years. He said evidence recounted by Heffer within the past few days had been discredited previously and that Peavey's recent statements matched others he had made, all of which were found useless to a solution of the case.

Edward King, a veteran investigator of the district attorney's office who directed the principal inquiry in the murder and since had led the marshall for new evidence, told the Associated Press: "I think I know as much about this case as any man being living. I worked on it from the day the body was found."

"With regard to Peavey's statement that he had knowledge of the slayer, it was presented from giving it, I will say that if over a man was given an opportunity to tell what he knew about a case, that man was Peavey. We begged, pleaded and threatened him, but he would not talk."

"Several years ago, 1927, we heard that Peavey had confessed killing Taylor. He was in San Francisco then and we asked the San Francisco police to arrest him. I went up and questioned him. Why, no, I never made any such statement," he said.

"Tom Peoples, now county jailer and a deputy sheriff at the time of the murder who aided King in the attempts to identify the slayer, said that Heffer had no direct information about the killing."

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 8 (AP)—Three patients being treated at Emergency hospital here are suffering with a disease which their physician, Dr. J. Willis Martin, believes is the comparatively rare "parrot fever." It was said at the hospital today.

The patients are Mrs. Simon S. Martin, wife of the secretary of the Annapolis chamber of commerce, the daughter, Mrs. Edith M. Kelley, and the latter's husband, Leo W. Kelley, proprietor of an automobile service station here.

It was reported that the family bought a parrot in a Baltimore store shortly before Christmas and that the bird became ill and died on Christmas day.

Dr. Martin described the illness as resembling typhoid pneumonia, but said his patients did not respond as he thought they should to treatment. He consulted Johns Hopkins hospital specialists but the condition was so rare they were not able to give him definite advice.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8 (AP)—Alcohol valued by Prohibition Administrator Samuel O. Wynne at more than half a million dollars, at bootleg prices was in the hands of officials here today.

The alcohol, together with 17 tons of liquor and several thousand dollars worth of distilling apparatus was seized in a raid last night on one of the largest stilling plants uncovered in this city since prohibition.

THREE ARRESTS WERE MADE.

GRANT SHIRES PERMIT BOSTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The Massachusetts boxing commission today decided to grant a license for the bout scheduled here Friday night between Charles A. Shires, Chicago White Sox first baseman, and Al Spivaker, catcher for the Boston Braves.

The program was built around the life and melodies of Carrie Jacobs Bond. Mrs. Sherwood Williams, directing the program, gave as an introduction, interesting bits from the early life of the composer, showing how fragments of Mrs. Bond's life were revealed or reflected in her songs so famous for their outstanding melody.

Mrs. Ira Aldrich, accompanied by Miss Helen Williams at the piano, sang "The Soul of You" and "Still Unexpressed."

From the book "The Road to Melody: My Story" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, Mrs. H. F. Tyler chose interesting and important incidents for presentation.

Mrs. Albert Huntington Carrey sang "I Love You Truly," one of the composer's most popular and inspirational songs; accompanied by Miss Williams.

Mrs. Aldrich sang a second group with Miss Williams at the piano and Mrs. Leo Miller accompanying with the violin. The numbers were "When God Put Out the Light," a sacred selection, and the great success of Carrie Jacobs Bond's career, "A Perfect Day" which completed the program.

During the business meeting proposed amendments to by-laws were read by Mrs. W. H. Guild, representing the legislative committee.
