valley," a true story by Corra Harris. She sat at a table in the center of the stage, with members of the committee dressed in colonial costumes, seated in the background.

Dainty refreshments were served by the committee at two long tables, set in the theme of colonial days. Following refreshments a quartet, Mrs. Claude Cooper, Mrs. R. P. Tyler, William Hall, and Vergil Koeheneberger, sang three selections, including, "Swanee River," and "Old Black Joe." The third song was a Negro spiritual. Mrs. Dilly Millering was in charge of the program with the following assisting her: Mrs. K. A. Epling, Miss Mina Cooper, Mrs. Lela Hutchison, Mrs. Othello Webb, Mrs. Zola Tucker, and Miss Vina Conley.

In January the motif will be a trip to Alaska, with Tona Harriman in charge, with Norma Mac-gregor, Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Mabel Morton, Miss Alice Klippel, and Miss Kathryn Moran, assisting.

PUTMAN'S Ready-to-Wear and Millinery

IS YOUR CHRISTMAS LIST FINISHED? ONLY THREE WEEKS LEFT!

AVOID THE USELESS ..GIFT..

Don't let your family or friends say: "Oh, I wish he had spent the money on something I could USE!"

Regardless of other things, you can't afford two kinds of Christmas gifts — you can't afford cheap and shoddy gifts, and you can't afford impractical gifts.

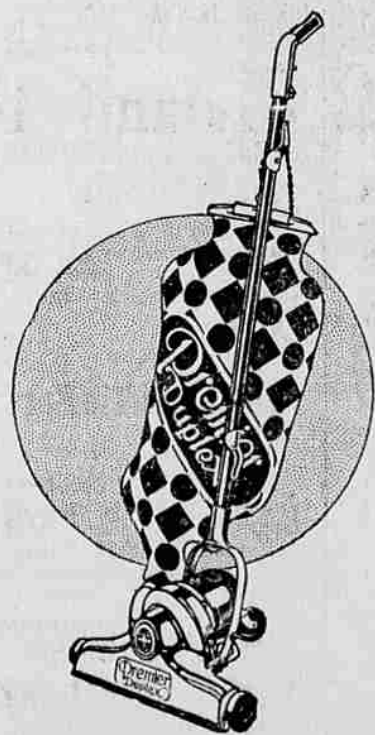

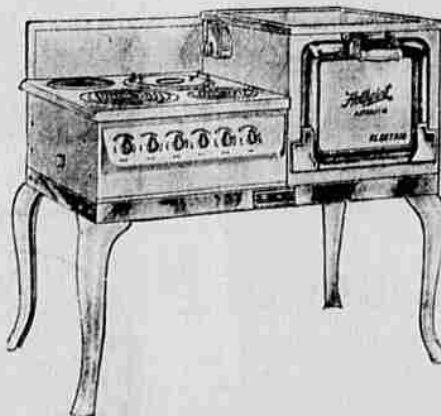

And that means that people who like to have their gifts appreciated are particular to give things they would like to have for themselves. That's the real test — and, of course, it's the test you naturally use in buying electrical gifts, which so perfectly combine usefulness and beauty.

Look for a name you know when buying — Westinghouse, Universal, Graybar, Hot-Point. Electrical goods bearing a nationally advertised name are safe in quality, safe in value. It's a rule you should apply whether you're buying a beautiful new range for Mother or a bright curling iron for daughter.

BUY YOUR ELECTRICAL GIFTS GRADUALLY— Small Down Payments

Here in our big showroom you'll find a score of electrical gift suggestions — dependable quality that's guaranteed — and usefulness that'll outlast a dozen ordinary gifts. Small and inexpensive gifts or the substantial gift that the family can join in giving.

See them now at your leisure — and pay gradually for any selections you wish to make. We'll hold and deliver any purchase with a moderate down payment. You take care of the balance at your leisure if that's more convenient than cash. We welcome your account.
