Hearing and Doing—For not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified.—Romans 2: 13.

When a disgruntled democrat places a bet on Corbett for governor at this early stage of the game you can guess that the republicans will not have a corner on party trouble during the primaries.

The Byrd expedition is "broke." But hold your sympathy. It has been operating far from the native haunts of the American dollar. Wait until the admiral puts his book, his pictures, his lectures on the market.

Gang leaders in Chicago have their disappointments as well as the rest of us. "Scarface Al" Capone returns to his home town and gives himself up to the police. But the police don't want him and he is thrust into the cold, hard world again. Nothing to do but go back in the liquor running business—and Al thinks jails are much, much safer.

The Literary Digest poll continues to show damp and wet voters in the majority in most states but the result can be interpreted any way you like. If strict enforcement is really possible and if the Wickersham report can really point the way to more successful operation of the law, thousands of people who voted damp or wet would prefer a continuation of prohibition. It is not a desire for intoxicants but a belief that the present system has failed that put many votes in the wet column.

One of the most progressive steps taken in tax matters for some time must be credited to the county assessors in session here this week when a uniform method of assessing livestock was agreed on. Inequality of assessments have long troubled stock men who operate in two or more counties. Sheep, for example, were fed during the winter in this county and grazed in the summer months in Wallowa. Sometimes they were one place, sometimes another when the assessor came 'round—and they found their animals given widely varying valuations. Now the assessments will be uniform in Eastern Oregon counties. The stockman in Grant county will have no tax advantage over the stockman in Wallowa county. They will know what to expect and can feel confident that everyone is being treated alike.

A bill has been introduced in the British parliament, providing that the owner of any ancient building may not export it without giving notice to the commissioner of works, who, in turn, would be required to consult the ancient monuments board. It opposed to the spoliation, the board could bring court proceedings to stop it.

GRADING ROAD AT THE PARK DURING WEEK

By Elva C. Vanorder (Observer Correspondent)

THE PARK (Special)—Law Fiske and son, Frank, are grading the roads in The Park this week and the results are very gratifying.

Mrs. Joseph C. Lay received quite painful although not serious injury to her eye. The accident happened while splitting kindling, a piece of wood hitting her just below the eye. It will be several days before she is able to see with the injured member. Mr. Lay was away when the accident happened.

Frank L. Wigglesworth moved to Everbody's does.

Operator—I don't know; she's awfully ticklish.

Clerk—My wife and I find it very hard for two persons to live on my salary.
Chief—Well, what do you expect me to do, get you a divorce?

"Lem Phee's a nice man to take a girl fishing, I must say," pointed Edith.
"My dear," cried her mother, "what's happened?"
"Well," Edith explained pettishly, "he's just fished."

"I want to enlist in the tanks," announced the applicant at the recruiting station.
"Why so keen about the tanks?" asked the sergeant in charge.
"Oh," said the applicant modestly, "I'm a pretty good swimmer."

The phone rang and the busy boss said: "Take the message and give it to me when I come back from lunch, will you, Miss Davino?"

When he came in and hung up his hat he was amazed to have the stenographer come up to him and plant a resounding kiss upon his mouth.

Before he could say anything she said, "That was your little daughter on the phone, sir," and she resumed her typing.

Nebraska's Master Farmers

Nebraska has selected ten farmers, out of a field of 300, who are known as the ten master farmers of the state and who are said to be the cream of agricultural folk in the Cornhuskers' state. The farmers, shown here, have an average age of 49, are all land farmers except one, who is a rancher, and have an average wealth of $405,036.

Hoover's Choice

Charles B. Rugg, above, has been appointed by President Hoover as assistant attorney general of the United States. Mr. Rugg is the son of Chief Justice Arthur B. Rugg of the Massachusetts supreme court and is now district attorney of Worcester county.

the confirmation of Chief Justice Hughes developed unexpectedly. The Parker nomination was submitted to the senate by President Hoover just before midnight yesterday and at the same time, the chief executive said that the geographical distribution of the membership of the supreme court bench conform more closely with the original intent of those who formulated the constitution.

Judge Parker is the youngest man to be nominated for the supreme court in a century. He is 44 years old. John Jay, the first chief justice was 44 and Associate Justice story was 32 at the time of their appointments.

The nominee has long been prominent in North Carolina.

A Convenient Place to Meet Friends

When you are to meet someone down town for a shopping tour—or you plan a brief business conference—or committee meeting—or you want a convenient and pleasant place to wait on an appointment—the SACAJAWEA INN is most attractive.

Comfortable and inviting chairs in the lobby or on the Mezzanine—attractive surroundings characteristic of one of the northwest's finest hotels. These things made the SACAJAWEA the natural meeting place, with modern coffee shop and fountain of the lobby if you wish lunch or refreshment.

Each speaker of both teams gave a short repetition speech, in which the opponents' arguments were splendidly presented by both sides, with the elements of delivery excellent.

Speakers of the affirmative team were Vergella Bond and Eugene Bowman. The speaker of the negative team were Marie Mance and Minnie Heaman.

State Emergency Board to Meet

SALEM, Ore., Mar. 22 (AP)—The state emergency board will meet Friday afternoon, April 1, for the purpose of considering the authorization of an expenditure for construction of a new wing at the state penitentiary, and also a number of other requests from various state departments. The call for the meeting was issued today by Secretary of State How at the request of the state board of control.

In the neighborhood of $50,000 will be requested by the penitentiary, and it is estimated that the other requests will bring the total to around $100,000. The state treasurer, the secretary of state, the reclamation commission and the supreme court will ask for funds. The need for a deficiency appropriation for the supreme court has arisen, it was said, from the expense of the Joseph and Mannix disbarment trials.

An Excellent Record

Mr. Haynes, in discussing the situation, points out that this is only about four per cent and believes that it is a much better record than could be found to exist in any other class of citizens. He also feels that much harm has been done by thoughtless people who criticize the high schools as a whole for the actions of a very small minority of the students.

GENERAL BONDS TAKEN CARE OF IN GOOD SHAPE

faulted on all its bonds, and the people in another have refused to vote refunding bonds to pay off maturing issues of street improvement bonds.

In the extravagance of their financial policies Kay said the municipalities have been running counter to the policies of the United States government and of the state of Oregon.

"Ever since I have occupied the office of state treasurer, I have tried to be exceptionally cautious about investing the trust funds of the state in municipal bonds," Kay declared. "The state, however, holds a number of bonds bought by previous administrations which may cause difficulty. Recently one of the smaller cities defaulted on all of its bond issues, and the taxpayers of another municipality bonded for more than $150,000 refused to approve an issue of refunding bonds to pay off maturing issues of street improvement bonds, for which funds were not available for retirement of the bonds, this action on the part of the taxpayers amounts practically to repudiation of the bond issue for the reason that street improvement bonds have been held by the supreme court to be general obligations of the cities of Oregon. In this respect, they differ from local improvement district bonds of other states, the security of which is confined to the property in the particular district.

"It has been altogether too easy to vote bond issues for public improvements under our liberal laws, but now that the dance is finished the municipalities are going to find difficulty in providing the cash with which to pay the fiddler."
