

ALL GRAINS ARE FILLING SLOWLY

Fall Wheat Headed, Barley Beginning to Head; Corn is Retarded.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 26—(AP)—The United States department of agriculture, weather bureau division, issued its summary of weather and crop conditions in Oregon for the week ending June 24 yesterday.

It follows: The warm weather at the beginning of the week was followed by cool and generally cloudy weather with some frosts reported from the plateau and from bottom lands in the northwestern counties. Fairly heavy showers fell during the latter part of the week in the northeastern and central counties and at scattered places in the southwestern part of the state. Sunshine was somewhat deficient. Some hail fell but no damage was reported.

Cereals: Corn was again retarded by the cool nights. Fall wheat is headed and barley is beginning to head. All grains are filling out slowly; in the northeastern and some central counties grains were greatly benefited by generous showers during the latter part of the week.

Fruits: Cherries are ripening slowly in the north, being somewhat retarded by the cloudy weather. In the southern counties conditions are more favorable and some cherries are being marketed. Other tree fruits are making a fair growth, but sunshine is needed in most fruit districts.

Meadows, Pastures and Ranges: Hay crops are unusually heavy in the western counties and in some of the eastern counties; in the southeast, however, some alfalfa and grain hay fields will be pastured due to lack of moisture. Mountain ranges are drying but are furnishing sufficient feed.

Livestock: Stock in general reported in excellent condition. Shearing nearly finished and sheep are moving to the summer ranges. Shipments of lambs to markets are increasing.

Miscellaneous: Early potatoes are in blossom and are being marketed in some localities. Truck crops are in excellent condition as a result of the cool weather but are maturing rather slowly. Mint reported making an exceptionally good growth.

Child's Vocabulary

There is no complete survey as to how fast a child progresses in its vocabulary. It has been estimated that the vocabulary of a child from two to three years of age contains from 300 to 800 words. Children who have been in school two years have a vocabulary of about 1,000 words.

A Bit Difficult

A snake expert says if you see a snake with nine scales on its head, let it alone. It's poisonous. Yeah, but what's the snake gonna be doing while you are counting the scales on its head?—Macon (Mo.) Telegraph.

Roulette

The exact origin of the roulette wheel seems to be obscure. The game is said to have first appeared in France, becoming very popular at the period of the First Consulate. In England it was known as Holy Fair. As early as 1745 legislation was passed against it.

Dirt Usefully Employed

The dirt taken out when the Panama canal was dug was used to fill in swamps for the Gatun dam; also for building a causeway at the Pacific end. The dirt was carried to the places desired by 300 dump trains.

Titled Italians

The former existence in Italy of so many separate sovereignties gave rise to a great number of hereditary titles of nobility. There are many hundreds of princes, dukes, marquesses, counts, barons and viccounts, and many persons of patrician rank with a right to the designation "noble" or "signor," as well as certain hereditary knights or cavaliers.

Simply Co-Ordination

Diligence is a high-sounding word, but it means merely the co-ordination of mind and body in our daily tasks. The diligent man never becomes a mere industrial machine. The thought he puts into his work makes it a living thing.—Grit.

Singer's Advantage

GANDHI'S FOLLOWERS RAID BOMBAY SALT MINES

Followers of Mahatma Gandhi in the civil disobedience campaign in India are shown here raiding the Wadala salt plant, near Bombay. Scores of the salt lawbreakers were injured in skirmishes with police throughout a day-long raid.

Strange Cures

Ground junjuny dust from Egypt was a favorite drug of Europe until the Eighteenth century, and the absurdity of this remedy makes a modern smile. No less strange, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society, but more seriously true, is the fact that the pulverized frozen spinal cords of rabbits, killed in Cleveland or Indianapolis, will save the life of a Chinese bitten by a mad dog in Shanghai.

Gospel Writings

The synoptic Gospels are Matthew, Mark and Luke, and are so named on account of their many agreements in subjects, order and language. These three Gospels consist largely of facts and chronicles. The Gospel of John differs from them in being given up to narrative and records of the discourse of Christ.

Community Chests

Denver was the first city in the United States to have a community chest for charity. That city instituted a community chest in 1888. Cleveland next adopted the plan in 1913. Since the World War many cities have adopted this plan for raising funds for charity.

Geographical Society in 1788

The first society devoted exclusively to geographical discovery was the African association, founded in London in 1788. It passed on its functions to the Royal Geographical society, which was established in 1830, with a worldwide outlook. It had a roll of 6,000 fellows in 1928.—Rocky Mountain News.

Origin of a War Custom

During the Fenian rising in Ireland in 1867, the British troops bagged too many prisoners for them to handle. "Take away their breeches and cut off the buttons from their trousers," was the commander's order. This practice was often resorted to during the World War in similar circumstances.

Monkeys Eat by Color

Monkeys can be taught to distinguish color, according to an announcement of the Berlin Physiological institute, where experiments have been made. The tests were made with small Java monkeys, which come instantly when a yellow light is shown, but ignore all other colors.

Life an Experiment

Do not be too timid and squeamish about your actions. All life is an experiment. The more experiments you make the better. What if they are a little course, and you may get your coat soiled or torn? What if you do get fairly rolled in the dirt once or twice? Up again, you shall never be so afraid of a tumble.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Lord of the Isles

The title Lord of the Isles was borne first with greatest distinction by Donald of Islay, who in 1346 reduced the Hebrides under his sway. It had been borne by others centuries before and was also assumed by his successors. One of Sir Walter Scott's metrical romances is so-called. The title is now borne by the prince of Wales.

Clamor to End Chicago Killings Makes And Breaks Police Chief

CHICAGO (AP)—A wave of civic revulsion against hoodlums and gangsters swept William F. Russell into office as Chicago's police commissioner, and a second wave of popular indignation washed him out. The clamor against his administration, which resulted in his resignation, arose after the fatal shooting of Al Lingle, Tribune reporter and intimate friend of Russell.

Roman Equestrians

In the earlier ages the Romans used neither saddles nor stirrups. Saddles were in use in the Third century, and are mentioned as made of leather in 804 A. D. They were known in England about 1000 A. D. Anne, queen of Richard II, introduced side-saddles for ladies.

Forgetful Humanity

Judging from the articles left behind in trains in England women are more forgetful than men. There are 50,000 articles a year, ranging from bicycles to crutches, left in trains; of these 20,000 are claimed by and returned to their owners.

Women Only

Experts agree that women's sense of intuition is a sex-gift conferred by nature, probably to balance disabilities, in the same way that nature gives a greatly increased sense of touch to the blind.

Fundamental truths should be both clear and familiar truths; self-evident truths are as solid foundation for reasoning.—Simmons.

Thirteen States In West Benefit From Road Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26 (AP)—Thirteen western states would benefit by the Oddie-Cotton bill just signed by President Hoover. It authorizes federal cooperation in construction of roads through unreserved public and Indian lands.

Funds authorized under the act will be available only to states which have more than five per cent of their area in non-taxable federal lands.

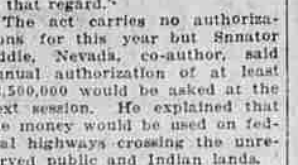

The eleven so-called public land states that would receive the greatest benefit, and the proportion their unreserved public and Indian lands bear to total area, follow:

Washington 30.6; Oregon 45.6; California 49.7; Idaho 57.3; Nevada 54.2; Montana 80.4; Wyoming 51.8; Utah 66.3; Colorado 52.2; Arizona 65.8; New Mexico 37.7.

South Dakota and Oklahoma also come under the provisions of the act.

The house road committee, reporting favorably on the bill, said: "It has long been recognized as most desirable that some means be found to hasten completion of the main roads that cross these unreserved federal reservations in states whose resources are limited and which derive very little direct benefit from the construction of highways across these lands owned by the federal government, it

Logical

The unanswerable logic of young children frequently confounds the best meant efforts of grown-ups. This story concerning a small boy who had been particularly naughty all day long and had almost worn out his mother's patience. At bedtime his mother took him severely to task, and when she thought him sufficiently chastened, she said: "Now, Harry, tell me! What must we do before our sins can be forgiven?" "Sin," said Harry.

Dustbag for Vacuum Cleaner

The bureau of standards says it is possible to make a dustbag for a vacuum cleaner without the use of chemicals. The material is usually made from a warp heavily sized before weaving and in the weaving operation a very close, tight fabric is constructed, making the interstices between the threads very small to prevent the escape of dust from the bag. Chemicals may be used to shrink the fabric and make the interstices smaller.
