GUARD GUNS STOP REVOLT IN OHIO PEN

Columbus police reserves, summoned when the disorder started, were clearing all the streets near the penitentiary.

Two warden convicts were George Tonoff and Jewel Joffa. Tonoff was serving from three to 15 years for burglary and Joffa three to seventeen years on the same charge.

Glass in the guard room door and in small windows of the cell block was shattered by the convicts who chanted clubs and bars of iron. Ordered by the warden to go back to their cells, the convicts continued their rush. They celebrated at the first burst of firing, but later made a second rush. Automatic rifles spook bullets into the mob, and they took refuge in cells.

Troops Strengthened—Four additional companies of gendarmes were ordered to the penitentiary, including a Hewitzer platoon, armed with one pounders from Ironton. There are now 500 national guardsmen at the prison. All prison guards in the guard room were ordered removed and were replaced with national guardsmen, armed with machine guns, automatic rifles, side arms and tear gas bombs.

National guard officers said martial law had not been declared but guardsmen would take charge of the situation, in accordance with Governor Cooper's orders to put down the revolt and restore order. Warden Thomas said Col. R. S. Haubrich, Ohio national guard, was in command within the walls.

Col. Haubrich then announced "we are going to run things here. We intend to take the revolt out to eat shortly, and then they will return to their cells."

Fatally Wounded—Tonoff, doctors said, was probably fatally wounded. Dr. George W. Kyle, penitentiary physician, ordered him removed from the prison to a Columbus hospital. He was taken out under prison guards.

The effective putting down of the revolt was demonstrated at the noon-day meal time, less than two hours after the shooting, when the mutinous convicts were lined up between state troops and forced to march to the mess halls.

A machine gun mounted on the chapel building, where Col. Haubrich established national guard headquarters, surveyed the guard surveyed the marching prisoners and kept them in line.

DEMANDS ORDER

COLUMBUS, O., Apr. 29 (AP)—Governor Myers V. Cooper today issued an order to Warden Preston E. Thomas, in charge of the Ohio penitentiary, that order must be restored immediately. The governor in his order which went to the warden after today's shooting began, said civil authority of the warden would be backed up by the Ohio national guard.

Health Talks

A PROBLEM

"I had a young woman in my office," the doctor said, "and I assure you she selected me deeply and I left me terribly saddened. 'She came when I wasn't in and waited for me more than an hour. She refused to tell my secretary what she wanted, beyond saying in a tearful voice that she would wait until I returned. 'I was a bit mystified by her persistence and secrecy. But two minutes after I commenced talking to her I could both understand and sympathize with her plight. 'Her mother was sick, suffering from cancer. She had received the best and most modern of scientific treatment. She did not complain. But she had read of a new cure for cancer. Some many thousands of miles away was said to have a new cure. She wanted me to tell her whether she ought to move her mother to that city and perhaps save her life with the new treatment. 'What could I tell her? The latest scientific facts were simple to state, but certainly too weak to overcome that mixture of hope and credulity that was engendered within her by what she had read. 'In her desperation no odds against her appeared too great, and I knew all too well that when she left me she would still be perplexed and doubtful, desperately hoping again hope. 'In vain I tried to explain to her that medical discoveries were unlike discoveries in other fields; that before their validity can be established they must be tested and accepted by others than the discoverer, and that only after they have been so tested can we truly evaluate their claims. 'It was the old battle of false hope raised by a miracle story."

LONG SKIRTS STYLISH FOR TENNIS

Tennis girls will be wearing long skirts on the courts this summer as indicated by the new sport styles worn by the young ladies above. The new tennis dresses are two inches longer, with plenty of width to swing nicely, and blouses.

Pastor (Treating small boy to soda)—Now what do you say, my little man?

Small Boy—A-a-a-h-h!

Pastor—Is that the proper way to thank a person for a gift?

Small Boy—That's what dad says when Uncle Jim gives him a drink.

Our advice to June brides who are getting their pictures in the paper is that they cut them out and paste them in their memory books, for they seldom get back in the papers again unless they shoot their husbands.

Editor—Well, what did our eminent statesman have to say?

Reporter—Nothing.

Editor—Well, keep it down to a column.

It's much easier to empty friend husband's pocketbook when his stomach is full.

Now that skirts are getting longer, many men are afraid their eyes are on their last legs.

Customer—To what do you owe your extraordinary success as a house-to-house salesman?

Salesman—The first five words I utter when a woman opens the door—"Miss, is your mother in?"

Mother—Daughter, how many times do you imagine Jack has kissed you?

Daughter—So far, mother, I haven't had to imagine at all.

English Picture "Blackmail" At the State

The advent of talking pictures finds England an important center for honors in the new field. Diction, as well as dialogue, now play an important part in the success of the talking picture; and because the diction of the Englishman is considered by many to be superior to the American product, the motion picture producers of England are said to enjoy a new opportunity of attaining world-wide recognition in the audible form of screen drama.

With the presentation of "Blackmail" at the State theater tomorrow, England has put its best foot forward as a producer of talking pictures. This represents the first one hundred per cent talking picture produced and recorded in England; and because of the excellence of its dialogue and its reproduction on the screen, it is deemed worthy of a Broadway showing. It is recorded by the R. C. A. Photophone process.

Pink Evening Coats For Men The Latest

By Sue McNamara (Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pink, long-tailed coats for evening wear are engaging the attention of capital society, especially since the racing season has started. Former Colonel "Billy" Mitchell, who blazed a fiery trail of speeches across the country some time ago, introduced the first pink coats of the season at a ball given at his country home, "Boxwood," near Middleburg, Va.

Surrounded by women who rode side-saddle in the afternoon, now attired in lacy evening gowns and "gentlemen riders" in pink coats, the once fighting colonel played genial host to many Washington guests.

The pink coats, worn by members of the Middleburg Hunt and Racing association, both for sports and formal wear, are a reflection of the British custom. The short coats used for riding are of pink broadcloth. The lapels are ornamented with the wearer's hunt colors.

The long-tailed ones for evening wear are worn with white vests and regulation long back trousers. The exciting events of the afternoon produce an exhilaration for the evening teas, dinners and balls which succeed all of the spring racing meets of the association.

From many points which afford a natural amphitheater the guests, in automobiles and tally ho coaches view the races. Over a flag-studded course varying from one to four miles, horses and riders go full tilt over stone and brush fences. There are many spills. Out of 19 entries only five usually finish.

Normal School Class Visiting Local Industries

The two science and civilization classes taught by Elmo Stevenson of the Eastern Oregon Normal school made the first of a series of four to different La Grande industries, Saturday when they visited the Granada theater and heard a lecture on sound pictures and an explanation of the methods of operation through the courtesy of the La Grande Theaters, Inc. About fifty students are enrolled in these classes which are courses in applied science.

The motion picture itself and also the movietone are possible just through the ability of man to control the forces of electricity, according to Mr. Stevenson. The operator of the theater, Mr. Grant delivered the lecture, explaining the various devices, running several reels of film and explaining the things that took place. Of special interest was the method of producing talk through use of Western Electric Sound equipment.

Sound impression on the film that runs along one side of the picture make electrical impulses, which, after passing through two amplifiers reaches the speakers at the back of the screen and make the "talkie."

The screen instead of being a solid silver sheet, is porous and having many little holes through which the sound goes to the audience. Two projecting machines are in the operating room, so that if one fails to run properly the other can be used, insuring continuous pictures. The telephone is run on a different method, with records that must be synchronized with the pictures.

Save the Back-breaks of Scrubbing Floors

QUICK-STEP, the new finish for floors and all surfaces subjected to constant wear, will make old linoleum look almost like new and keep it looking so. It will prolong the life of new linoleum far beyond its usual life and keep the colors bright and fresh. QUICK-STEP makes cleaning easy—a dry mop will keep its spotlessly bright and gleaming when floors are finished with QUICK-STEP.

This new finish is neither a varnish nor an enamel. It is a brand new finish that you can apply yourself to floors, stairs, porches, veranda steps, shelves and boats. It flows on smoothly and dries over-night without showing a brush-mark. It comes in a variety of attractive shades that blend harmoniously with any interior decorative scheme, and today, colored floors are right in style.

Linoleum or hardwood floors finished with clear QUICK-STEP wear like iron. They are indifferent to water, wind, weather and they sneer at the never-ending pummeling they get from heels and soles and the inevitable scuffing of feet.

QUICK-STEP is a product of the GENERAL PAINT CORPORATION and is sold by dealers generally. Why not buy a can or two and prove for yourself how good it really is!

ties the right to contract with the public utilities.

In his closing minutes, Mr. Joseph spoke on freedom of speech, declaring that anyone who has the truth should be allowed to tell it. "And I shall tell it," he declared.

The meeting today opened with thanks given by the Rev. William Crosby Ross of Boise, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian church in La Grande. Supt. W. H. Guild, of the second division, announced the May 18 Portland-La Grande athletic events, and the the evangelistic meetings now in progress at the Christian church. During the luncheon hour Prof. Claude Neely sang two solos, accompanied by Mrs. Clem Green at the piano.
