

HOUSE APPROVES COURT MEASURE

Moore Bill to Permit Waiver of Right of Trial by Jury is Passed.

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The house passed the first of the law enforcement commission's proposals to relieve federal court congestion Tuesday when it approved the Moore bill to permit waiver of right of trial by jury in federal courts.

It now goes to the senate. The vote was 228 to 107.

The measure was amended to make it unnecessary for a defendant to obtain the consent of the district attorney to waive right of trial by a jury.

Later without a record vote the house passed and sent to the senate the Christopherson bill to define petty offenses and permit prosecution of such offenders on an information or complaint without grand jury indictment.

The Stobbe bill to remove from the scope of the Jones law violators who transport, sell or manufacture less than one gallon of liquor, was then passed and sent to the senate without a record vote.

Letters to 58 cadets for participation in athletics were awarded at West Point this year.

HEND, Ore., June 5 (AP)—Bert C. Boyland, Jefferson county district attorney, was safe in Hend today after he had slept on the brink of a sheer 600 foot cliff overlooking the turbulent Deschutes river Tuesday night.

Lost in the darkness, Boyland lay down on the ground to spend the night and resume his journey by daylight.

In the morning when he awoke, he found he had slept on the precipice while the river boiled below him.

Family Album Puts On Swank—Now In Society

By Sue McNamara
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON (AP)—The old family album minus the red plush is being revived.

From the dignified isolation of the "what not" in the close-up front room it has achieved a non-chalant but important position now in the library or living room.

But the album of today ain't what she used to be. The ones now being used in homes of cabinet members, congressmen and diplomats are made of tooled leather with the family name embossed in gold. The leaves are loose, thus permitting enlargement as the years go by.

One Washington matron, fearing she would have used all the leaves in her book by the time her children were grown, took the precaution of ordering an extra lot of leaves. They are made of heavy paper to match the album cover.

The revival of the album fad is attributed to the fact that it is no longer considered "stuffy" to have framed photographs on the living room walls.

Pictures of father, mother, the kids and near-of-kin have been shoved further back each year until they took a last stand in the seclusion of the bedroom.

Here they were, buffeted about by cologne bottles and powder boxes until their edges began to curl. But despite the apartment house and the delicatessen the family instinct is still strong. Some deep-felt need revived the old family album—the urge to show to the world a united front.

Hence the tooled leather album in a conspicuous place in the homes of some of the wealthiest people. Only, instead of "Aunt Minnie" in huge "rats" and bustles, Mignon, in riding habit, mounted on a loose leaf of pastel tint, tells the world she is her father's daughter.

Federal Action Clears Up Water Feud In Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., June 5 (AP)—Federal action has cleared partially the Wagontire mountain water situation which had previously been blamed for considerable ill feeling among ranchers and culminated in the death of a father and son over a period of three years.

Federal authorities here and at Burns, Ore., received word from the commissioner of the federal land office, Washington, D. C., that homesteads which interfere with the free use of water have been ordered cancelled. The Wagontire mountain water supply is reported to be the only one available for stock over a large and arid area during the dry season.

In July, 1929, a representative of the Oregon Humane society cut the fences of Frank Dobbins, homesteader, who is said to have been the only one who constructed fences around his water supply. The society representative was arrested and brought to trial.

Pencil Water Supply
At least one homesteader, who is a large stock raiser, fenced in the water supply after he had filed on his homestead in 1928. Another homesteader on the same side of the mountain also included the water sources, but was said to have left it open to neighboring stock.

A third homesteader included in his holdings the sole remaining dry season water supply located on the opposite side of the mountain, and he was charged with failing to establish residence and filed an answer asking for a hearing. The request has not been granted but the federal action probably will close the incident.

Brunettes Tan With More Ease, Claim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brunettes acquire sun tan easier than do blondes, says Dr. LeRoy A. Wilkes, of the White House conference on child health.

In preparing for the summer days at the beaches, blondes, says Dr. Wilkes, must be prepared to have their skins burn but not tan readily.

Sun tan, though sometimes fashionable, has no health value save as a defense against an excessive amount of sun rays, he says.

LEAKS FROM POWER LINES FOUND TO INJURE TREES
WASHINGTON (AP)—Serious injury to trees is often caused by the leakage of electric currents from high-power transmission lines.

Tree specialists of the United States department of agriculture also have found that whitewashed or light-colored walls often scorch nearby trees and shrubs by reflecting the heat of the sun.

Nelson Rockefeller's Bride-To-Be His Sweetheart of Maine Beaches

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The wedding here on June 23 of Miss Mary Todhunter Clark and Nelson A. Rockefeller, second son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., will mark a new chapter in a tale of romance which had its beginning on the beaches of Maine.

It was not far from there that the young scion of the house of Rockefeller was born.

It was near Northeast Harbor, Me., that these two minds found a mutual interest in the great outdoors.

Both are fond of horseback riding, tennis, photography, swimming and hikes through the hills.

Both families spent the summers there several years ago. Miss Clark and Nelson were very young then—he is only 21 now and she is 22.

But each summer they met again and the romance blossomed.

Made Debut in 1926
Miss Clark made her debut at a tea here in October, 1926. She is identified with the activities of the younger social set in this city and New York.

During the last two years she has been responsible for much of the social service work sponsored by the Junior League.

In dramatic productions presented by the league she has taken difficult parts and has appeared in specialty dances at the Junior League cabaret, the Easter ball, and the Devon horse show cabaret.

She was graduated from the Foxcroft school in Virginia in 1925, where she played basketball. A year later she took a degree at the Sorbonne in Paris.

She has traveled extensively in Europe.

Her mother is the former Miss Elizabeth W. Roberts, daughter of the late George B. Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania railroad years ago.

Father An Attorney
Her father, Percy Hamilton Clark, is the son of the late E. W. Clark, head of a banking firm which bore his name. He is a widely known attorney.

Miss Clark has six brothers and one sister.

The Clark-Rockefeller engagement marks the second alliance of the Rockefeller family with members of Philadelphia families.

14 TONS OF ANVILS READY FOR KNOCKERS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The world has sped on and jumped 279 anvils on Postmaster Geren here.

Stored in the postoffice garage they have become "white anvils" on the postmaster's hands. Originally they were secured just before the automobile did away with horses on tire engines and mail trucks.

Just now, nobody seems to be in the market for anvils. They weigh 14 tons.

Surgical Exports Gain
NEW YORK (AP)—Exports of American surgical instruments and appliances in the first quarter of 1930 showed a gain in value of about $4,000 over the same period of 1929.
