THE LIVING SPRING—Jesus answered and said, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.—John 4:13, 14.

If wives never waxed angry husbands would never know what their better halves really thought of them.

Bright students are the most radical, says a Western college professor. Also, it might be added, dull students are the most dumb.

LEGION ESTABLISHES LOAN FUND

People throughout Eastern Oregon, upon learning of the establishment of a loan fund for the use of Eastern Oregon Normal school students with the opening of the fall quarter in September, will undoubtedly regard this latest act by the La Grande American Legion members as one of their most helpful and constructive in a period of community betterment work that followed their organization after the World war.

Designed to assist worthy students in completing their courses in Eastern Oregon's institution of higher education, the fund fills a gap that, although the new school has been in operation only since the early summer of 1929, has been felt by many. It creates an opportunity for young men and women that might otherwise never be extended, or at least not until after much loss of time and chance for advancement.

The loan fund, started with an initial $1,000, will be augmented from time to time, and is expected to reach large proportions within a few years, thus extending its ability to serve as the years pass. It will be supervised by a carefully selected board of La Grande legionnaires, who will inquire into each application to determine the desirability of the loans, and will be a distinct addition to educational opportunities for young men and women of this part of Oregon.

In connection with loan funds, records of previous loans to students from other funds in other institutions, reveal that in almost every case, both principal and interest—if interest was required—were paid in full within a reasonable period of time. In fact, in a few cases, young men and women taking advantage of the loans where interest was not charged, went a step further and voluntarily added an additional amount to the principal with the hope that the fund might thus be augmented and give more aid to other students.

The community service committee of the local post, who conceived the idea of the loan fund, and the legionnaires who ratified their proposal, are to be congratulated.

Butter Plunges Still Lower In Portland Today

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 9 (AP)—Butter and butterfat continued their downward plunge today. Butter declined another 2c and butterfat 3c. Accumulating stocks were said to be the cause of the continued weakening.

At the same time eggs looked weaker. Supplies were liberal and buyers were not over anxious.

Reviewing the fruit and vegetable situation, the Portland bureau of agriculture says:

"Greater volume of fruit and vegetable business has prevailed on the Portland wholesale market this week, than has existed in several months, according to local jobbers. Complete curtailment of all home-grown products has resulted in the city's entire fruit and vegetable supply passing through the East Alder street wholesale channels.

STATE BANKS TO BE CONSERVATIVE

wards the removal of slow, doubtful and criticized assets because banks realize that deposits cannot be paid back through frozen assets.

"Stress is being placed on better management because it is becoming more difficult to loan money. In fact, bankers realize that they are eventually becoming the custodians or guardians of borrowers because frequently borrowers ask for more money than they can conservatively or intelligently handle. The banker's first obligation is to the depositor, and the borrowing public, through better bank management, is being brought to realize that when the loan is made the bank must have definite assurance of at least partial liquidation on the due date."
