1930 BUDGET IS PRESENTED TO CONGRESS—(Continued from Page 1)
In his discussion of taxes, Mr. Hoover said the government would have a surplus of $225,581,534 at the end of the present (1930) fiscal year.
"Of the current fiscal year 1930 there is a marked improvement over the financial situation as estimated in the budget for 1930, transmitted to congress in December, 1928," he said. "Compared with the estimate of one year ago receipts show an increase of about $408,000,000 and the expenditures about $243,000,000. On the receipt side the increase in the estimate is reflected generally in the income tax, $205,000,000, due to an estimated normal increase in the income reported by individuals for 1928 and to this exceedingly prosperous business year.
"With an estimated surplus of over $225,000,000 this year and $122,000,000 next year it is felt that some measure of reduction in taxes is justified. Since the fiscal year 1921 four tax reduction bills have been made. Experience has shown that each reduction in taxes has resulted in revenue in excess of the mathematically computed return under the reduced rates.
"Add to Business—Undoubtedly an increase in the prosperity of business brought forth by tax reduction is partly responsible for this experience. Such reduction gives the taxpayer correspondingly more for his own use and thus increases the capital available for general business. Under the present circumstances I am in favor of a reduction in income taxes to be effective on returns for the calendar year 1929, which will be due March 15, 1930. Payments under these returns will be made during the last half of the current year fiscal year 1929 and the first half of the coming fiscal year 1930 so that the reduction will be reflected in the two years for which we now anticipate a surplus.
"I, therefore, recommend that taxes upon incomes for the calendar year 1929 be reduced in the approximate sum of $160,000,000. I would suggest to congress that this be effected, as recommended by the secretary of the treasury, by reducing by 1 per cent the rate of the normal tax on the incomes of individuals and corporations, applicable to 1529 incomes and payable in the calendar year 1929. This will afford either directly or indirectly relief to the maximum number of taxpayers. Our effort will be to conduct our financial requirements so as to continue the benefits of reduced taxation for succeeding years. It would not, however, at this time be safe to extend the period of the reduction. A year hence we will know more definitely whether the condition of our finances justifies a continuation or extension of the reduction.
Finances Sound—"Our finances are in sound condition. The public debt, which at its peak in August, 1919, amounted to $26,596,000,000, stood at $16,341,000,000 on June 30, 1929. We are wisely committed to a policy which insures the further progressive reduction of the debt. We will reach in 1931 for the first time the period when the annual reduction required by law in the principal of the debt will be greater than the annual interest charges in the debt.
"We are also committed to the annual amortization of our other long term commitments—such as the adjusted service certificate of the veterans of the World war and our liability under the retirement laws affecting civilian personnel. Our estimated expenditures for this and the next year are well within our expected receipts. With the recommended reduction in taxes the margin between the two will be considerably lessened, but to what extent we do not definitely know today. This situation emphasizes the necessity for a careful scrutiny of any proposed additional activities which would involve a material decrease in expenditures in order that we may not jeopardize either the balanced condition of the budget or the continuation of the benefits of reduced taxation."
The increases asked in appropriations for river and harbor improvement were $5,000,000; for Mississippi river flood control, $5,000,000; for Indian care, $3,100,000; and for forest protection, $2,000,000. He did not mention the prohibition bureau appropriation in his accompanying message, and the amount for enforcement was left for coverage in the detailed budget figures submitted.
said business enjoyed a "highly satisfactory" year.
Because the indicated surplus in the fiscal year 1930 might be of the temporary variety he urged congress to make the tax reduction through resolution, so that while it would give the taxpayers the benefit of the prosperous year, and could be retained next year if found warranted, it would permit the return of the present rates without any further action, if that was found advisable.
Caring for Public Debt—in making his tax reduction recommendation the secretary said that the public debt was being adequately cared for and pointed out that the total had been reduced from $17,604,290,562 to $16,931,197,747 in the fiscal year 1929. He presented estimates showing that in the present fiscal year (1929) the treasury expected to collect $4,242,263,424 and estimated expenditures at $4,023,681,900 while in 1931 it expects to collect $4,225,727,956 and spend $4,102,938,700.
In asking that the corporation tax be reduced one per cent the secretary pointed to statistics which he said showed that corporations were taxed 24.46 per cent of their income whereas 2,059,000 individuals had an average rate of taxation of 0.45 per cent. "The number of individuals contributing directly to the support of the federal government through the federal income tax has been strictly limited," the report said, "and of those contributing, the vast majority pay but an insignificant amount at a very low rate. Of 2,434,000 individuals returning taxable incomes 2,059,000 returned but $32,861,000 of income tax, while 375,000 individuals returned a net tax of $1,092,000,000. The average rate of tax on the net incomes of the 2,059,000 individuals was 0.42 per cent, whereas the million of individuals who owned stock in corporations were that year paying through corporations 12 per cent on the profits of the business enterprises in which they were shareholders." The figures were from a study of the 1927 returns.
In 1927, the secretary continued, corporations paid $5,736,000,000 in dividends so that for every dollar in dividends they declared, they paid 46 cents in taxes.

Accuse Nanking Leaders—The memorandum next accused the Nanking Chinese government of provocative actions, unjustified by concessions made by the U. S. S. R. in surrender of extraterritoriality and other privileges. Claiming all these provocative acts, according to the Moscow note, was the seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway without warning or presentation of any claims.
The memorandum declared: "The soviet government believes that if articles such as that of the Nanking government were taken toward the United States, Great Britain or France, it would be considered by these governments as sufficient cause for putting into force reservations they made when signing the Paris pact. The soviet government declared when signing that it did not recognize the reservations and did not intend to use them."
Military Aspect Defended—The military aspect of the Manchuria problem was defended in the note as consisting of defensive measures against Chinese troops, aided by Russian counter-revolutionaries who crossed the Russian frontiers "firing on units of the red army and frontier villages, robbing and violating a peaceful population, causing thereby loss of lives and property."
After denying the Russian troops had violated the Kellogg peace pact, the note added: "That cannot be said of armed forces in Chinese territory and Chinese ports of those powers who have applied today to the soviet union with identical declarations."
CHINESE NOTE FRIENDLY—LONDON, Dec. 4 (AP)—China today communicated to the British government her reply to the British note calling attention to her obligations under the Kellogg-Briand pact to settle her dispute with Russia in Manchuria peacefully.
The Chinese reply was brief and friendly. It is understood that China simultaneously dispatched an identical note to Washington.

When Business Friends Come to La Grande
A town is no better than its best reputation and no small part of that reputation is due to the impression of business and personal friends who come for a brief visit.
Poor hotel accommodations hurt a town's reputation. And good hotel facilities help it. So it is that the fine furnishings, charming rooms and unusual facilities of the Sacajawea Inn promote the community's best interests at the same time they promote a guest's comfort and satisfaction.
