A committee of five solicitors was chosen today for the purpose of visiting all the business concerns and dealers in the city. Each solicitor will have a certain number of business houses and professional men to visit. Instead of following the former plan of having blocked advertisements in the year book, each store, business house, and dealer will receive a splendid advertisement in story form, telling the importance of that particular business to the city and to the students. Not only will the city of La Grande be advertised, but as many of the other cities in Eastern Oregon as possible. Contributions for this means of advertising are entirely voluntary. However, an extensive campaign is to be begun in the near future. The Normal school plans to place the annual in all high schools on this side of the state, with the state library, and all commissioners of education of the state. The annual will be representative of the entire section of Eastern Oregon. It is said, the scenic beauty and resources will be colorfully portrayed throughout the book.

GRAIN PLAN EXPLAINED BY MR. SHUMWAY

Wheat is sold in left entirely to the grower who advises the agent on the day he wishes it sold, and according to the agreement the agent is required to sell for the highest price obtainable on that day, whatever the market may be. The grain may be sold the day it is harvested or it may be held—this is all left to the discretion and judgment of the grower.

The second function of the corporation, according to the speaker is to make advances on the wheat disposed of. This advance may be made as soon as the receipt covering delivery of the bill of lading, in case of shipment, properly endorsed, is forwarded to the corporation. The advance is made through the Intermediate Credit Bank at Spokane and may run as high as 75-75% of the value of the wheat. This is loaned at 6% per cent. In case of emergency the remaining 25-25% may be secured through the national organization from the $500,000,000 circulating fund created by the federal farm board.

The third function is to assist in providing terminal elevators. When the time comes that any group wishes its own elevator, whether by erection, purchase, or lease, the national corporation stands ready to loan the money to cover the project, and at a nominal rate.

Mr. Shumway stated that all operations are handled not directly with the national organization but rather through the regional.

Favors Smaller Groups
The speaker gave it as his opinion that one large center for a county was not the most satisfactory manner of handling such a project. So long as the proper number of wheat growers could be secured to cooperate, he advised smaller organizations grouped around outlying shipping or marketing centers. In each unit, however, it was necessary to have at least 200,000 bushels of wheat represented. "A smaller unit means a smaller overhead."

The fees connected with the organization are $10 for each 1000 bushels of wheat, and in each of the three organizations, local, regional and national. This covers a period of five years, and payment likewise covers that length of time. The selling organizations charge one per cent of the value of the wheat for disposing of it.

"If we do not organize," said Mr. Shumway, "all the activities of the eight years, all the credits we have gained in that length of time, will be lost and there will be nothing back at us, you did not take advantage of the opportunity when we gave it to you."

"We never had the matter so clearly explained, or the workings of the national organization so thoroughly presented," said one of the prominent wheat men Saturday. "Mr. Shumway knew exactly what we wanted to know and he made it all plain. We appreciated Mr. Shumway's visit and his address."

The meeting held Saturday was quite representative and was very largely attended with bankers, business men and wheat growers making up perhaps one of the largest assemblies of the kind held in the county. Walter M. Pierce presided over the meeting and Harry G. Avery was secretary. County Agent N. C. Donaldson, of Wallawa county, and a group of wheat men from that section were down for the meeting.

UNEMPLOYMENT DEMAND VOICED IN THE SENATE

"When this breakdown occurred in the Republican party the precedent did not come forward and exercise the leadership which was the prerogative of his office. He did not take hold of the reins of party direction and guide a united party back to the performance of its campaign pledges."

"Instead he was undecided; he was undetermined; he vacillated; he permitted the west to believe that he was counted among the insurgents, while in the east he gave comfort to the old guard. Meanwhile he drifted and permitted every tide and every wind of popular fancy to shift his course, and when a dangerous shoal was in sight that intrepid captain gave the gallant command, 'Come, let us have breakfast together.'"

Senator Wagner recalled Mr. Hoover's own suggestions for legislation to meet unemployment difficulties and asked "what was the result of that program?"

"We have none of this fundamental information," he concluded. "We have no statistical machinery. We have no system of employment exchanges. And we have heard nothing further from the president in regard thereto."

As Senator Wagner concluded his speech on unemployment, Senator Keat, Republican, Ohio, announced he would reply tomorrow.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, asserted that "arrested" had resulted from the administration's participation in "denying the facts as they are."

Walsh said there was "strong and bitter dissatisfaction" over the program to "divert public attention." He added that to him it seemed "intendible."

More than 15,000 jobless of the republic gathered around the monument to the negro revolutionary Jean Jacques Dessalines in the Square of Champs de Mars. The demonstration was preceded by a religious service at the Church of the Sacred Heart, a "Save Hall" service organized by women of Port-au-Prince.

Mr. White, as the representative of the commission, sat among a thousand women during the ceremony, which brought tears to the eyes of many American visitors. He said afterward he was deeply moved.

NO LUNCHEON TUESDAY
The chamber of commerce will not have the usual forum luncheon Tuesday; instead the 1929 and the 1928 directors will meet for the purpose of electing officers. Nine of the 12 directors who served during the last year are returned to office, the three new members being Charles H. Reynolds, Lester H. Branwell and "Chet" Thompson. The officers elected Tuesday will be installed at the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce on Tuesday, Mar. 11.

THREE PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED

"Figureheads," the second play, deals with the time-honored plot of a princess being forced into marriage with the prince of the neighboring country, but it has an unusual ending. Miss Whitlock is the princess and Allen Carden is the prince, who disguises himself as a fisherman to gain an audience with his unwilling fiancée, with resulting comedy situation occurring. Irma Johnson, Glenn Henderson and Cecil Posey are servants of the princess.

"The Last of the Lawless," the third play, is an entirely different sort—a melodramatic story of the return of the last of a family of outlaws, stealing back to see his beloved mother before giving himself up to the sheriff, La Faun Boylen, Ruth Smalley, Harriet Ahearn and Margaret Baker have the leading roles.

Require Trappers To Make Reports

Approximately half a hundred trappers in Union county who have not complied with the state law requiring a report on the fur take for 1928-29 will be subject to prosecution unless they make their reports to the state game commission in Portland immediately, according to announcement today by Warden Cornell, local game warden. Mr. Cornell received orders to this effect from state headquarters this morning. The trapping season in Oregon closed on Feb. 28 and the law requires that all trappers make their reports immediately thereafter.

Last weekend Harold Clifford, state game warden, estimated that 2,900 trappers in Oregon were delinquent with their reports and would be subject to arrest for the 1928-29 season. Reports are also required for the 1929-30 season, now at an end.
