Egg And Butter Market Barely Steady Today

PORTLAND, Mar. 8 (AP)—Egg and butter quotations continued barely steady with the opening of the market today. The egg movement into storage has become quite general.

Reviewing the fruit and vegetable situation, the Portland bureau of the United States department of agriculture says:

"Lettuce shipments from the Imperial valley continue very heavy, with volume of loadings during the last two weeks unprecedented in the history of the valley. The tremendous consuming capacity of the American public for this product, is shown in yesterday's shipping-point report of 'Market Firm for Best Stock,' with prices slightly higher than former levels. At Portland, good fresh lettuce is selling to retailers at $2 per crate, while older, wilted stock is cleaning up at 50 per cent discount."

Oranges and grapefruit are firm, with price advances in a few sizes.

"The onion market continues very unsatisfactory. Weaker eastern markets are confining Oregon's distribution to the Pacific coast.

"Motor truck receipts of Roseburg cauliflower are increasing in volume, but no carlot loadings are in immediate prospect."

Wheat Irregular As The Week Ends

CHICAGO, Mar. 8 (AP)—Active speculative buying of July delivery of wheat here lifted wheat values today in the late dealings. Quotations for all wheat futures except March rose to well above yesterday's finish, despite earlier downturns. Renewal of general commission house selling pressure, however, ensued, and gains failed to hold well, London cabling that 300 vessels had been tied up as a result of lack of demand for overseas grain.

Wheat closed irregular, ranging from ⅛c net decline to ⅝c advance compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-⅝c off, oats ⅛-⅜c down, and privisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

NORTH CAROLINA ADOPTS STABILIZED GRID SYSTEM

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina is an advocate of the "stabilized coaching" idea, says Dr. Foy Roberson, alumni representative on the athletic counsel.

He believes that although coaches are changed, the general system should be maintained.

North Carolina, he says, is sold on the Rockne system, introduced by Chuck Collins. The council decided to adopt the Notre Dame style when it hired Collins in 1926 because of the success of Rockne's methods and because "Notre Dame" alumni seemed to enter the coaching profession much more often than alumni of other institutions," says Roberson.

NORMAL SCHOOL NEGATIVE TEAM WINS IN DEBATE

was the judge. His decision was based on material, argument and delivery. In spite of the many logical arguments advanced by the affirmative speakers and their excellent presentation, the negative won the final decision on their fine facts, arguments and style of delivery.

The first argument of the affirmative was that nations should adopt a plan of gradual limitation of armaments, except for police purposes. The many benefits of this plan were enumerated by the affirmative. "Public opinion calls for disarmament." It was stated, "and disarmament would lessen the causes of war." The policy of arms is a passing policy it was stated. The affirmative showed that preparedness did not prevent the last war from crashing down on the world. The second point was that arms are an immediate cause of war, while other causes are only remote causes. The affirmative maintained that disarmament will stabilize the nations.

Police forces would be in complete government control. Finally, the affirmative stated that reduction of armament would lead to complete disarmament, except for police protection, which will apply to internal problems of a nation. It was said that the psychology of arms suggests war, while lack of arms would suggest peace. The application of this plan was urged, for faith is a great factor in the success of disarmament, the affirmative maintained.

Negative Arguments

The negative team staunchly argued that disarmament is economically impractical for two reasons. First, competition in trade is too strong, and second, it is impossible for nations to agree on the ratio of police force. In proving these statements, the negative speakers cited examples of past wars resulting from trade competition. They raised the question of who is competent to decide the police forces of a nation. The potential menace of Mussolini, and his attitude against the league of nations, to European peace was explained. The negative stated the causes of war, among which armament was not listed; and disarmament is only one incident in securing peace. The last argument advanced by the negative was a plan of educating the public; find the underlying cause of war; finally do away with it and then quietly disarm.

Rebuttals were well launched on the side of the affirmative and the negative refuted them equally well.

Members of the affirmative team from Caldwell were Miss Charlene Boring, first speaker; Ralph Holmes, second speaker, and Howard Kohr, third speaker. The team was accompanied by their coach, H. H. Hayman.

Speakers of the negative team were Miss Viola Phillips, first speaker; Mrs. Victori Schweizer, second speaker, and Miss Elsie Yeck, third speaker.
