CONQUERORS—As it is written, For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter. Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.—Romans 8:36, 37.

Judge Parker's turn-down at the hands of the senate is not a slap at President Hoover but evidence of increased public concern for supreme court tendencies. It is a new fight between conservative and liberal law interpretation.

This new move of the government to prohibit sale of bottles, corks, etc., for use in making home brew is a sad blow for bootleggers. But it should be a blessing for people who are forever thinking that the next batch may taste good enough for drinking.

Population growth, great building activity, etc., are not the only things that indicate La Grande's metropolitan characteristics. Believe it or not, beauty parlors here report a decided increase in marcelling and permanent waving for masculine customers.

DISSATISFACTION ALWAYS

Three government commissions have recently been subjected to violent criticism, including the charge that they are so constituted as to nullify the purposes for which they were established. Judged by the statement of these critics, the Traffic Commission, Federal Trade Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission are now composed of men whose deliberate aims and purpose is to set at naught the theories and acts under which they were created.

There is always a tendency of the part of the minority to insist that the actions of the majority are all designed to bring the world to an untimely and terrible end. It is, perhaps, a privilege that should in some instances be allowed those who find themselves at variance with the views of the majority, but when the yarping is directed at established branches of the government it is well to consider the facts in the case before believing the charges.

It would not be natural for disappointed litigants to express pleasure, but no one has ever suggested that the courts should be abolished because their verdicts do not favor both plaintiffs and defendants. Often there are reasons why federal commissions should do one thing, but still better reasons why they should do the other thing. When that happens those who can see only one side of a question demand abolition of the commission or the appointment of new commissioners who think as they do.

Before these commissions were created there was a cry of injustice. They were created to stifle that cry. With what success? No matter which way the decision falls there will be dissatisfaction in some quarter.

BENNETT CONTINUES NORBLAD ATTACK

Senator Bennett has carried his campaign against Governor Norblad into the capital city and puts the question of a deal between Norblad and the black top paving interests squarely up to the governor. His denial, Bennett believes, is deliberate quibbling. "The 'black top' trust, outlawed in Oregon largely through the determined efforts of the present highway commission and Mr. Klein, the highway engineer, is not spending from $10,000 to $20,000 to secure the election of Norblad without having some reason to believe they will profit by his election." Such is Bennett's opinion. And he says further: "Governor Norblad states that he will not ask for the resignations of Van Duzer and Sawyer, let him also announce publicly that he will not, if elected, accept the courtesy resignations they, along with the rest of the appointive officials, will tender him the day he takes office. Let him announce that he will reappoint them and insure the retention of Engineer Klein, and perpetuate the organization that has rid Oregon of domination in highway paving by the royalty-grabbing 'black top trust'."

But Norblad will not make such a statement, we are afraid. It would cost him the support of Brady and the black top gang and his associations there are too intimate to be overthrown at this stage of the game. A clean-cut statement in favor of the present program and promising continued service to the present commissioners would make votes. As it is, Norblad is slipping badly. He is generally considered to have lost much ground in the last two weeks, voters who expected to vote for Norblad now switching to Corbett and Joseph.

Parisian Hosiery Style Hint Of Bare Leg "Boom"

By Diana Merwin

PARIS (AP)—Part of the "critics" of the sockless scene French hosiery manufacturers had which shocked Wimbledon's tennis with the inevitability of a general committee last summer, are put in here to log boom as part of the sun-ban movement by advocating ultra sheer hosiery of such low visibility that it is practically nonexistent.

So sheer and perfectly matched to individual complexions are the invisible mesh stockings that the only real reason for wearing them is that modesty is served.

their place by the self-effacing but perfectly tangible hosiery.

Other stockings styles launched for summer embrace brilliant colored fancy weaves hose to match bright jewelry and sport belts.

Emerald green, brilliant red, royal blue and tangerine are hot-today shades on the sportswoman's entry chart.

White tennis clothes are going to be the whole thing next summer. White beach ensembles are only slightly less standardized.

In fact, so far as clothes go, the whole summer girl is supreme. But her complexion, whether it comes out of an oil can or in a permanent tan, should be a deep south-sea-island brown.

And the modern woman's complexion only leaves off where her clothes begin.

ALONZO DUNN PROMOTED

SALEM, Ore., May 7 (AP)—Charles Dunn of Bend, a C. P. Dunn of Tillamook and E. K. Thibault of Roseburg have been promoted from the ranks of the state traffic police department to the grades of sergeant. This was announced today by T. A. Hafferty, chief state traffic inspector.

T. S. HOSIERY GETS BIG HAND IN PARIS

PARIS (AP)—One of the cut-pieces among Rue de la Paix cut-pieces comes out blatantly for santan silk stockings with fleck mesh which looks like pin-point dots woven in the hosiery.

If American manufacturers the dot-mesh stockings were sent to Paris to receive the stamp of official style headquarters.

The artificial fabric is a cellulose form developed last season and used a year ago by the most select military designers.

This spring its use is general and its popularity extends to all classes.

PARIS (AP)—Even the beach styles are going black and white. One of the new models just sent from the Rue de la Paix to Cannes has black shorts piped with white and a white tuck-in pullover embroidered in black.

A long dressing gown of white satin piped in black and a big black straw hat go with the ensemble.

CELLULOSE HATS CAPTIVATE PARIS

PARIS (AP)—For their first spring hats French women choose small turbans or beret models of shining black artificial straw called Inellette.

PARIS (AP)—Costume jewelry for evening wear is generally black matched to the color of the dress.

PARIS (AP)—Costume jewelry for evening wear is generally black matched to the color of the dress.

PARIS (AP)—Costume jewelry for evening wear is generally black matched to the color of the dress.

For sports the woman who wears costume jewelry contrasts it with her costume.

Afternoon ensembles, being largely black and white or navy blue or brown for town wear, are most effectively ornamented with diamond or straw ornaments.

Pearl choker necklaces of pearl are still the favorite ornament.

S. F. Sackett Buys Coos Bay Times

MARSHFIELD, Ore., May 8 (AP)—Effective today the Coos Bay Times, only Southwestern Oregon daily newspaper, appeared under new management. Announcement was made late yesterday that Sheldon F. Sackett, part owner of the Salem Statesman, had purchased a controlling interest in the paper from E. J. Murray, editor and publisher. Sackett will be represented locally by C. J. Gillette, owner of the Washington County News-Times, Forest Grove weekly.

Murray purchased the Times from M. C. and Dan Maloney in January, 1929. Murray will retain his interest in the paper. For many years he published the Klamath Falls Herald, now owned by Bruce Dennis.
