Colonial Tea Is Held In Honor Of Washington's Day

One of the prettiest of patriotic events to take place this month was the colonial silver tea honoring Washington's birthday given by the Daughters of the American Revolution Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the home of Dr. Margaret Ingle. Mrs. Lynne Holmenkamp was in charge of arrangements.

Members of the D. A. R. were dressed in colonial costume, as was the living room. Stella Jean Ingle, Grace Helen Behnenkamp and Jane Williams, also dressed in styles of the Washington period attended the floor.

Many old quilts of unusual and pretty patterns were displayed along with a spinning wheel of a former age and a hand made cradle with a doll of the old style resting inside.

Vocal solos during the afternoon were presented by Mrs. H. E. Ingle, Mrs. Hal Behnenkamp, Mrs. E. B. Morgan, Mrs. Leola Russell and Mrs. Ira Aldrich. A piano number was played by Miss Helen Williams. Little Betty June Sakump, in costume gave a colonial dance. Mrs. A. T. Hill in Quaker dress read a Quaker selection. Miss Wilma Hansell presented a minuet in costume.

The table was attractive in a color scheme of red and white and blue with a center bouquet of mixed flowers and candles in the same color scheme. Those present were: Mrs. H. M. Buck, Mrs. E. D. Kiddie, Mrs. J. K. Wright, Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. O. E. Moran, Mrs. Phyllis Lotter and Mrs. Ray Murphy assisted in serving.

Mohawk Bridge Club Entertained

The Mohawk Bridge club spent a pleasant evening Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Oenell with four tables at play. Potted plants were prettily arranged.

Rainbow Girls In Enjoyable Social

The social evening of the Order of Rainbow for Girls was well attended Saturday night with about 40 present. Diversions of the evening were games and stunts with Miss Mildred Charlton worthy of a visit.

Club Adopts New System of Award

The second of the meetings of the Bidson and Loeven Bridge club under a new award method was held Friday night at the home of Miss Mildred and Myrtle Hoyt. Under the new system approximately five scores are kept by the individual and at the end of the season the member with the highest score will have a choice of prizes, one brought by each member.

Patriotic decorations were in honor of Washington's birthday, a cherry tree centered the table where a dainty two-course luncheon was served. Guests were: Mrs. Eugene Millering and Mrs. Ralph Morelock, who is a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morelock.

The next meeting will be with Miss Mildred Whiters.

Announcements

The auxiliary of the American Legion is planning a benefit card party and luncheon to be held next Saturday afternoon, March 1, in the Saunajawa Inn at 2 o'clock. The committee in charge met at 4 o'clock last Saturday with Mrs. Hugh Brady chairman. Those assisting her are: Mrs. Otto Palmer, Mrs. Meritt Butler, Mrs. Norman Hodlet and Mrs. O. B. Mixum. Each auxiliary member is asked to be responsible for one table, or three persons in addition to herself. There will be no progressing between tables, but the players at each table will change partners. Prizes will be given both for cards and sewing. Refreshments will be served. The public is invited to attend.

The Community Women's Bible class will meet tomorrow in the gold room of the La Grande hotel at 2:15 o'clock. Subject: Ninth chapter Mark; memory study, Luke, 11, 16-18; correspondence study, "Hands and Feet" (On the Film of the World) continued.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran church will meet Tuesday, Feb. 24 at the home of Mrs. George Andrews, 205 Cherry street, at 2 o'clock. The meeting is held on Tuesday due to the chicken dinner later in the week. Members are requested to bring all unold dinner tickets to the meeting.

Iris Camp No. 2830 Royal Neighbors of America will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Odd Fellows temple. All members and visiting neighbors are invited to attend.

MENUS

By Sister Mary
Breakfast perhaps is the most difficult and the most important meal of the day.
It's the most difficult to plan because there seems to be less opportunity for variety. It usually has to be prepared hurriedly and is often eaten at top speed. The dishes should be easy of digestion and at the same time as nourishing as possible.
The principal work of the day is, as a rule, done in the morning. Whether this work is mental or manual, a supply of blood is needed to give energy to the brain or muscles that are exercised. If the breakfast dish has been hard to digest, the stomach competes with brain or brawn for blood supply and either one's work or one's health suffers.

Breakfast Is Problem
Morning's lack of appetite makes breakfast a difficult meal for many persons. While lack of appetite may have several causes, sheer weariness of the monotony of the breakfast menu may be the answer in many instances.

If breakfast menus were planned like the rest of the meals, several days of a week in advance, it would be much easier for the housekeeper to get completely away from the hackneyed combinations. The meal should be planned so that a minimum of time is required in its preparation, but plenty of time should be allowed for serving and eating. Eating "against time" is not an aid to digestion and may cause serious trouble, particularly for children.

The age, food habits and activities of each person have much to do with the breakfast required. Weather conditions also influence the menu.

With the coming of spring, pancakes lose some of their popularity. Heavy cereals and hot muffins can be replaced by lighter cereals and toast. Rice makes a satisfactory cereal for a spring breakfast. Eggs are specially suited to the spring, since they are less expensive at this season. Fresh fish are plentiful during the spring months and are quickly cooked. Smoked and salted fish always are available and are savory and appetizing.

Most households take fruit for granted on the breakfast menu these days, so the housewife usually serves them to please individual tastes.

The spring breakfast can be given interest by the introduction of certain salad vegetables. Curly endive served with bacon, watercress with cured or fresh fish, spinach with poached egg, sliced tomatoes with crisp toast and bacon; breakfast radishes and carrot straws are a few suggestions for serving vegetables for breakfast.

USING RADIO AS AIDE FOR THE TEACHER

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Radio Editor
(Associated Press Feature Service)
Education once meant dry school books and lots of them. Now it is changing.

There's a loud speaker in many a school room these days. Lessons come by radio twice a week to get the close attention of a million or more children rather than the sometimes haphazard effort to be studious that has evidenced itself heretofore.

Through the medium of the Columbia Broadcasting system, educators are trying out a scheme of aiding youth to prepare for the life battle ahead. Each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon programs conducted by leaders in the instruction field are being broadcast by the various stations in the chain.

The object is to help school room occupants better to understand such subjects as American history, literature, art, music, social science, health and hygiene and nature study.

While the present "course" known as the American school of the air, is considered experimental and will conclude at the end of the school year, the response it has met through letters and telegrams has been gratifying, says Warren H. Pierre, educational director of CBS. "The possibilities which radio offers in the educational field, previously regarded by educators as somewhat doubtful, have proved suddenly tremendous," he says.

The broadcasts are being supervised by an advisory faculty composed of distinguished educators, with Dr. William C. Bagley of Columbia University as dean. Because of the experimental nature of the series, school principals and teachers have been designated by state superintendents of schools to evaluate and criticize the program. No matter what the ultimate outcome of the series, there is little doubt that the kiddies themselves are pleased.

MAKING YOUR CHOICE BETWEEN SPENDING AND SAVING—

The only difficult thing about accumulating a reasonable amount of wealth by the time old age is reached is making the choice between spending and saving.

Anyone can spend money and there are very few people who wouldn't like to have all the comfortable and enjoyable things money will buy. The difficult thing is in deciding that an income-producing estate is more desirable than the temporary pleasure you might get out of spending the money for other things—and carrying out that decision.

No matter how small or how great your income may be, there can and should be, a margin between what you receive and what you spend. That margin, if put to work earning money, will grow and afford you far more satisfaction than the possession of things it might buy.

The four per cent interest earned by your savings account here provides a safe, attractive investment. The friendly, experienced counsel of this bank is always at your service.
