

Local News in Brief

Car in Accident—A large car, bearing a Washington license, figured in an accident near here this morning or about noon. The left fender of the machine was badly bent and the radiator front knocked from position, and traces of reddish soil on the car indicated that it had been imbedded in the mud. A steel plate above the license bore the words "Trustee, Automobile Club of Washington." The name of the owner or details of the accident could not be learned. It is believed that no one was injured. A tire cover on the back bears the words "Walla Walla." The left hand window in the back of the car is broken.

Judge Knowles in Baker—Judge Knowles, of La Grande, was in Baker Tuesday to inspect the paving at the Messick property at the corner of Third and Court streets, which is in litigation. The city several years ago sued to collect the assessments. Payment was withheld by the owner who claims that the paving was not a satisfactory job. The case is at last to come to trial before Judge Knowles in the local circuit court. The date will probably be set for sometime in January, the judge indicated today. He inspected the paving to familiarize himself with the issue before it comes before him.—Baker Democrat-Herald.

Wright in Portland—"Everything is just fine," is the way L. A. Wright of Union reports the general situation in that section while in Portland. FARM INCOME REFLECTS DEGREE OF MANAGEMENT

AMES, Iowa (AP)—A striking relationship between methods of management and the income from the farm is found in a study of the records kept by 25 farmers in Webster county in cooperation with Iowa state college.

The four high farmers made a management return, margin of profit above interest on invested capital and hired man's wages, of $2078. The lowest farm showed a management loss of $342. Economists found five definite standards on which efficiency of the farm may be judged—acres operated, return per $1 of feed fed to livestock, value per acre of crops, crop acres per man, and power and machinery cost per crop acre.

MICHIGAN GOVERNOR PLANS A FOUNDATION DAIRY HERD

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. Fred M. Green has offered a plan to Michigan state college and to state hospitals by which he proposes to build up the greatest foundation dairy herd in the country at the college.

He suggests that the best cattle from the hospitals be turned over to the college for its foundation herd. Hospitals would receive the benefit of experimental results. Offspring of the herd would be turned back to the institutions. The governor will ask an out-of-state commission of three experts to select the cattle if his plan is adopted. There is some opposition to it, both from the college and the institutions.

U. S. HAS LION'S SHARE OF WORLD POWER SUPPLY

BOSTON (AP)—The national industrial conference board has computed that the United States produces 98 per cent of the world's natural gas.

This country also produces, says the same authority, 68 per cent of the crude oil, 33 per cent of the coal and 26 per cent of the water power. The totals for the world in 1928 are given as 1,459,000,000 short tons of coal, 1,323,000,000 barrels of crude oil and 42 billion cubic feet of natural gas and 38,000,000 water horsepower.

COOLIDGE TO RECEIVE CHAIR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—The chair used by Calvin Coolidge as president while sitting at the head of his cabinet table has been taken from a white house storeroom to be sent to Northampton as a Christmas present from President Hoover and Secretaries Mellon and Davis.

These three are the only members of the present administration who served under the former president.

With a similar feeling of Yuletide spirit, the entire Hoover cabinet has purchased the chair of the late James W. Good, secretary of war, and will send it to Mrs. Good.

STREET CAR DYNAMITED

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 11 (AP)—The dynamiting of two street cars after a month of quiet today brought about an investigation in which police said suspects would be charged with violating both the state law providing the death penalty for such violence and a federal injunction protecting the trolley.

Since the beginning of a street car strike in July numerous trolleys had been bombed here.

Joseph Case Is Nearing Close In Salem Court

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 11 (AP)—The testimony of witnesses and the concluding arguments of counsel in the disbarment proceedings against George Joseph, Portland attorney, should be completed and the case in the hands of the referees for a decision by nightfall, it was indicated by attorneys for the prosecution and defense just before noon today.

The defense rested its case after an hour of slow progress, marked chiefly by the failure of a defense witness to put in an appearance at the morning session. Joseph himself was the last witness put on the stand by the defense attorneys and his presence in the chair terminated in less than five minutes of direct examination by John C. Veach when the prosecution carried its cross examination no further than to elicit from Joseph his admission that he has been over a period of several years and still is attorney for the Portland Telegram.

EXPECT CONCERT MONDAY BY BAND TO BE POPULAR

Large numbers will be played. One of these, "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," will feature two xylophones played by Grover Crews and Ray Bennett.

The standard works on the program are of exceptional merit and much time has been spent by the band in rehearsing and perfecting these numbers. The rendition of "Southern Rhapsody" by Hosmer has been the goal of band members for some two years and will be performed at this concert. This number is one of the most difficult and yet most pleasing of band compositions. The composer has taken such well-known themes as "Turkey in the Straw" and other negro melodies and put them together in a manner that will be the delight of all listeners.

The overture for Monday's program will be the difficult "Oberon" by Lohrer. Altogether Monday's concert is expected to prove one of the most popular in the history of the band, according to observers who have been present at rehearsals.

Xmas Program At the Kamela School Dec. 20

By Mrs. C. E. Thornburg (Observer Correspondent)
KAMELA, Ore. (Special)—The school children are busy preparing a Christmas program which they plan on giving on Friday the 20th. The community plans to have a Christmas tree for the children on that evening. Mrs. H. Horstman and Mrs. R. Riggs are in charge and are now selecting gifts and seeing to the many other things necessary to the children's enjoyment.

Kamela experienced the heaviest snowfall of the winter on Sunday. After a few days when it seemed more like rain than snow, early rains on Sunday morning were surprised to see how quickly the ground was being covered with snow. By evening about eight inches had fallen but it was rained since then. By Tuesday morning the snow had almost all disappeared only to be replaced by about two inches of hail and then more snow. On Sunday travel on the Kamela-La Grande highway was very difficult because of the fresh snow. C. E. Thornburg started to La Grande on Sunday morning but after three or four miles of travel decided to turn back. Several cars were reported to have skidded off the highway.

Miss Donna Scott, of Imbler, accompanied by a friend, drove to Kamela on Sunday to visit her cousin, Mrs. Roy Hawes, and also to identify the shells which were found here. They arrived shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Hawes and family had left for Imbler to visit Mr. and Mrs. Hulise and to deliver the violin. Miss Scott returned to Imbler and was overjoyed to find that the violin belonged to her.

PRISONERS IN AUBURN JOIN IN REBELLION

ly from the gas attack. The two- Claude Dempsy and Milton Hiker, were sent to the hospital with Jennings, Atkins and Van Housen. Hiker was wounded in the outbreak of last summer.

Shortly after 12 o'clock the rioting convicts, through a spokesman named Sullivan, who figured in the last riot, sent word out to the authorities: "We have guns trained on Jennings and the guards. If you don't give us a free passage out in 15 minutes, we will kill them all." Warden Jennings sent a message through a trustee to the police urging: "For God's sake, give them what they want."

Ordered to Shoot
Lieut. Solvay Perry, of troopers, got into communication with Dr. Raymond P. C. Keib at Albany by telephone.

"If they come out, shoot," Keib ordered. "If they don't come out, go in and get them."

Perry returned to his command, drew his men up in a firing line in front of the open gate and declared: "The warden will have to take his chances. If they come out we will mow them down. If they don't come out before a load of tear gas we have ordered gets here, we will go in anyway and we will go in shooting."

State troopers from the Oneida barracks, Auburn city police and firemen, and members of the local units of the New York national guard were summoned at the outset to help in quelling the riot.

The first discovery of the mutiny occurred when David Winney, a guard, entered the main hall of the prison. As he walked through a doorway a convict pulled a gun and ordered him to throw up his hands.

Spreads Alarm
Instead Winney threw himself down behind a post and then broke through the door. The convict fired at him but missed and Winney reached the main office of the prison, where he spread the alarm.

Telephone wires within the prison walls were found to have been cut, severing communication between the office and the warden and keepers who were in the main hall at the time the outbreak started. Telephone wires outside the walls were found to be intact, however, and were used to summon aid which arrived within half an hour.

Meanwhile, whipping guns from beneath their convict uniforms, the long term prisoners herded the warden and his staff into a corner of the hall and laid down their terms.

Principal Keeper Durnford was believed to have been slain when he attempted to break through the ranks of his captors to summon aid. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Mrs. Jennings, wife of the warden, was reported barricaded within in her house, inside the prison walls, but was said to be well protected by armed civilian employees, was also expected to prevent the convicts making a break through the front part of the prison.

Recall July 29 Riot
The last riot at Auburn prison occurred Sunday, July 29, fifty long term convicts led 1,700 inmates in the revolt, captured the prison arsenal, stormed the main gates and burned prison shops valued at $500,000.

Two convicts were killed, a third was seriously wounded, four guards were wounded by gunfire, and four convicts escaped. One was killed later while resisting recapture. It being Sunday afternoon, the force of guards had been reduced to one-third strength, but a mere handful of guards held the convicts at bay until the remainder of the staff and supporting state troopers arrived on the scene.

NO COMPROMISE
ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP)—Acting Governor Lehman today flatly refused to compromise with the demands of rioting convicts at Auburn prison that they be given their freedom in consideration of the safe conduct of Warden Edgar S. Jennings and other prison officials held by the rioters.

"There will be no compromise," said the acting governor.

When the Negro produced the liquor, Danhour continued, he was served with a warrant for his arrest. Young, he said, snatched at the bottle, in his effort to destroy it, and during the scuffle between Danhour and the Negro Butler entered another room, where he found Mrs. Young. Danhour said he heard a shot and a moment later Butler fell to the floor near the doorway, where he died almost instantly.

Young also fired, Danhour said, and the federal man fell to his knees with a bullet through his side. After he had been shot, Danhour said, he attempted to draw his own gun but the woman came to the door of the room and fired at him, wounding him in the shoulder.

Police Come to Rescue
Police officers, hearing the firing entered the house and arrested the Negro and in his effort to destroy it, and during the scuffle between Danhour and the Negro Butler entered another room, where he found Mrs. Young. Danhour said he heard a shot and a moment later Butler fell to the floor near the doorway, where he died almost instantly.
