No amount of blasting is going to keep the argument from being about a reconciliation this year at least, between those venerable arch-rivals of the college gridiron—Army and Navy, Harvard and Princeton.

Although there has been lively agitation for it, especially from players, having no connection whatever with either academy, the classic of Annapolis and West Point remains unbroken in its ninth decade.

The Cadets for the time being will undertake no further post-season assignments, with Stanford or any other outfit. They have just enough time to come home and will be entirely satisfied this Saturday to tackle Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Notre Dame in the holiday orange bowls. The Navy team, on Notre Dame, Tulane, Ohio State, Southern Methodist and Pennsylvania in this year's major contests.

Harvard already has completed its 1930 schedule, with Dartmouth [illegible] the only November date remaining open. It is reported that Princeton, two weeks before the climax with Yale, is in the market for the New England classic and there does not seem much chance for the time being of any attempt to patch up the historic break in the old Big Three.

But for these facts, some alert athletic mind is attached to the offices just to Harvard's 1929 team, by Bill Roper, Princeton coach, who will retire after this year. Roper, in an article for the Athletic Journal of the Western conference (Big Nine) goes out of his way to remark:

"Harvard made splendid use of the lateral pass and the team in addition was the fortunate possessor of a splendid forward passer, Barry Wood, a very handy quarterback. This combination of lateral and forward pass gave Harvard a powerful attack. Wood was by far the best quarterback in the East in addition to being a fine punter and field kicker. His safe drop-kick against Yale was one of the best plays I have seen.

"But because the Harvard quarterback was the outstanding player in this section. He was a fine leader, too, and in both the Dartmouth and Yale games showed marvelous pluck in continuing to play with a painful injury.

"Barker and Marshall were the outstanding players in the line.

"Brown was handicapped by getting the most ridiculous amount of publicity I have ever known a football player to receive with the possible exception of Red Grange. It was hardly fair to him though he was a great player."

Maryland's contribution to the way of football talent for the major bowls show is pretty well known since Jimmy Foxx and Bill Glenn helped Connie Mack's Athletics capture the world's championship. Pointing to them as products of Maryland's physical education program in the public schools, G. William Burdick in a recent article for "Sportsmanship" revealing Foxx's fine record as an all-around track athlete. The first baseman, it seems, might have made a success as a wrestling performer. He entered as his specialty still event. His mark of 21 seconds for the 220 yard dash, made in 1925, has not been beaten, in addition to which he still holds the Queen Anne county records of 10 3-5 seconds for the 100-yard dash and 24 2-5 for the 220. He established a junior high jump record of 5 feet 6 inches in 1924.

OLIN DUTRA IN LEAD IN TOURNEY

Santa Monica Professional Ahead by Stroke at Agua Caliente.

By Paul Zimmerman
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mexico, Jan. 22 (AP)—"It's the customer with Kentucky" (Translation: "It's an old Spanish custom") was the remark of Olin Dutra as he excitedly pulled his favorite form, like an old time operator of his ancestry, preparing the sequence for victory.

The Santa Monica, Cal., professional entered the third round of the Agua Caliente $25,000 golf tournament today as leader of the fifty-eight remaining amateurs, and spoke about of the two former conquerors. Missourian yesterday Horace Hutton Smith, and Charles Guest, Los Angeles.

Dutra looked to the third eighteen holes today with a 144 score. Yesterday he shot a 72, the better on approach of the day to the 71 which represents par. But he was one above, for with him came his brother Nottie, of Tacoma, Wash., a fine 72 piling him in a six-cornering for the third position.

Closely Grouped

The short task of outdistancing the upper layer of pros in order to retain the leadership, produced Olin's situation, for there were ten other fifty players within three strokes of the top, with 27 holes remaining to be played.

Tied with Nottie and his 145 mark were MacDonald Smith, Long Island, N. Y., contender, while one shot off to make it two connecting situations in the Los Angeles $15,000 open, 1928-29, Gene Sarazen, former national open champion from New York, Al Espinosa, veteran Chicago player, who also boasts that the blood of old Spain courses through his veins; Ed Dudley, Washington, D.C., leader at the half during the opening day with a par 76, and Al Watrous, Detroit pro.

Doubling up the luck of three more amateur former open champion, Johnny Farrell, of St. Augustine, Fla., and two of the nation's front rank amateurs, George von Elm, Detroit.

Six more including Jimmy Hicks, winner of the recent Los Angeles $10,000 open, and Willie Ogg, Chattanooga, New York, were clustered at the 151 mark, three with 152's and five including Walter Hagen, British open champion, with cards of 153.

Hagen displayed the best brand of golf he had shown during the past few tournaments in shooting a 74 yesterday to compile with his 79 of the opening round.

Grant License For $19,250,000 River Project

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The federal power commission has granted the Washington Electric company a license to begin construction immediately on a hydro-electric project on the Columbia river to develop primarily 210,000 horsepower, at an estimated cost of $19,250,000.

The company has announced it would proceed with building immediately after it obtained authorization. Its plans include a dam at Priest island, impounding the waters of the river 22 miles below Wenatchee, Wash., thus providing a head of 45 feet from a power station, which will be built into the dam.

During the football season, Eastern Oregon won the contest each time by defeating Monmouth 12 to 7, and the West Oregon school is eager to even up the score by winning at basketball. Two thrilling contests are expected on Thursday and Friday nights.

Wrestlers Feel "Iron Hand" Of Illinois Board

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP)—Heavyweight wrestlers, with intervening lightweights and the championships, have been barred from Illinois rings until such time as they can agree to settle their claims to an elimination tournament sponsored by the state athletic commission.

The commission ordered that, effective immediately, none is to be called to induce the wrestlers to meet in such a tournament later this month. The proposed match between John Pesek, the "Nebraska tiger man," and John Lyon, the policeman star, was permitted to stand, however. It is to be held next Tuesday night.

General John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois commission, said the heavyweights agreed to an elimination tournament but that Otis Santenberg, recognized generally as the champion, invoked the title, while others insisted Santenberg must all challenge.

Chicago—Dubuque has joined an all heavyweight wrestling in Illinois.

REFUSES FOUL AND THEREBY LOSES VICTORY

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 22 (AP)—A fine display of sportsmanship cost Ted Pentilow, Wittenberg light heavyweight, a victory over Charley Kinko, Tacoma, here last night, when the Columbia lighter refused to claim a foul after Kinko landed a sharp uppercut to the jaw while the latter was on his knees. Referee Tom Lawler put the decision up to Pentilow who said "no." The chief decision was a draw. The incident occurred in the third round. Ted opened it by clipping Kinko short right-hand chop to the jaw which sent Kinko down for a count of two. He got up but went down again for no count. Pentilow then made a flying leap at Kinko, missed and fell to the floor. It was here that Kinko, evenly matched, struck the foul blow. Kinko came back in the final rounds and nearly took the fight via the knockout route. He got Pentilow on the ropes in the eighth and ninth rounds and finished strong.

Donie Bush And Little Arthur In Agreement

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP)—The czar of organized baseball, the White Sox in particular, against Charles Arthur "the Great" Shires, brand completing today.

The youth throwing White Sox first baseman, who has already accepted Commissioner K. M. Landis' demand that he quit the professional ring and get into shape for baseball, conferred recently with Donie Bush, new White Sox manager, personally and from the smiles that wreathed their faces it looked like both had come to an agreement.

Shires is expected to have his ringmentors, served because of his fist fight with former manager Russell "Lena" Blackburne last season, lifted and receive his 1930 contract this week.

"Bush and I will get along our hundred per cent," Shires said after the conference.

"Shires is a fine boy and I'm sure we're going to get along famously and win some ball games this summer," Manager Bush said.

University of Washington Tossers Face Two Critical Series This Week

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, Jan. 22—Unless the dope goes radically wrong, Oregon and Oregon State rollers will be the scenes of the major upsets in the race for the basketball championship of the northern division of the Pacific coast conference.

The sessions will be the conclusion by the Washington Huskies of the accomplishments of the two Oregon outfits for a couple of weeks that are likely to have a most important bearing on the 1930 championship. And the return to the Washington court record the outstanding favorite to satisfy the championship now come to the end of the field with the opening of the week's play.

Having been held to an even split in two games by the O. S. C. Beavermen at Seattle last Friday and Saturday, the Huskies now have the task of subduing Oregon at Eugene and then handling Oregon State at Corvallis. They meet four games in five days—and the latter one with a lineup that is not hitting the pace predicted for it at the start of the season, a team that is now considered to be one of the toughest in the circuit.

Contrasting Styles

Both the Ellis boys and coach O. S. C. were on smash and hard fought in the California games last spring. The Californians, working under Coach Tod Sloan in the absence of "Slats" Hill, staged a pretty last period rally to take the tilt, 34-24. The Huskies came back the following night to down the visitors with a 30-29 win.

The defeat was the fourth O. S. C. has suffered in six conference starts and lowered it to 3rd place and out of the title hopes. But the battle the Orangemen put up before little gold for the Huskies when they sojourn to Bend their own personnel at O. S. C.'s re-

[illegible] this weekend. Washington claims offered to play either of the title, but taking a pair from O. S. C. on their own floor seems to a near-impossible task.

Jack Cobb, which were bothering Art Patterson, Hal McClary and Ralph Chilcote, all members of Coach Slats Gallagher's starting five, are expecting to be eliminated before the Huskies take the court. Both Chilcote and McClary had been ill up to the day before the O. S. C. games and the effect was evident during the first of the series.

Washington's scoring this year has been evenly divided by the games with the Oregon Staters.

Starting Hicks, Coach Gallagher has unhesitatingly put McClary at center, Hal Sieglund and Ralph Cobb at forward and "Ole" Chilcote and Patterson at guard. This combination showed itself to be the superior functioning unit.
