Meetings Continue—The meetings at the Christian church continue with interest. Dr. Packard's sermon Tuesday evening was "Millions Now Living Are Already Dead" and was based upon the statement of the Psalmist, "No one cares for my soul." "Millions now living are already dead," commented the evangelist, "and they are in the church." He declared statistics show that the activity of the church is being carried on by 40 per cent of the church memberships and that 60 per cent are dead spiritually and worth nothing to the church. His sermon was a clarion call to the church to awake out of her sleep of indifference.

At the workers luncheon Tuesday evening Dr. Packard spoke to a group of the church workers and had them set the goal for Sunday. It is to be "Every-member Day" with three hundred in church school. The evangelist's sermon tonight, "The Refusal of Jesus."

Hyde Defends Act—Secretary Hyde made a fiery extemporaneous defense of the agricultural marketing act and the federal farm board today before the United States chamber of commerce. Hyde, who was not listed as a speaker, arose after attacks upon the board.

He said much of the opposition to the board's activities in behalf of the farmer was due to "covetousness" and the "fathomed self-satisfied desire to be content with things as they are."

The secretary's speech was directly opposed to previous discussions by members of the chamber, but was applauded.

Hyde said the marketing act had been misinterpreted before the chamber. He asserted the "farm board does not expect to peg prices."

"The board had made no attempt to peg prices," he said, "and price fixing is no part of its program. It does propose, however, to try and influence production."

Hyde praised President Hoover's activities in behalf of the farmer, asserting that he "thanked God he was serving a chief who sees through subtleties to the welfare of 27,500,000 Americans."

BARNES MAKES OFF—WASHINGTON, Apr. 30 (AP)—In response to a challenge by chairman Legge of the farm board for members of the United States chamber of commerce to match him dollar for dollar for establishment of a private agency to take over the work of the farm board, Julius Barnes said today he would "engage to obtain backing from business interests to match every dollar put up by Mr. Legge to engage in a study of the farm situation."
