

Kidney deficiencies? High blood pressure? Indigestion?

Read the good news

It is astonishing news to sufferers that a pure, sweet plant sap should be so great a health food, so valuable a tonic in kidney deficiencies, high blood pressure, indigestion and glycosuria. Yet such is the case.

This remarkable discovery is the milk of the Mexican maguay plant. Used for centuries in its native country where there is freedom from these symptoms. The fresh sap is called "agumel." Now it is concentrated and the name shortened to Agmel. Everyone should investigate Agmel, particularly men and women entering middle life. Imported by The Agmel Corporation, New York and Mexico, D. F.

What others say:
"My husband has been taking Agmel for three months now. His blood pressure is back to normal and the nervous reaction feeling is all gone."
"I consider Agmel the greatest help for stomach or kidneys. I only wish more sufferers knew about Agmel."

Portland Match Is Won by Kruse

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 12 (AP)—Bob Kruse, Oregon wrestler, with a rough wrestling match from Gene Ladoux, French Canadian champion, in their heavyweight match here last night. George McLeod, Tacoma, tested Andy Brown, Cincinnati, in another rough encounter in the one-hour preliminary. Kruse took the first fall 12 minutes, 23 seconds with a series of flying wristlocks. Ladoux scored the second fall in 12 minutes, 18 seconds with a succession of headlocks. Kruse turned what looked like defeat into victory in the third stage when he picked Ladoux up with a crash and half nelson and slammed him to the floor after five minutes of fast work.

McLeod took the only fall of the preliminary in 24 minutes, 12 seconds with a crash hold body slam.

A champion wrestler says that he never dances. He is taking no chances on being thrown.

Cattish Survive 3-Day Trip in Box

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—A catfish, not yards of blue catfish, taken from the Sacramento river in California, was received here by the Oregon Game and Fish Commission. Fish usually are sent in cans or tanks but these catfish arrived in a crate with no more water than a few quarts would hold. The fish were taken to the McKenzie river hatchery.

Man Ryckman, who received the shipment, said he found the 35 catfish alive and wriggling in the crate which resembled the same container which is used to ship chickens. They had been three days out of water.

A campaign for the expression of individualism in men's clothing has been started in London. It is that's what you see when men play golf. It doesn't seem so wonderful.

Water Dieting Found To Open Epilepsy Cure

By Howard W. Blakeslee
Science Editor

(Associated Press Feature Service)
ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Recently a group of children gathered in a special ward in a Rochester hospital, playing happily, all apparently healthy.

Only a few months previously this same little band had been a pathetic group of epileptics, all pronounced incurable.

"But now," to quote a visiting physician, "there had been such a change for the better that even their own mothers and fathers scarcely would have recognized them."

The hospital was among the first to try a new experimental treatment for epilepsy. No cure is announced yet, but the story of the children is out.

The treatment is surprisingly simple. It is restriction of water intake—both in drink and food. It is a drying process, based on belief that excessive wetness on brain tissues is a contributory cause of convulsions in epilepsy.

It appears to be effective in stopping seizures of the children in a high percentage of cases, when properly carried out.

The new treatment is used by Dr. Irvine McQuarrie, associate professor of pediatrics, University of Rochester.

It is referred to in a paper before the association for the study of internal secretions by Dr. Oliver Kamm of Parkers, Davis and company, for it has a bearing on his theories of water balance in the body. Dr. McQuarrie has reported it before medical societies and in the American Journal of Diseases of Children.

"We try to emphasize," Dr. McQuarrie said to The Associated Press, "that the dietary and low-water regimen is not to be looked upon as a permanent cure, but as merely a more satisfactory and promising measure of control of symptoms than the other drug therapy."

He reports successful resuscitation of several seemingly dead persons by massage and artificial respiration, after hearts had apparently ceased beating for hours.

His experiments are part of a wave of interest that followed a report by Professor Jellinek, before the Viennese Society of Physicians, that electrocution does not kill is claimed by Dr. Hartmann, a Silesian.

A Christmas Hint to Husbands

See these beautiful Frigidaires, all in rust-proof, wear-proof Porcelain-on-steel

All are strikingly beautiful. Every inch of surface is as easy to clean as chinaware. The shelves are removable, spaced to hold large quantities of food and elevated to a convenient height.

Then, to double the greater service that Frigidaire has always offered, every household model is now equipped with the famous "Cold Control," that speeds the freezing of ice cubes and desserts.

Special Christmas Terms

We are now making a special offer on all household Frigidaires bought for Christmas. Call at our display room for full details.
