WET WEATHER DELAYS LOWER COVE FARMERS

By Mrs. Nell H. Kight (Observer Correspondent)

LOWER COVE, Ore. (Special)—Farmers are delayed with their field work on account of the rains. Prospects are fine for all crops.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Johnson and Miss Anna Haacker were shopping in La Grande Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Chadwick and George Miller were in La Grande Friday to visit Mrs. George Gray who is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hilliard.

Marie Alice Kight celebrated her third birthday anniversary on Saturday afternoon, April 26 with a party for her little friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jean and Betty Kogor, Inez, Vern, Clifford and Alice Towle, Alfred and Clark Hartley, Mrs. Harlan Kogor, Mrs. Thomas Towle, Mrs. Leonard Towle and Mrs. Ray Hartley. The afternoon was spent in games and refreshments which were served including a pink and white birthday cake with 3 candles and pink and white ice cream. Marie Alice received many nice gifts and birthday wishes.

BRIDGE PLAYERS Victims of Rum

WIGHTA, Ore., Apr. 29 (AP)—The Heaton said Monday that nine women, members of a bridge club in the fashionable Colgate Hill district here, were under the care of physicians following a bridge-luncheon at the home of one of the members where punch "spiked" with alcohol was served.

Three women are reported completely paralyzed. Three others are confined to their beds, having lost the use of their limbs, and the others are able to get about only on crutches, the newspaper said.

Dr. M. H. Hostetter, county physician, reported 25 new "jake ginger paralysis" cases outside the city in Sedwicket county.

COURT GRANTS Rate-Railway Case Review

WASHINGTON, Apr. 29 (AP)—The supreme court granted a review Monday of the suit brought by southwestern railroads attacking the new rate basis laid down last June by the interstate commerce commission.

The controversy affects the revenue of railroads covering nearly one third of the area of the United States.

The order of the commission made a new division of the revenue from joint rates on certain roads in southwestern territory, at points on some roads in the Western Trunk Line territory, and on traffic from and to certain eastern points on the Western Trunk Line carriers, a higher percentage in the division of the rates.

A statutory three-judge federal court for Western Missouri sustained the order of the commission as applied to traffic moving via Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo., and certain gateways in Illinois.

2 Employment Bills Passed By Senate Monday

WASHINGTON, Apr. 29 (AP)—After passing two Wagner employment measures—setting up a $150,000,000 public works planning program and providing for collection of more accurate labor statistics—the senate voted 72 to 22 Monday to make the third Wagner measure establishing employment agencies the order of business.

The measure was sent to the house after brief debate in which Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, the author, contended such a system would have modified the present employment situation. He insisted that unemployment was on the increase in March over February.

The bill would establish a federal employment stabilization board composed of the secretary of treasury, commissioner of agriculture and labor, guided by an index of labor, which would be required from the labor department, the board would advise the president whenever a period of business depression and unemployment existed, or was likely to exist.

Public works emergency appropriations and the bill would include authority for federal highways, rivers and harbors, flood control projects, and public buildings.

are too much loved and "given in to."
It seems to me, however, that no child can be too much loved, and that the danger of excessive indulgence is less real than that of the wrong sort of indulgence.
My own belief is that children are more often spoiled by a form of parental selfishness that goes by the name of love, and by an indulgence that is merely a name for parental laziness and inconsistency.
For instance, we may shower them with gifts, not because we love them but because we enjoy the personal response which these gifts bring forth. We love to make our children feel that they owe their greatest pleasures to us.
The really loving mother gives wisely and temperately—she never thus unconsciously bribes her child to adore her.
An honest examination of her interior motives will lead many a mother to see her generosity to her children in just this unflattering light.
Again and again I have seen mothers rationalize as "not being too harsh," their actual unwillingness to give up the comfort of an arm-chair or a ray of gossip with a visitor in order to see that a child follows through some command he has been given.
There is a time, surely, when a child should have his own way, when even exceptions to routine are in order, but they seldom correspond to those moments which this type of mother finds so convenient.
It is in this sort of spasmodic, unreasonable indulgence that confuses the child so that he does not know where he stands, and leads him, sooner or later, to state those tantrums that mark the spoiled child.
