A $45,000,000 PROJECT

Senator Charles L. McNary and Congressman R. R. Butler of Oregon have introduced bills in the Senate and the House authorizing the construction of a dam at Umatilla Rapids on the Columbia river as an aid to navigation and reclamation, the development of hydro electric power and an inter-state bridge. A survey has been completed by the bureau of reclamation declaring it feasible from an engineering standpoint. The power plant will generate 120,000 H. P. at a cost of 1.2 mills per kilowatt hour. The sale of power at the dam, for two mills per kilowatt hour will retire the cost of the entire development in a period of 42 years, it is said. The bill presented in congress is framed along the lines of the Boulder Canyon measure. It will also be possible to irrigate some 100,000 acres of arid land in the states of Oregon and Washington when economic conditions justify. The cost of the project is estimated by the engineers at $45,000,000.
