

Hughes And Taft As Public Men Cross Paths In Curious Fashion

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Evans Hughes disappointed his parents.

They hoped he would be a minister, as his father before him.

It wasn't until he was 19, with a degree from Brown, that he set his face away from the pulpit, toward other solemn places.

Since then, career has swept him up to many climaxes, the last the peak of a lawyer's ambition, chief justiceship of the United States supreme court.

Once before he donned the somber robes of this court, but in those days he sat at the foot of the bench, appointed by the man whose place he now takes.

Long before he became a public figure, lawyers knew of him as an adviser, and when New York city began an investigation of its gas companies Hughes was selected as its field marshal.

That successful fight started him on his public career. Soon he was governor of New York and re-elected in 1908. From this post he was called to the supreme court as an associate justice by Mr. Taft, then president.

He left the bench to campaign against Woodrow Wilson for the presidency and was defeated, al-where they were joined in the evening by Black, with whom they were previously acquainted. He was working on a ranch near Los Angeles, later in the evening Leonard Olson was shot and killed as he was riding past on a white horse.

Newberg and Black were indicted on a charge of second degree murder which was changed later to involuntary manslaughter. Newberg was convicted and is serving a sentence in prison.

Judge J. W. Knowles will be here next Monday, March 2, to hear motions and dispose of matters that do not call for formal trial, and the grand jury will be in session later in the week, it is expected.

So-called "timber basins," he said, own only twenty per cent of the acreage of the country. For this reason, Stetser declared, an increased tariff could hardly be construed as being of benefit only to them.

Pleading for a "more adequate basis of return," Stetser declared that if this is not forthcoming the reproduction of forest lands would be small except upon government property.

STATE LETS EAST OREGON ROAD JOBS

Representatives of the league of Oregon cities made a demand that the commission contribute $500 a mile for each mile of highway within the city limits and that the money come from the gasoline tax fund.

The commission explained that the way to get at public sentiment would be for all mayors of towns of Oregon to meet and discuss the matter with the commission.

The old problem of the short route from Portland to the Oregon coast appeared at the meeting and came near breaking up the meeting.

Delegations from many of the coast counties, commercial clubs and other civic organizations attended the meeting and presented petitions asking that the highway commission conduct a survey to determine the shortest and most economical route from Portland to the sea.

Resolutions were presented from various clubs and chambers of commerce in Clatsop and Tillamook counties as well as from Portland organizations stating that whatever the commission decided to do, they would support and not contest.

Another delegation from Tillamook objected to the resolution and demanded that the commission reserve the Wilson, Battenberry route and still another delegation sought the Nestucca route.

A delegation of residents along the Siuslaw river presented a petition with 700 signatures asking completion of a road to Cheshier.

O'Doul Holding Out For $20,000 Salary In 1930

By Russell J. Newland (Associated Press Sports Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO — Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, the most important batsman in the National league last season, is just a "grown up" boy but he knows his contract. The big outfielder led the circuit at a .328 clip so he is asking the Philadelphia Phillies for a substantial salary boost. It is understood "Lefty" wants $20,000 for the season compared to the $16,000 he is reported to have been offered.

"Lefty" lives in San Francisco and spends much of the winter playing ball with the school kids at one of the playgrounds. It is worth an admission price to see him report for an afternoon. The boys maul him around and refuse to let him in their game unless he furnishes the baseball. He has hit too many of their out of the lot.

Floyd Johnson, one time heavy-weight title contender from Washington, is matchmaker for the American Legion boxing clubs in Seattle.

J. Cal Ewing and Del Howard, former owners of the Oakland Baseball club, are preparing to open a resort in the northern California timber country. They will enter to hunting and fishing parties.

WHAT THE OLD TIMERS ARE DOING—

Johnny Herget (Young Mitchell), retired, undefeated middleweight champion of the world, has a clerical position in the San Francisco city hall.

Amos Rusby, the old pitching star of the New York Giants, who struck out 345 batters in the 1890 season, is ranching near Seattle.

Jim Geafin, colorful referee of San Francisco's 20 to 45 round boxing days, is in business here and incidentally, still refereeing.

Al Kaufman, one of the "white horses" dug up to take the heavy-weight title away from Jack Johnson, is operating a gymnasium in Hollywood.

The exact time of the first bout was to be announced by Jimmie Richardson, manager of the tournament, following weighing at entries and drawing for opponents this afternoon at headquarters established at the Multnomah club.

The tournament will be conducted tomorrow night.

Alto Miller, last year's champion in the flyweight class, made the important announcement last night that he has deserted the 112-pound division to enter the 118 and 126-pound classes. The struggle for accession to his title was expected to prove one of the features of the tournament. Miller encountered little difficulty in annexing the title last year.

Among the outstanding heavyweights entered were Tom Elliott,

Los Angeles and Clarence Doyte of the Olympic club, San Francisco. Elliott held the middle title in 1927 and 1928, but the San Francisco club to the top of the division last year. However, the challenger of other heavyweights entered presaged rough going for both Californians.

College rivalry was expected to manifest itself when University of Washington and Oregon fighters and representatives of Oregon and Washington State colleges meet in the ring.

FILIPINOS HELD IN YELLOW RACE

Judge in Los Angeles Issues Ruling in Denying Marriage Application.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27 (AP) — A ruling by Superior Judge J. A. Smith classifying Filipinos as members of the yellow or Mongolian race has opened the way for invalidation of more than 100 marriages performed here since 1921 in which the principals were white girls and Filipinos.

Judge Smith has ruled all such marriages illegal under California's miscegenation law, which prohibits its intermarriage of whites with Mongolians or negroids.

The ruling was returned by Judge Smith in granting a permanent writ prohibiting issuance of a marriage license to Tony V. Moreno, 24, Filipino, and Ruby Robinson, 22-year-old white girl. The writ was requested two weeks ago by Mrs. Stella A. Robinson, mother of the girl, who contended the prospective bridegroom is a Mongolian.

Judge Smith ruled, in spite of arguments of County Counsel Everett Mattoon who contended Filipinos are of the Malayian branch of the Caucasian race, that "there are only three principal races, white or Caucasian, yellow or Mongolian, and black or negroid, and Filipinos are yellow."

Copies of the judge's ruling were forwarded to the county clerk and to Rosmond Rice, head of the marriage license bureau who were instructed to issue no more marriage licenses to Filipinos and white girls. Miss Rice had held in abeyance applications by 12 such pairs since a temporary injunction was issued in the Moreno-Robinson case two weeks ago.

SINGING WARMS THE BLOOD, SAYS A DOCTOR, WHOSE AND HOW?

Perhaps the modern girl is like ice, as the critic says. Most of the modern life is artificial.

"I can't make this letter out," said the business man to his secretary. "I don't know whether it is from my tailor or my lawyer, both named Smith."

The letter read: "I have begun your suit. Ready to be tried on next Thursday. Smith."

King's Battle Cry

The motto "Dien of Men Dreit," whose English translation is "God and my right," was the battle cry of Richard I. In 1198, against the French. It was revived and put into the coat of arms of the royal family in 1840 by Edward III.

Teacher: "How many sexes are there?"
Little Boy: "Three."
Teacher: "Three. What are they?"
Little Boy: "The male sex, the female sex, and the insects."
Bessie: "I want to give John a surprise for his birthday. Can you suggest anything?"
Josephine: "Tell him your age, my dear."
"You are concealing something from me!" hissed the villain.
"Certainly I am," replied the leading lady. "I'm no Salome."
Young Graduate: "Do you thing you can pay what I'm worth?"
Employer: "I can do even better. I'll start you out with a small salary."
