Total spendable income from Oregon farm products is likely to be no greater than in 1929, says the report regarding the general situation. Farm expenses are expected to be slightly lower, with ity eggs are given as important factors in success.

Disturbing Pactors

The most disturbing factor in the beef cattle outlook is the impending liquidation of dairy cattle, the report points out. The outlook for 1930 is for average prices for all grades of cattle to be somewhat less than in 1929.

Rapid increase in sheep throughout the United States appears to have been checked. World production of weol is not likely to increase much more, and some decrease may occur in 1931. The messent unfavorable demand conditions are not likely to continue through 1930, so that the woot market outlook is expected to improve somewhat, at least for the 1931 clip.

Hog prices are expected to average as high or higher than for hast year, giving no reason to change from the established policy in Oregon of producing enough hogs to utilize farm waste products.

Prices of horses and mules are at their lowest clb with no luminediate sign of improvement.

The complete outlook report together with separates on the five divisions of dairy, poultry, livestock, field crops and horticulture have been printed for free distribution from the college or through any ecounty agent.
