THE GARDEN

BOTANY OF THE GARDEN—NIGHTSHADES.
Nightshades, but by no means deadly, comprise a botanical family that furnishes us with a number of the most important vegetables in the garden, notably the potato and tomato. The botanical order is Solanaceae, the solanum or nightshade family.

In addition to potatoes and tomatoes, two of the most omnipresent vegetables in the diet, it comprises peppers, eggplants, and hush tomatoes or ground cherries, sometimes used for preserves. Potatoes and eggplants are the most closely related, both being solanums. The tomato botanically is a lycopersicon and the pepper is a capsicum.

In addition to these vegetables the nightshade family furnishes the smoker with his tobacco as the nicotiana genus furnishes tobacco plant as well as some handsome garden flowers. It is strange that a potato, tobacco and tomato should be relatives and members of the same family.

In the flower garden the nightshades family is also important. The nicotiana affinis, xylostris and Sanderae are well known for their ornamental qualities and the sweet scent of affinis. The daturas, with their huge fragrant trumpets, are handsome annuals and the native thornapple or stinkweed, Datura stramonium, furnishes a drug, the dried leaves being smoked by asthmatics to mitigate the violence of their wheezing.

But most popular of all the nightshades in the flower garden is the petunia. This would never be suspected of being a cousin of the potato. Others of the family are the salpiglossis and Schizanthus, the last one of the popular greenhouse annuals as well as a fine annual for the garden.

The beautiful blue of the brodiaea comes in this family also. A few greenhouse plants are also included in the solanum tribe such as the Jerusalem cherry which is really a miniature pepper, and the night blooming jessamine, cestrum. Taken by and large the nightshades so often called "deadly" are a most useful family.

Health Talks
THE A B C OF VITAMINS
The vitamins known to date have been designated vitamins A, B, C, D, E and K. This classification is indicative to an extent, of how much there still remains to be discovered on the nature and constitution of these unknown dietary factors.

On the other hand, a great deal is already known about the effect of the lack of these vitamins on normal growth, development and function.

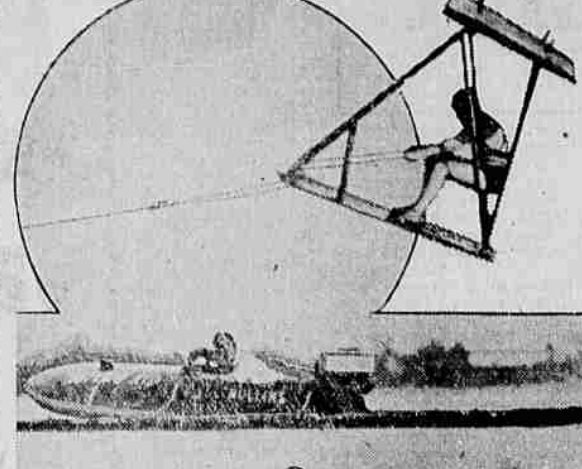

Thus the absence of vitamin fat soluble A, commonly found in milk, butter, egg yolk and in certain plants, such as barley, wheat and oats, results in what is known as xerophthalmia, a disease of the eyes in which they become so badly swollen as to be opened only with difficulty or not at all.

Vitamin B is called the anti-neuritic vitamin, because its absence results in inflammatory changes in nerves. Vitamin B also promotes growth. It is widely distributed in common natural foods.

Vitamin C is a so-called anti-scurvy vitamin, the absence of which results in scurvy. This vitamin is most commonly found in fruits and vegetables. It is practically absent in all common starch and fat foods.

Vitamin D is termed the anti-rachitic vitamin. Its absence in the diet results in rickets. This vitamin is found most commonly in fats, particularly fish oils. Cod liver oil is used in the prevention and treatment of rickets because it contains relatively large amounts of vitamin D. It is of interest to note here that we have recently succeeded in artificially producing vitamin D by subjecting certain substances to radiation with ultra-violet rays.

Newest Wrinkle in Gliding Fad

The gliding craze, ably encouraged by Colonel Lindbergh, is spreading and Dick Pope, Florida daredevil, has taken it up with variations all his own. Here, Pope, at Winter Haven, Fla., in his "aqua-glider," a contraption made from an old airplane wing that soars into the air when it is towed behind a fast motorboat. The motorboat doing the towing is not shown in this picture.

Formation of Frost
Frost may be described as frozen water vapor. When frost forms, the temperature is 32 degrees Fahrenheit or lower at the spot where the frost occurs. The temperature a few feet above the surface of the earth, on still clear mornings, often is several degrees higher than it is at the surface. Hence, frost may occur on the grass, and in low places when the temperature on one's porch, for instance, is distinctly above the freezing point.

By No Means
When a man's temper is bad, says an eastern psychologist, he should banish the household gloom by telling a joke. What usually happens when a man's temper is bad is that his wife tells him he is a joke. But this doesn't flood the home with sunshine as much as might be expected.—Detroit News.

have sent your own forbears to prison for ten years or five years."

Wiling Sufferers
People grive and bemoan themselves, but it is not half so bad with them as they say. There are moods in which we court suffering, in the hope that, at least, we shall find reality, sharp peaks and edges of truth.—Lawson.

game being 25 for La Grande to 23 for opponents, indicating strong defensive strength.

GANG LEADER IS RELEASED FROM PRISON

Itto. Police believe he was killed along with Itto.

Itto also roamed on the south side—police gunk. Two Negro bandits were surprised robbing a delicatessen shop and were killed in a gun battle with a detective squad.

In the meantime, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association of commerce and only known member of the "secret committee of six," began an inquiry into the laws on search warrants.

This action followed the release of Frank Dierman, notorious Capone gunman, after an indictment charging him with carrying concealed weapons was quashed by Judge Peter M. Schwaba, in criminal court. Isham decreed that police have no right to search gunners without warrants. This immediately brought conflict between the state's attorney's office and Commissioner William Russell.

"We're policemen and we must continue arresting gunmen no matter what the state's attorney and judges do about it," was Russell's comment.

"Imagine a policeman running pell-mell for the nearest judge to get permission to search Al Capone, (Bugs) Moran, Joe Slatie, Frank McElrath or any other gangster," Chief of Detectives John Stege remarked. "They didn't need a search warrant to give Capone a year in Philadelphia for carrying a gun."

Following this, Col. Randolph said "I am not a lawyer, it may be good law to turn loose a gunman because the police had no search warrant, but it's not common sense."

NORTHERN GROUP IN CONTROL OF PEIPING TODAY

The nationalists changed the name of Peking to Peiping, meaning northern peace and immediately moved the capital to Nanking. The foreign countries, however, still retained their legations and embassies in the northern capital where they still are.

Factional quarrels within the ranks of the nationalists soon developed and Feng Yu-Hsiang and Yen Hsi-Shan both gave up nationalist government posts and retired to their own strongholds active denouncing Chiang Kai-Shek. Only yesterday Chiang Kai-Shek said that Yen and Feng were preparing to launch a joint drive against the government along the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow railways.

SHANGHAI, Mar. 18 (AP)—Bandits, say delayed Chinese reports received here today, attacked and captured Puan, a town near Kiangsi, central Kiangsi province, killing all Puan officials and 2900 men, women and children, early this month.
