FRESH Tea

A QUALITY YOU WOULD INSIST UPON IF YOU KNEW ALL THE FACTS

Fact No. 16. Tea, just like coffee, should be sealed in vacuum to preserve its flavor. The flavor of each resides in certain volatile oils that evaporate—in coffee very quickly, in tea slowly but surely. Unfortunately, it is many months before tea can reach you—frequently a year. You have never tasted the fragrant flavor of truly fresh tea (unless it was Schilling Tea).

Facts No. 17, 18. Both a tea leaf and a coffee bean must be toasted to drive off the moisture, which helps to rob it of flavor. Good coffee is packed in vacuum immediately after roasting. Tea is toasted at the tea gardens, then sealed in large chests lined with lead. When it arrives in America it is repacked in ordinary tins or even card board boxes. And that's where the damage is done! But this is how Schilling does it. As the tea is poured from the lead-lined chests, it is toasted again, and while still hot (just like your coffee) it is sealed in vacuum. Schilling Tea comes to you as fresh and fragrant as it left the Orient—the only tea that is completely protected from the tea garden to you.

Try a tin! If you do not declare it the most fragrant tea that ever entered your home, 'phone your grocer. He has been instructed to return your money without question. You keep the tea.

1930 CONFERENCE RECOMMENDATIONS

as to what grade they are selling you, and if they cannot adjust any grievances they may have report the matter to the local inspector or county agent and the proper authorities will endeavor to handle such matters in a manner that will protect them in all cases.

We recognize the fact that stores handling all kinds of food products must keep their product clean and attractive, hence we recognize it as their rights, to require of the seller just as much care be exercised by them in careful selection that will make the product well worth the price they are paid.

We further recognize the fact when any merchant permits a quantity of fruit even in part unfit for human consumption displayed in their place of business, they greatly cheapen the quality of their entire offerings in the minds of their very best customers which no doubt loses business that cannot be regained even by the strongest advertising.

We find among the larger growers of apples particularly, their time is taken up in harvesting their crops and packing for shipping to the larger markets, and as a rule they cannot spare the time to the solicitting of the home markets which can very well be taken care of by the smaller orchards known as home orchards, and actually prefer that this trade be left to those unable to raise fruits in car lots, however, this does not mean that they are perfectly willing in case merchants find they are unable to get properly graded and quality fruits they prefer to handle, by making their wants known to any reliable grower of carload quantities who will gladly furnish it in season.

Due to the fact that many heavy producing sections of the Northwest are showing decreased yields from year to year account of the age they have to their credit, we find now from year to year the general average price of first and second grade apples are increasing in price and demand in both our domestic as well as in our foreign markets. Due to the fact that we find under production years are much more common than over production, and this condition will become more acute from year to year, therefore recommend that every person interested in the betterment of our county through its productive ability, give every encouragement to the careful selection and setting of the many hundreds of acres of very fertile lands highly adapted to the growing of apples and sweet cherries.

We recognize the cherry, as one of the heaviest producers per acre of the two fruits, and earlier returns may be be expected notwithstanding this; we believe it better business that persons entering the same should make their acreage planting quite equal with that of apples and cherries provided your lands are equally suitable.

We respectfully urge that our chamber of commerce and dealers in real estate cause to be gathered such facts as will justify them in properly growing, which no doubt will greatly increase the acreage, thus creating a district of such magnitude and production, that will attract the very best buyers of the world for their supplies.

We recognize that setting of orchards purely for speculative gain by the increasing value of the land is unwise and in the past proven a miserable failure, and disgrace to the country, however, we do recommend that individual undertakings should be for not less than ten acre tracts with much better chances for a satisfactory return where the units are twenty acres or more.

We further recommend that the chamber of commerce cause a meeting to be held at some early date for determining if possible if it is for the best interests of all concerned to practice the use of both boxes and baskets in packing our fruits.

H. H. WEATHERSPOON.
Cherry and Prune

The cherry industry of the Grande Ronde valley is at present in a very satisfactory condition for this product. Prices received for cherries have been high due to a great extent to better packing and handling. More careful assembly of the fruit while handling it in the orchard and getting it in the warehouse and keeping it from the hot sun in the process of picking, and the more careful handling of the boxes in loading and unloading is a suggested method of betterment.

The method of handling the tariff on imported cherries for our protection has been in good hands in congress and should be left alone as stands with the increased duty embodied in the proposed tariff bill. Not deep but almost continuous cultivation of cherry orchards until the gathering the crops is recommended. Commercial fertilizers in many orchards has shown good results and while this has not been practiced only on a small scale and until recently it might be well to give it more consideration.

The cherry fruit fly of which we have only a trace has been almost extinguished by the efforts of the state board of horticulture, the county agent and his zealous effort and good cooperation of all growers to apply the effeient and proper methods of combating this pest. To the small growers and people who have only one or two cherry trees and who may be serving as a shade tree in their lawns, we earnestly request that they enlighten themselves to the proper method of immunizing their trees and thereby avoid any possibility of an infested field.

Prunes

Prices for fresh prunes shipped to eastern markets have paid but little more than picking and packing costs the last few years which has been caused by too many prunes going on the market before ours and on account of earlier sections sending their prunes to markets before they are in a proper ripened condition for eating.

Consumption of dried prunes shows less each year but the canning of prunes shows a very marked increase and the growing demand may eventually right the present depressed condition of this product. The 1929 crop of dried prunes being only about 60 per cent of normal on the Pacific coast has stimulated the price at present but with normal crops generally, the future price can not be expected to be very high.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN DEAN,
Chairman.
