

LOCAL BRIEFS

In Portland— One of the well-known Eastern Oregon hotel men, C. H. Devine, manager of the La Grande hotel at La Grande, was registered here Sunday. Mrs. Devine accompanied him. La Grande considers that its hotel course is about the finest in the inland Empire. Certainly, according to Mr. Devine, it is a drawing card with many of the hotel patrons who stay over a day to play a round. The course is in the Grande Ronde lowlands where plenty of water is available to keep the grass green. On the other hand, the soil permits excellent drainage. The courses in some of the neighboring cities, such as at Baker and Pendleton, are handicapped by lack of water and proper turf. From a business standpoint, says Mr. Devine, La Grande is doing well.—The Oregonian.

At the Hotels— Among those registered at local hotels here: Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Allen, Boise; Mrs. Albert Squire, Mrs. M. E. Hise and Miss Helen Haden, Wilbur, Wash.; John Sharp, Walla; D. C. Bigman, Seattle; W. D. Heath, Portland, and Harry Lowell, Baker.

HEALTH TALKS— WHAT PRICE SICKNESS? The annual sickness bill of the American nation is more than two billion dollars. To treat the two per cent of the population which is at all times of the year so ill as to require medical services there are employed in the United States approximately 150,000 physicians, 50,000 dentists, 149,000 bedside nurses, 150,000 practical nurses and more than 140,000 other workers. There are, it is estimated, about 550,000 hospital beds in the United States, the annual use and maintenance of which costs close to a billion dollars. The federal bureau of labor statistics in a study of 12,000 wage earners' families found that the average medical expenses was a little over $50 per family per year. Other studies indicate the average annual expense to be a little higher, closer to $50 per family. These sums are apportioned approximately as follows: in payment of physicians' services, 40 to 50 per cent; for hospitals, 15 to 20 per cent; for nursing, 2 to 5 per cent; and for incidentals, 12 to 14 per cent. The studies from which these figures are taken also point out that while these sums are not small to the average family as long as they approximate the "average" sickness costs often do prove burdensome.

Senator Simmons, demagogue, North Carolina, asserted in the senate today his "repudiation" of Chairman Raskob of the democratic national committee in behalf of the democratic party of his state, for contributing money to the association against the prohibition amendment. "I want the country to know," said the veteran North Carolinian, "that the democrats of my state overwhelmingly disapprove of the chairman of the democratic national committee contributing money to an association whose purpose is to elect wet republicans over dry democrats." Senator Simmons declined to support the democratic presidential nominee, Alfred E. Smith, in the 1928 election.

"If in the three power naval conference held at Geneva in 1927 we had been able to conclude a three-power treaty on similar lines, I should have been very proud of it as an effective, fair and advantageous bargain for all three parties," he said. The ambassador to Belgium pointed out that the three power agreement involved scrapping of 25 battleships provided for in the Washington treaty of 1922 at a saving to the three nations of between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000.
