Lambing Under Way In Grange Hall District

By Mrs. Charles Spruce, Observer (Correspondent)
GRANGE HALL, Oregon—Lambing is in progress at Grange Hall, Oregon, where a small flock of sheep is maintained. The little "woolies" come to life before Thanksgiving and are ready to be shorn by the first of the year. In the flock of about 100 sheep, there are 25 ewes and 75 lambs. The flock is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spruce, who are the owners of the Grange Hall. The sheep are shorn by Mr. Spruce, who is a member of the Grange. The wool is sold to the local mill. The flock is a valuable asset to the Grange and the community.
