SCHOOL BEST GIVEN, WOMEN OF CITY SAY

McLean's instruction," said a La Grande woman yesterday. The course of demonstrations held in this school included a club luncheon on Tuesday, a family dinner on Wednesday, a bridal breakfast on Thursday and a Sunday evening supper on Friday. The menus and recipes have all appeared in the columns of the Observer, on the day the different menu was prepared. Mrs. McLean was assisted this year by Miss Eva Ledbetter of Alsea, home economic instructor, who, with the Misses Ruth Gehlb, Margaret and Alice, Misses also helped.

POINTERS

Orange juice, art lemon juice and a little sugar on cantelope balls, make a very good cocktail.

Always use an iron frying pan, if at all possible, for caramelizing sugar.

Caramelize a cup of granulated sugar. Let it dry, pound it up and run through a sieve. This makes a very pretty garnish for the icing of a cake, is tasty and in candle light sparkles quite prettily.

Cranges at 90 cents a dozen are cheaper for the customer than a box to the dozen.

A torte is a cake with more filling than cake and is coming to be used more and more. Of course it is not so good for a picnic or similar occasion as it must be eaten with a fork. The meringue pineapple cake served on Thursday was more of a torte than a cake.

Use a big pan of water to test candy. If a spoonful of the hot candy is put in a cup of water, it tends rather to heat the water than to set the candy.

Chocolate nut custard and orange nut custard are excellent fillings for the torte used yesterday. A lemon filling is also good, but if lemon is used, use only a half cup of lemon juice, filling the cup up with water and adding some sugar, according to taste.

There is no guarantee that fudge will not sugar unless the sugar is thoroughly dissolved before the cooking process begins.

If you have no immediate use for the egg yolks after making a cake which calls for only the whites, drop the yolks in boiling hot water and allow them to cook, using them for sandwich filling, in salads etc. Never throw out the yolk of the egg as it contains the substances which have the most value.

Don't be afraid to try new recipes. Cooking becomes more fun more often when the same old things are made over and over and over again. Recipes which are found in advertisements are very seldom found to be unreliable, or as Mrs. McLean put it, are always reliable as they are used to assist in the sale of a product and the greatest care is exercised in giving them out.

Mrs. McLean discussed yesterday, dinner of the character of the Darwin dinner which she served last year and which many La Grande women have used since. Frequently she, herself, makes more of this than she cares to use at one time, then cans the remainder and finds it very handy to have in the case of an emergency.

In planning a dinner be sure that the items on the menu are not all soft, or all solid; not all sweet or all sour; (sweet tends to deaden the appetite, while the sour stimulates the appetite); have not all hot, neither all cold, even in warm weather.

The cheese carrots served with the chicken in apple yesterday make a nice way to serve cheese with rice. The cheese may also be fashioned in small apple form, using a clove for the bud end and a rose leaf the stem end.

Mrs. Charles Playle received the attendance first-prize yesterday. It was an electric toaster presented by the Eastern Oregon Light and Power Co. As special gifts on the closing day, in addition to the usual prizes, coffee etc. by the smiling people, the Mazola and cornstarch by the Corn Products co., the flour by the La Grande Milling Co., etc., 50 copies of Ida Bailey Allen's book "The Modern Method of Preparing Delightful Foods" were given out by the Mazola people.

In making the French dressing used on two days of the school, some ketchup might be added, some mustard, dry or prepared, some horseradish, or some Worcester-shire sauce.

The La Grande ladies were appreciative of the fact that it is an unusual privilege to sit under the instruction of such an authority and so widely known as Mrs. Beth Bailey McLean and to have the opportunity to come to know her personally. Perhaps it was realized all the more yesterday when Mr. Appleby told them that at the Baker school which had been going so successful this week, with a splendid teacher and a large attendance, Mrs. McLean's book was being used as a basis for the discussions. This school was sponsored by the Eastern Oregon Light and Power Co.

Well, anyway, about 400 La Grande women enough to Portland, will be curious enough when driving through Hood River, to take the upper street and watch out for "John's" drug store. It is more than half way down the business street, in the center of the block on the high hand side of the street as you're driving to Portland.

The seven-minute frosting is splendid for white cake, or speed, chocolate or nut cake.

Well the school is over, and baking powder went into everything. It was supposed to be put in! And the heat WAS turned on and off for the baking of the lovely cake yesterday. Wednesday was the heavy day and reminded one of the Scotchman who went to the seven ring circus and broke his neck.

Carol Returns To Rumania; To Receive Crown

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 7 (AP)—The proclamation of former Crown Prince Carol as king of Rumania today was demanded by a majority of deputies in parliament close upon the heels of Carol's dramatic return to Bucharest by airplane from his exile in France.

It had been decided earlier that Carol should be proclaimed king tonight but it was found impossible to hold a sitting of parliament which probably will be convoked tomorrow morning.

Should the government insist on the standpoint that Carol become regent only, it is possible that Premier Maniu will resign and that parliament will proclaim Carol as king of its own powers.

The populace was reported cheering for Carol's proclamation as king.

QUEEN MARIE MAKES STATEMENT

VIENNA, June 7 (AP)—Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania received first news of the arrival of her son, former crown prince Carol, in Bucharest from the Rumanian minister who met her at the Vienna railway station where she stopped en route to Oberammergau.

Her first words were: "As mother I am very pleased at Carol's enthusiastic welcome home. As to myself, I always will remain the faithful guardian of my people."

and in April $154.99. May expenses have not yet been compiled. A number of telephone conversations are said to have been between the governor and his campaign headquarters in Portland. Attached to vouchers going from the governor's office was a notation that none of the money included in the expense accounts was spent in connection with the campaign.

Close Scrutiny Promised—Carle Abrams, secretary of the board of control, said some of the governor's expense claims for May had reached his office, but that they would not be public records until some action had been taken on them.

It was said at the state department that the expense accounts of all state officials who were candidates or who were in any way connected with the campaign would be closely scrutinized.

The general color scheme is also in blue and gold.

Carol Returns To Rumania; To Receive Crown

Dr. W. T. Phy purchased the car in 1906, when it was new, but during the winter something froze and it was brought to Mr. Smith for repairs. Seems queer going to a bicycle shop to repair an automobile, but queer things happened in those days. Mr. Smith, with an eye for business, recognized its possibilities and one spring day, Ben Noyes became a taxi driver, owner of Dr. Phy's frozen Reo.

Twenty-three years has perhaps done much for La Grande and its people. Mr. Smith's business has grown from a bicycle repair shop to that of an automobile dealer. The taxi business has prospered from one fresh air machine, to a number of sedans; from one man to many. Mr. Noyes has progressed from a taxi-man, who was out in all kinds of weather, to a comfortable barber shop of which he is the proprietor.

Chug, chug, chug—sput, sput the old car starts, and in a whiz it takes us back to today and drops us, but before it goes—don't fail to notice the bandage on the rear tire. Bandages then were first aid for injured tires.

WYKOFF SHATTERS 100-YARD RECORD

a slight wind at his back, but the breeze was not sufficiently strong to ruin his chances for official acceptance of his performance as a new world's record.

Anderson's Lange Wins

Stephen Anderson, University of Washington hurdler, tied the world's record of 1:14 in defeating Lee Sentman, Illinois, in the 120 yard high hurdles by a foot. Sentman and Anderson ran neck and neck until they reached the last hurdle, when Anderson, in a furious drive, lunged into the tape a winner.

Joe Sivak, ace of the Butler college team, stole the one mile run from Rufus Kiser, of University of Washington, the 1928 champion, and Ralph Hill, of Oregon. Sivak stayed with the second flight until the back stretch of the last lap and then set a sprinting pace to the finish, leading Kiser, the early pace setter, by five yards to win in 4:19.3. Sam MacKeever, Illinois, came from nowhere on the home stretch and just beat Ray Swartz, of Western State Teachers, Kalamazoo, Mich., by a foot. Hill was sixth after sharing the early lead with Kiser.

Simpson Wins 220 in 20.7

Simpson, beaten in his heart-breaking finish with Wykoff in the century, came back to smash the N. C. A. A. record in winning the 220 yard dash in 20.7. Simpson, off in front, bounded along with terrific speed, making a show of his field, and finished five yards ahead of Cy Leland, of Texas as Christian, with Eddie Telan, the Wolverine's sprinter, third. Simpson clipped a tenth of a second off the meet record established by himself a year ago. Wykoff was not a starter in the 220-yard event.

Reginald (Pete) Bowen, Pittsburgh's track captain, became 449-yard champion, defeating a field in 48 seconds even, three tenths of a second slower than the meet record. Bowen led from the start and stood off brilliant challenges by Victor Williams, of Southern California, and Russell Walter, of Northwestern, the defending champion. Walter drew the outside lane and needed 300 yards to get into a challenging position.

Huskie's Leading Field

With ten of the sixteen events run off, the University of Washington was leading in the table of points with 30; Ohio State second
