greased. Place side by side on greased baking pan. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven. Serve hot.

May Dessert
8 sponge cake circles.
1 quart orange sherbet.
1 cup whipped cream.
1-2 cup diced marshmallows.
2 tablespoons sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1-2 cup candied orange peel.
1-2 cup salted pecans.
Bake sponge cake in shallow pan. Use cutter 2 inches in diameter and cut out 8 circles. Arrange these on serving plates and top with rounds of orange sherbet. Mix whipped cream, marshmallows and vanilla. Spread on sheets. Sprinkle with orange peel and pecans.

The salted pecans add a flavor which is most acceptable.

He is the child who was given no constructive play materials, whose childish collections were classed as junk and thrown away on house-cleaning days. He never had a place to tinker and work about with tools.

His play was needlessly and ruthlessly interrupted to give preference to adult wishes. He has been chronically swept along on impulses which were not his own.

He has perhaps given a blind and listless obedience. He has never had a chance to follow his own interests and discover what he really wanted to do.

The individual who is able to frame his own purposes, pursue his own hobbies, independent to a large extent of the stimulation of other personalities has resources which the child who has been subjected to constant direction and management can never possess.

When he arrives at adolescence he begins to have ideas of what he wishes to do and he is never at a

Chats With Parents

BORED
By Alice Judson Peale
The boy who does not know what to do with himself, who has no ideas of how he wants to spend his time, of what he wants to study, of what—even vaguely—he wishes to become some day—is a common phenomenon.

How is such a child developed? Why is he thus bored and lacking in interest in everything which should challenge and intrigue him?

The boy's youth is very often one whose early attempts to make and to do met with no encouragement and only a limited tolerance at home.

YOUR carrier is one of them.

Rain or shine he gets your paper to you. In turn he expects you to have the money ready for him when he calls to collect, and appreciates it if you do. It inspires him to render you better service and greatly minimizes the bookkeeping problems.

THE NEWSBOY OF TODAY IS TOMORROW'S BUSINESS MAN

THOUSANDS of prominent business men of today were at one time newsboys, and they're proud of that valuable training they got as newspaper carriers. The little "newsie" gets his first real experience delivering papers—keeping his books.

HELP him along by paying promptly. Show that you trust your carrier, as we do, and just watch and see how he'll go out of his way to give you an extra measure of smiling service.
