

WOOL REPORT
 BOSTON, Apr. 12 (AP) — The Commercial Bulletin says today: "Demand for wool in the near future is steady. Yorkshire faces a strike. In the west, there is sporadic activity with little change in prices in the territory sections. Prices for shio and similar wools seem to be crystallizing around 18 cents for fine and 20 cents for medium clips to the growers. The piece goods markets develop very slowly with no general buying movement apparent in any direction. Mohair is dull and prices merely nominal." The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following quotations tomorrow:
 Scoured basis: Oregon; fine and 7. m. staple 74-75; fine and 7. m. (Pr. combed) 70-72; fine and 7. m. clothing 65-67; valley No. 1 68-70. Domestic mohair; Oregon 45-46; domestic grading, first combed 57-58; good cradling 28-40.

Big Year Ahead For Commercial Units, Report
 TOLEDO, April 12.—With the Willys-Overland national dealer organization showing a greater concentration than ever before in the company's commercial car and truck line, the current year looms as the most successful in the company's history in this division of motor units.
 The Willys-Overland commercial line, consisting of the Whippet Four light delivery chassis, the Willys Six 1½ ton truck and the Willys-Knight 1½ ton truck, covers 87 per cent of the commercial car price range. This wide coverage places the Willys-Overland dealer in an advantageous position enabling him to enter every phase of the commercial car market with chassis and body types to serve practically every requirement.
 Although the Willys Six commercial chassis has met an unusually wide acceptance, the other units also are in demand. This demand has shown a marked monthly increase not alone in the domestic market but in the export field as well. In the light delivery field both the Willys Six and the Whippet Four chassis appear equally popular since they fill the demand of operators for fast, economical and reliable service.
 Low cost per mile haulage has long been a demand of the truck operator, both in the light delivery cars and the heavier trucks. It is from economical haulage and the reliability and stamina of his motor equipment that the operator derives his profit and he is well within his rights in giving careful attention to this phase in selecting his equipment.
 Willys-Overland engineers point out that in the development of the company's commercial units, every modern engineering practice has been followed in order to produce units that would provide the operator with, not only economy in operation but the ability of the available Overland commercial chassis ranging from the slip-on bodies on the light delivery chassis to the bodies for heavy service on the 1½ ton units.
