OUR POLICY—For the Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom: But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumblingblock, and unto the Greeks foolishness; But unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God—1 Cor. 1:22-24.

Granges Prepare For Celebration At Wonderland

By Mrs. Wm. Wiggins (Observer Correspondent)
LOSTINE, Ore. (Special)—Wallowa county grangers extend to all a cordial invitation to spend the Fourth of July with them at Wallowa Lake. They say to come with a full lunch basket but to leave pocket books at home. There will be horsehoe pitching, base ball and a tug of war between grangers and business men across the Bear pond at the hotel. Walter Pierce is principal speaker for the occasion.

Thursday evening was the time appointed for the Legion auxiliary and their families to attend a picnic on the river below Wallowa. The rain in the evening marred the evening to some extent.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waddel, of Wallowa, are enjoying a visit from Mr. Waddel's mother, Mrs. Henry Waddel, of Ontario, Canada. She expects to spend the summer with her son.

Christian Johnson received word that a hog he had shipped to Portland market weighed 840 pounds. It was a hog that took second prize at the Pacific International show two years ago.

Mrs. Mary Ward and granddaughter, Madeline Ward, arrived here by auto from Portland, Wash., last Wednesday. Miss Madeline remained with her aunt, Mrs. Ober Ward, while Mrs. Ward returned to Portland.

Miss Genevieve Hook was taken to the hospital at Wallowa Wednesday where she was operated upon for appendicitis.

Mrs. Beulah Candler went to Enterprise Saturday where a splinter was removed from her finger.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Garrett went to Alder Slope where they visited Mrs. Herbert Murrell.

Mrs. Wm. Wiggins entertained the Neighborhood club at her home Thursday afternoon. Election of officers was held and a patriotic program was given after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Hattie Leonard entertained the Community club at her home Friday afternoon. Twenty women were present and the hostess served refreshments during the evening.

The annual school election was held on Monday. Frank Bradley was elected director of District No. 7 for a term of three years. Harrison Holmes was re-elected clerk.

Roy Haun and daughter, Fern, and L. Couch, of Wallowa, spent several days in Portland. They returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Cook, who has been ill at the Wallowa hospital, was brought to the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cook Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dodge drove to La Grande Tuesday to meet Mr. Dodge's daughter, Mrs. Grace Mc-

FOR THE MAN WHO CARES

When Senators Reed and Grundy from Pennsylvania say that the new tariff bill is the "worst ever" we are inclined to think there must be considerable merit in the schedules from a western viewpoint. Coming from a state state is thoroughly selfish, their comment indicates that the new tariff may contain some benefit for the outsiders who are usually neglected.

In the many press comments on the political situation and the probable heir to the nomination for governor on the republican ticket, one general trend is significant. That is the small consideration that is being given Norblad so far. He is mentioned in a casual sort of way as a possible candidate and as an ardent wisher—but otherwise he seems to be pretty well out of the picture. That is well. Norblad showed his political mindedness after the primary. He is not the man Oregon wants for governor.

The Observer force is gradually getting settled in their new quarters, today being the first we have tried. So far, we admit liking it—and visitors seem to like it almost as well as we do. As is always the case in a new building, there are little things to be finished, rearrangements to be made, etc., but by the end of the week we think we will be ready to have an "at home" party to everybody can come and look over the building and plant. Friday night is the official opening and we plan to have the plant in complete operation so that all visitors can see how their daily paper is prepared and printed. Plan on coming.

SCENIC WONDERS OF U. S.

Some of the best scenery in the world is in Alaska. Mount McKinley seen from the plains is in a class with Everest and Kunchinjunga. Nowhere are there more magnificent glaciers, and nowhere except in Norway can one match the famous inside passage.

Few American tourists have seen these glories, or are even aware of them. When they think of mountain scenery, they think of the Alps. Yet the mountains of Switzerland are pygmies beside the snowy crests of the Alaskan ranges, and the glaciers around Mount Blanc are tiny scraps of white compared with the blazing expanses of Alaskan ice fields.

Thousands of Americans are booking passage for Europe this year to go in search of scenic wonders and beauties their own country can excel. They go because they don't know America or because going abroad is "quite the thing."

But the traveler isn't solely to blame. The Alps have been advertised the world over for generations. Alaska has no press agent. The Alps have been commercialized. The Alaskan ranges have not been brought out of the wilderness. And touring America, while hundreds of thousands are doing it, has not been made the social and intellectual accomplishment attributed to foreign travel by those who have been "across" and by those engaged in the profitable business of bridging the Atlantic for them.

Chats With Parents

DISAPPOINTMENT (By Alice Judson Peale)

One reason for not telling children ahead of time of some pleasure which is planned for them is that so often circumstances prevent its materializing.

Teddy's mother, for instance, told him in advance that a certain Tuesday would be his last in kindergarten. He must be sure to bring home all his possessions for on that day they were leaving to spend the summer in the country.

But things happened and the planned trip could not come off for another two weeks.

Teddy, who had been living in anticipation, who had been telling his friends about the great times immediately to come, who had even done a lot of packing of his most cherished possessions into an old suit case, had to meet the anti-climax of disappointment.

Those last two weeks at home he was much more than usually difficult to handle. At school he was unresponsive, idle, and anything but an asset to the group.

It is not easy even for adults to accept disappointments always with equanimity and it is, I think, too much to expect of any child.

A child misses nothing through having his pleasures come to him unexpectedly and he is often spared disappointment by not being told of them until there is certainty of their eventuating.

The ability to make the most allowances of the present without fantasizing too much about the future is a wholesome one to cultivate in childhood.

Upon it depends much of that evenness of disposition which is such an asset in all human relationships.

Have You Ever Owned Real Estate?

Have you ever experienced the thrill of holding a deed in your hand showing that you were the owner of a piece of real estate? Have you ever known the satisfaction of living in a home that belonged to you, or of cashing rent checks from tenants occupying your property?

Many people, who are comfortably "well off" have accumulated worthwhile estate through gradual purchase of real estate. Many others have built a bulwark against want and poverty in old age by buying a home of their own.

You can find frequent opportunities to buy a lot, a house or a piece of farm land at a reasonable price. And through a savings account you can accumulate enough money to swing the deal.

We will be glad to suggest how the best savings plan can be worked out and will give you a benefit of our experience and counsel when you are considering a real estate purchase.

The friendly interest of your banker will help insure every financial investment being sound and profitable.
