PLANNING DEAR—Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith one may edify another.—Romans 14:15.

A schoolboy's definition of granite is a fruit. It's a good synonym for early cantaloupe.

Dear old dad will come in for his share of honor tomorrow, which will be nationally observed as Father's day.

COMEBACKS

People like a good "comeback." Many an unpopular champion in the realm of sports has won the idolatry of the public by staging a spectacular comeback.

Baseball fans will never forget that historic resurrection of Babe Ruth a few years ago after the wiseacres had told the world the bambino was through.

The comeback the boys who follow the horses are talking about today is that of Earl Sande, the jockey, who won the country's two most important horse races this year in one of the most dramatic returns to the stellar role the world has ever witnessed.

Baseball teams have a way of staging comebacks by climbing from the cellar to the top in their league standings, and comebacks are not unknown in politics.

Perhaps that common sympathy for the under dog has something to do with it.

STAND BY OLD GLORY

Officially "the flag of the united states," reproducing literally a portion of the original resolution creating the flag, is 151 years of age today. It is a curious feature that whoever penned the resolution capitalized "flag" but not the name of the nation.

The flag is the emblem of our national unity. It is not merely so much bunting, nor a variety of colors. Its stripes symbolize the beginnings of our history as a nation and its stars the growth in nearly a century and a half of existence.

But on this Flag Day Americans should do some deep thinking. It is not enough merely to display the emblem; that could be done perfunctorily—in the morning and with no more thought of it until time came to take it down at night.

So, while priding ourselves in the thought that our National Banner has never known defeat in war, we must be on the alert to see that its honor is not lowered by desertion or neglect of its ideals in peace.

Only a Dad

Only a dad, with a tired face coming home from the daily race. Bringing little of gold or fame. To show how well he has played the game.

SALEM, Ore., June 14 (AP)—The fifteenth annual convention of the Oregon Music Teachers' association will open here Monday morning for a two day session.

Speakers at the convention will be David Schertz-Craig, editor of "Music and Musicians"; Carl Denton, of Portland; C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction; David Campbell, of Portland; Arthur Boardman, of the School of Music at the University of Oregon; Dr. C. L. Sherman, of Willamette University; Glenn H. Woods, supervisor of music in the Oakland, Cal. schools; and Dr. W. R. Anderson, of Oregon Agricultural college.

LOW IRISH INCOME TAX DRAWS BRITISH MONEY DUBLIN (AP)—The lower income tax of the Free State as compared with England, especially with the recent addition to the British tax in the Snowden budget, has led to the belief that many wealthy Irishmen who moved to England when the Free State was established will come back to Erin.

The normal tax in England is now 50 per cent higher than the standard rate and the super tax is also considerably lower here.

Moreover there is no immediate prospect of increased taxation in Ireland. The budget for the coming year shows a deficit of roughly $1,250,000 on a total income of $121,250,000, but the excess is regarded as largely abnormal and will be raised by borrowing rather than by increased taxation.

WARM WEEK PREDICTED SAN FRANCISCO, June 14 (AP)—The weather outlook for the week beginning June 15 is given as follows: Far Western States—The outlook is for fair weather with high temperatures in the interior, and fog along the coast.

Sport Slants by ALAN J. GOULD

The American boys and girls have been doing pretty well in the golf and tennis sports on foreign fields, furnishing two of the big winners in Helen Wills Moody and Hedy Jones; two runners-up in Glenn Collett and Big Bill Tilden.

Henry Coulter, however, to be the main obstacle to any advance by Uncle Sam's net artists. Henri is an certain to be a double-winner in any Davis Cup battle as Tilden used to be, in his prime.

It will be Britain's turn to take up the attack to the tune of the Womani of the Green, when Sir Thomas Lipton sails his Shamrock V across the ocean for an attempt to lift the American's Cup and give the British polo team rides out in September to challenge America's hold on the International Cup.

These is a distinct Irish touch to these two colorful classics of sport this year, for representing the hitherto ultra-conservative Hurlingham Club likely will be three Irishmen and an Anglo-Argentine. In polo's old Guard seems to have evaporated completely in the announcement, naming the famous Roark brothers, Captain "Fat" and Aidan; Gerald Bolding, another young Irishman; and Lewis Lacey, the Argentine ace, to carry the challenging colors against Tommy Hitchcock's Yankee riders.

The best minds of American polo consider this prospective British line-up the strongest that possibly could be assembled, in fact the most formidable challenge any English side has presented since before the war.

All four are thoroughly familiar with playing conditions at Meadow Brook as well as with the American "system." Lacey is the finest "back" the game has produced since the heyday of the American rock of Gibraltar—Devon or Milburn. "Fat" Roark, a daring horseman and good hitter, frequently has demonstrated ability to make things more difficult for Tommy Hitchcock than any other player ever seen on Long Island's classic turf.

BRAZIL RECEIVES BIG LIST OF IMMIGRANTS RIO JANEIRO (AP)—In the past four years 495,622 immigrants entered Brazil, according to figures in President Washington Luis' recent message to congress.

Portuguese, naturally, were first with 142,788 entries, and Japanese next with 45,205. It is estimated, however, that within five years Japanese will be close to, if not ahead of, the Portuguese.

Old Red Shirts Hold Spotlight With Mussolini

By Hudson Hunter (Associated Press Staff Writer) FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Red-shirted veterans of Garibaldi's campaigns, wearing square-shouldered "forage caps" strikingly similar to those used by union soldiers in the civil war, were centers of attraction second only to the Duce himself at Mussolini's recent "parade" through the provinces.

At every big meeting in the public squares, and at the numerous military reviews here, the grizzled veterans were in evidence. Being mostly of sturdy peasant stock, they trimmed by lives and thrives along with the youngsters of the Black Shirt militia, taking all the dust and heat. Only a few of them connected to any extent with the old days of a hot reception committee, had so much as dared offer them an automobile he would have had a duel on his hands.

Their all turned out in uniform, their red clad breasts heavy with medals. The inevitable gaudy bandana handkerchiefs were around every neck. Their trousers were of old affairs—even for their day, others reminiscent of the old time. It was surprising how few of them were eye-glasses, and not a one turned up with crutches or in a wheel chair.

These remarkably spry "ancients" whose service records date back to anywhere between 1848 and 1870, asked no special favors, but got many. Mussolini let it be known that their uniform was a good pose when they wanted to get near him, and wherever he spoke there was always a little knot of them right under the balcony, hanging on every word.

Independent citizens they are; they have no woman's auxiliary and they seem to have a sublime contempt for the sons of Garibaldi's organization—even for their own kin in it. They are perfectly able to take care of themselves and they let everybody know it.

Mussolini made no political capital out of the Garibaldians. He seldom mentioned them in his speeches, and while always glad to shake hands with them and give them his infectious smile, was conspicuously "which asked to pose with them."

The reason may be that the men of '48 and '70 had to fight the pope's troops, and that Garibaldi himself was a rabid anti-clerical. In these days of religious peace, brought about by himself and Pius XI last year, the Duce prefers not to revive painful memories.

Bald Spot Worth $150.00 In Damages DENVER (AP)—A bald spot on a woman's head is worth $150 in damages, according to a jury in Judge Henry Bray's court. The jury awarded that sum to Mrs. And Arnold, who had filed suit for $5,000 damages against Eilian Kretschmar, beauty parlour operator. Mrs. Arnold claimed a permanent wave machine burned the top of her head, causing the bald spot.
