WHEAT WEAK AND STILL UNSETTLED

Report For Week Ending Saturday Shows Slow Demand for U. S. Grain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Grain markets continued unsettled during the week ending January 11, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. Wheat was weak and lower, largely as a result of a continued slow demand for North American grain, market stocks of which are still much greater than the large stocks in store a year ago, but was influenced also by favorable prospects for the new winter wheat crop. Wheat from the southern hemisphere and Danubian countries continues to be offered in good volume in European markets and in competing actively with North American grain. Corn and other feed grains held generally steady with a moderate demand prevailing for the light offerings. Snow and bad road conditions were restricting country movement of corn. Receipts of oats and barley were about equal to current trade requirements. Rye was lower with wheat, but flax held firm under a steady demand for the limited offerings.

The relatively slow reduction in world stocks continues to be the principal weakening factor in the general wheat market situation. Shipments for the season to date from principal surplus areas are around 115,000,000 bushels short of those for the same period last season. North American overseas shipments have been nearly 100,000,000 bushels smaller than a year ago and the relatively small disappearance of North American wheat is reflected in market stocks, which still total over 411,000,000 bushels. United States stocks are about 40,000,000 bushels larger than at this time last season, while Canadian commercial stocks are practically the same as a year ago in spite of the small crop. Increased utilization of native wheats in European countries, together with continued large shipments from the southern hemisphere, accounts principally for the reduction in takings of North American wheat.

Distribution of the season's exports is materially different from that of last season. About the same amount has gone to the United Kingdom, but direct shipments to the continent have been less than half as large as last year, totaling only about 72,000,000 bushels from August 1 to December, compared with about 145,000,000 bushels for the corresponding period of the previous year. Shipments on orders have been nearly twice as large as last year, but takings by ex-European countries are over 10 per cent smaller than a year ago. Russia has recently sold some wheat to Europe, according to trade reports, but it is estimated that only around 1,000,000 bushels are available from that source. The quality of this wheat is said to be equal to No. 4 Manitoba, Argentine and Australian shipments totaled approximately 4,000,000 bushels during the week, with an increased amount shipped out on orders. Argentine wheat is under-selling most other foreign wheats in European markets, 62½ pound rounds being quoted at Liverpool January 10, at $1.37½ compared with $1.40½ for No. 2 hard winter from the United States, and $1.41½ for Canadian No. 6 Manitoba. Some United States wheat was reported sold to Portugal, but in general current quotations were above export bids, which were around $1.29 to $1.30 1/2 c. in bulk at Texas gulf ports, basis No. 1 hard winter.

Pacific coast markets were also weak but declines were slightly less than in eastern markets. There was a fairly steady demand for milling wheat at San Francisco but feed grades were dull, reflecting particularly the lower prices on barley which was reported being substituted for wheat to some extent by feeders. Offerings were principally of local grain since an increase in ocean freight rates from Washington and Oregon to San Francisco to $4.00 per ton in the case of the special rates of $2.50 per ton which have prevailed during the past few months, has placed quotations on northern wheat out of line with local grain. No. 2 soft white wheat from Washington and Oregon was being offered at $2.25 to $2.30 per 100, sacked, delivered on track at San Francisco, while No. 2 hard and soft white from California was being quoted in San Francisco at $2.25 to $2.35 per 100. The Los Angeles market was dull and inactive but receipts were not large and selling pressure was lacking. 40 cars were received during the week and were mostly of local grain. Milling wheat was quoted in that market January 10 at $2.30 to $2.35, and feed wheat at $2.25 to $2.35 per 100, sacked.

Wheat markets in the Pacific northwest were about 2c lower than a week ago on cash grain at the close of the market January 10. Big Bond bluestem hard white was quoted at both Portland and Seattle at $1.25 per bushel. No. 1 soft and western white was quoted at both markets at $1.25, and No. 1 hard winter, northern spring and western red at Portland at $1.25 per bushel, sacked. Red wheats were bringing $1.24 at Seattle. Export inquiry was not active although some pared lots were reported sold to the continent and around 2,000 tons to the Orient toward the close of the week. Exports of wheat to the Orient from Pacific coast markets have been about 50 per cent larger for the season to date than for the corresponding period last year, while Canadian exports from Vancouver to China and Japan have been only about half as large as last season, according to trade reports.

Wheat Down One Cent In Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP)—Notwithstanding announcement of 311,000 bushels shrinkage of the United States wheat supply, wheat prices here ranged slightly downward most of the time today. One of the unsettling factors was a report from France, usually an importing country, is selling wheat to Great Britain. There were also advices that No. 1 northern wheat at Minneapolis was being offered in the sample market there at $1.25 a bushel, the same figure as the federal farm loan loan basis. Wheat closed nervous, 1 to 1 1/2 c.

a bushel lower than Saturday's finish; corn closed unchanged 1/2 c. higher; oats 1/2 c. off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of two cents.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 13.—The first week's play in the Pacific coast basketball conference brought unusual results. Eight of the nine teams in both divisions competed, and only one remained unbeaten. In the north Oregon State, Oregon, Idaho and Washington State each won and lost one game, while Washington, 1929 northern champion, did not compete.

In the south U. C. L. A. won one game from Stanford, while California, winner of the southern title last year, and later triumphant in its series with Washington for the coast title, broke even in two games.

Oregon and Washington State played two exciting games last week-end. The Cougars won the first, 22 to 20, while the Webfoots overcame a 10-0 deficit in the second in an over-time period, 24 to 22.

Oregon State suffered stage fright and lost the first contest to Idaho, 22 to 41, but reversed counts in the second, by score of 40 to 27. Washington played three non-conference games with Gonzaga. It won all three of them, but the second and third were by slim margins.

Bears Upset by Trojans
In the south Southern California upset the dope by defeating California in the opening tilt, 29 to 24, but the Bears evaded the series by taking Saturday's game, 27 to 15.

U. C. L. A. showed a powerful offense in its opening tilt against Stanford, defeating the Carls, 52 to 20.

Oregon plays four games this week. It meets Washington State in a two-game series at Corvallis Monday and Tuesday, and Washington at Seattle in another two-game series Friday and Saturday.

Oregon Plays Idaho
Oregon faces Idaho twice, Monday and Tuesday at Eugene, and then rests the remainder of the week at Pullman, Idaho, and Washington State Saturday at Pullman in the first of a four-game series. Stanford and Southern California will play two games at Los Angeles Friday and Saturday, while U. C. L. A. and California will clash in a single contest at Oakland Saturday.

Dick Newman, acting coach, started the sophomore Mose Lyman at center in place of the veteran Whitbeck, and this combination, led by the inspired Buck Grayson, who was high scorer with 12 points, kept the situation in hand.

Friday night, 40 to 27. The Orangemen took the lead to start with and held it throughout the game, crushing Idaho rallies and scoring steadily.
