Whether Babe Ruth collects $75,000 or $80,000 for his pursuit of the baseball arts in 1930, the payroll of the New York Yankees will be the heaviest in the major leagues.

Even with a little pruning here and there, such as the release of Lou Mosen's $18,000 contract, the Yankee salary list runs up to around $200,000 for the season.

Those who pry into these financial matters figure the Chicago club have a pay-roll aggregate in excess of $250,000, with Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson as the top men, at $40,000 and $35,000 respectively. Hornsby is the highest paid National League player.

Connie Mack, treasurer as well as manager of the World's champion Athletics, will sign checks amounting to more than $200,000 for 1930, a figure which probably also is equaled if not surpassed by the New York Giants.

There was a time when star pitchers drew the biggest pay checks. They still collect enough to keep the wolves away but Ruth, Hornsby, Gehrig and Wilson now are the highest paid players, to evidence the power of the home run in the front office as well as the ball park.

On the other hand, Chuck Klein drew down a mere $7500 from the Phillies last year for breaking the National League home run record, and his team-mate, Lefty O'Doul, not much more for leading the league's batters with a mark of .338.

Before closing the statement of financial affairs, it may be noted that Leo Little, Columbia's new head football coach, becomes one and basing on his part so long as the Tigers have Charley Gehring in good health. Walter Johnson can pitch but the Big Train scarcely would think of trying any extended come-back.

The theory of bench managers therefore, seems thoroughly established.

Although nine of the 16 pilots were considered in their playing days as members of championship clubs, playing greatness has by no means been an essential requirement to managerial success.

Christy Mathewson and Ty Cobb were two of the greatest performers of all time but they did not succeed as managers.

On the other hand, Joe McCarthy of the Cubs never was a major league player. He was merely a successful minor league manager. Connie Mack was just a fair catcher, although he played minor league ball with Pittsburgh at one time. Jewel Eas, new pilot of the Pirates, was never a major league performer and Dan Hawley, now at the helm for Cincinnati, was in the big show only one year as a catcher with the Phillies.

Bill McKechnie hasn't had the most checkered career of any pilot. Starting his experience in the minors in 1907, McKechnie played with four National, one American and two Federal League clubs. He then piloted pennant winners for two teams, Pittsburgh and St. Louis, losing his job following each victory. Now he has a four-year contract with the Braves.

As to the previous condition of servitude among the pilots, the evidence is somewhat confusing except it may indicate that catchers and infielders make the best managers.

Five saw service behind the bat—Mack, Hawley, Robinson, Killeen and Street.

Eight were infielders—McCarthy, Eas, McKechnie, McGraw, Wagner, Bush, Peckinpah and Hart.

Shawkey and Johnson were star pitchers and Bart Shotton, the Phillie boss, a good outfielder.

CARNERA PUTS SIGMAN AWAY IN THE FIRST

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 15 (AP)—Big Jim Sigman, self styled sultan from South America, is the fifth victim of Primo Carnera's campaign through United States rings.

The mammoth Italian knocked out Sigman in 1 minute and 57 seconds of the first round of their eight-round bout here last night. It was Carnera's fifth successive victory in this country, his previous victims having been Big Boy Peterson, Cowboy Owens, Buster Martin and Elzear Bioux. Two of these, Owens and Martin, lasted two rounds against the Italian. The other three all failed to survive the first round.

Only about 11 blows were struck in last night's encounter, two of them by Sigman. Carnera staggered the South American a few seconds after the first round opened with a heavy blow to the chin. After absorbing a few more rights and lefts, Sigman tapped the Italian faintly a couple of times but took a damaging right to the jaw to put him down. A few more punches and then Carnera landed a terrible right that sent Sigman sprawling through the ropes where he was counted out. Sigman weighed 235; Carnera 267.

Now the pendulum has swung back again the other way, following the successes of Mack and McCarthy, both bench pilots.

The season of 1930 will see every big league pilot directing the strategy from the bench on side lines. Harry Harris still can play but there is no necessity for any soc-

Ashland Normal Wins 2 Out of 3

MONMOUTH, Ore., Feb. 15 (AP)—Oregon Normal's basketball quintet stopped Southern Oregon normal, 34 to 27, here last night. The southerners had previously taken two of a three-game series. The totals led all the way. The score at the half was 15 to 8.

Rosenbloom Is Given Referee's Nod Over Ace

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom of New York has cleared the last obstacle in the way of his forthcoming title shot with Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, recognized in New York state as light heavyweight champion of the world.

Rosenbloom outpointed Ace Huddings, Nebraska wheat, dizzy in a rough and hilarious ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden last night to win the unanimous decision of the judges and the referee as well as the 17,000 spectators.

There was no question of Rosenbloom's superiority after the first two rounds. At the start Huddings chased the Harlem light heavyweight all around the ring and, although Rosenbloom was an elusive target, Huddings landed enough blows to gain him the edge in both of the first two rounds.

Then Maxie began to get going. He tugged and hauled the Ace around the ring, slapped him with lefts from almost every angle, led with rights that invariably found their mark and gave the Nebraskan a distressing time of it in general. With the exception of the seventh round when Rosenbloom failed to slug it out with the midwinter, Huddings could not win a round after the second. He tried hard but his attempts to slow down the speedy Hardman became more and more ludicrous as the fight went on.

Rosenbloom weighed 172; Huddings 185.

Rosenbloom's next important match will be against Slattery sometime within the next two months.

OREGON STATTERS DEFEAT VANDALS

Lyman Scores Frequently in Moscow Game—Oregon Beaten by Cougars

MOSCOW, Idaho, Feb. 15 (AP)—Oregon State college basketball quintet turned back the Idaho Vandals, 37 to 28, here last night. Playing a fast offensive game, coupled with close guarding, the visitors took the lead with two field goals by Ballard, forward, and more and Ballard then gathered in more field goals and increased the lead 8 to 4 before the Vandals could get started. The Staters led 17 to 12, at the half. Lyman and Grayson gathered in eight counters in the second half and Oregon State was never in danger. Idaho used eleven players in their effort to stop the Orangemen.

OREGON NOSED OUT

PULLMAN, Wash., Feb. 15 (AP)—Washington State college basketball team defeated University of Oregon, 21 to 28, here last night. The Woobots staged a desperate rally in the last few minutes of the game, but the tiny time was too short. Buckley, Cougar forward, started the scoring by hooking a field goal and then, with Holsten, Van Thiel and McGarvey more baskets were scored before Oregon got started. The game was 32 minutes under way before Oregon scored. It was 15 to 16 at the half. The Cougars leveled two field goals at the opening of the second half and soon ran the score to 24-24. Oregon then started crawling up and came within three points of the leaders at one time. With three minutes to go and five points behind Olinger, Stevens, Hughes and Bell shot short baskets, but McGarvey came in with a timely loop to stop the rally.

But while these three limnaries will not take part in spring practice, there are 69 or 70 candidates who are ready to don the mole-skins.

McEwan, before he left Eugene for the east, said that he hoped to find the greatest line that he has ever coached.

MICKEY WALKER IS EASY VICTOR

Leo Lomski Little More Than Punching Bag For The Toy Bulldog.

By Charles W. Dunley (Associated Press Sports Writer)

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mickey Walker is one step nearer his third title today by virtue of a decisive victory over Leo Lomski in a ten-round bout in Olympia arena here last night.

Walker, world's middleweight champion, who formerly wore the welterweight crown, demonstrated that a disadvantage of nine pounds or more means little to him in his invasion of the light heavyweight field.

Walker was little more than a punching bag for the toy bulldog throughout the fight, which reflected him of his record of never having been defeated twice by the same man.

After holding Walker even in only one round, the third, Lomski saw his rival gradually pile up a lead that made the bout lopsided in favor of Walker after it passed the half-way stage. He was a bulldog beaten fighter when the bout ended.

The right that dropped Tommy Loughran was only a threat against Walker while his left did not carry the sting that Walker's did.

Walker conceded nine and three-quarters pounds to the light heavyweight challenger, sealing 182 1-2 to 173 3-4 for Lomski.

The match drew a record-breaking crowd for Olympia, attracting in excess of 17,000 with receipts around $50,000. The big arena was jammed to standing room capacity.

Walker easily won seven of the ten rounds by a convincing margin. He began to move ahead in the fifth round and thereafter the result never was in doubt. Mickey varied his attack after working on Lomski's body in the earlier rounds; he switched his assault to the head and his blows opened up a wound over Lomski's eye in the fourth round. Blood streamed down Leo's face and in the subsequent rounds the wound provided a target which Walker seldom missed.
