93.8 PER CENT OF STUDENTS USE SERVICE

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, June 27.—Although no epidemics occurred during the school year just ended and contagious diseases were rare, 93.8 per cent of the students enrolled made use of the college health service to the extent of at least one call, the annual report of the director, Dr. D. C. Reynolds, shows.

Although the service, paid for out of student fees, is housed in one of the oldest and smallest buildings on the campus, it handled 12,802 dispensary calls, made 262 room calls and cared for 362 bed patients during the year. Only four deaths occurred in the year out of an average enrollment per term of approximately 3500 students.

Common colds, listed as "acute respiratory infection," sent the largest number of students to the doctor among the 173 conditions treated. A total of 2,212 calls were made for this reason. Complete medical examinations were given 852, while 746 were treated for injuries of varying degrees of seriousness.

Considerable new equipment has been added to the health service in the last year permitting it to give most modern care to student health. Physical therapy treatments, such as infra-red and ultra-violet ray, were given 1,023 times and x-ray examinations were made for 302 students. Laboratory examinations were made in 1027 cases.

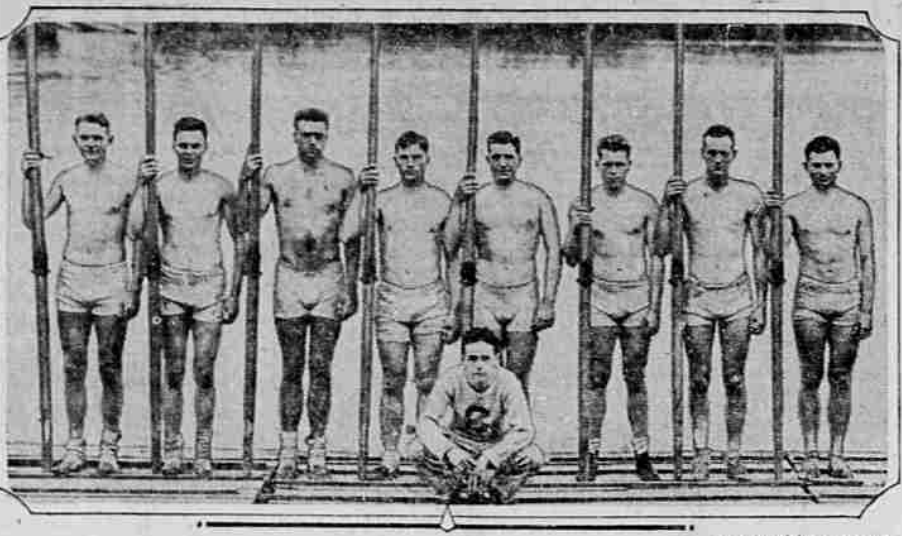

An average of 98 dispensary calls a day were handled at an average expense of 21c each exclusive of salaries and permanent equipment. The salary item amounts to about two-thirds of the annual budget.

Many Wives of Congressmen Waive Quiet Summer at Home This Year

By Sue McNamara
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON (AP)—Because President and Mrs. Hoover plan to remain in Washington most of the summer, many a shiny glass jar of jam and jelly will be missing from pantry shelves in Kokomo, Kalamazoo and Keokuk.

Women who usually hasten home when congress adjourns, to put up fruit and engage in other tranquil domestic pursuits, will remain in the capital this year, returning to the home town only for August when the president will be away on his western trip.

Some regret the loss of a summer in the home town where they can visit with neighbors, play with the new grandchild and sit on the shady front porch during the afternoon. To these home-loving women a picnic in the maple grove back of the home place is more fun than a brilliant reception in Washington.

Among the congressmen's wives returning to their home towns with the avowed intention of getting right into the kitchen are Mrs. William Wright of Newnan, Ga., and Mrs. Charles L. Abernathy of New Bern, North Carolina.

Many congressmen who feel sure of returning each year have leased or purchased homes in the capital which offer cool retreats—even during the hot months. If they have children, they send them to boys' or girls' camps.

WESTFIELD, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. F. W. Taylor of Westfield is an enthusiastic radio listener.

She has owned a radio receiver five years, and for the first four years of listening she said she averaged 10 hours a day. A year ago she bought a new set, and her daily average went up to 16 hours.

From "Living Rock"

When it is said that a statue is carved from the living rock, the expression is applied to a piece of sculpture carved from stone which is in the place it has occupied from time immemorial. This is in contrast to marble which has been quarried and carried far from its source.

One would say of the Rushmore memorial in South Dakota or of the Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain that it is carved from the living rock.

Milk Used To Extinguish Fires
SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Milk is just as good as water for putting out fires. Clare A. Lee, state fire marshal, said. On at least two occasions since the organization of the rural fire departments in Oregon under an act of the 1929 legislature, Lee said, the pumpers have run out of water and availed themselves of a milk supply, each time saving serious destruction.

Once in Yamhill county a pumper rushed to a fire and found a water shortage. A truck load of milk was passing. The driver turned into the farmyard, poured cans of milk into a trough and the fire was soon under control.

Under the 1929 act authorizing the organization of rural fire protection districts seven county departments have already been organized in the state. Headquarters of the departments may either be established in the country or the equipment may be kept at a convenient town fire station. The seven departments so far organized are at Corvallis, Junction City, Minnsville, Newberg, Molalla, Forest Grove and Hillsboro.

The act contemplates the organization of departments at 10 mile intervals throughout the state and Lee said he hoped ultimately to reach this goal. Wheat growers in Eastern Oregon are beginning to see the possibilities of the act and it is believed fire districts in that part of the state would save thousands of acres of ripened grain from destruction each summer.

Many of the pumpers are equipped with large tanks so an initial water supply can be taken directly to the fire.

Convenient wells or ponds may be utilized and some farmers build tanks near their buildings.

In an organized district that meets all requirements of the state department, Lee said, an insurance rate discount is allowed the property owners. For buildings this is 10 cents on the rate basis and for contents 15 cents with the exception of hay and grain.

The act is designed to provide for protection of property outside the incorporated cities and towns. When the property owners within the proposed district decide to organize they petition the county court and the court calls a hearing where objections are invited. Whether the petition shall be granted is at the discretion of the court. If the written objections of property owners representing at least 50 per cent of the total assessed property valuation within the districts are filed with the court, the law requires the court to call a special election on the question.

Districts may be furnished and financed in any manner agreeable to the people. They may issue bonds.

WOOL REPORT
BOSTON, June 27 (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston tomorrow will say:

"The wool market is less active and hardly so optimistic, in consequence of the sale of some low-priced fine tops, induced, it is believed, by general commodity and stock market conditions. The majority of the trade, however, believe the market is fundamentally sound and that even though the heavyweight season be far from successful, the last half of the year will see a better business."

"Foreign markets are low and generally in favor of the buyer, although Australia kept surprisingly steady this week. European markets were waiting the opening of the London auction July 8, when offerings of 155,000 bales are expected."

"The activities in the west are gradually subsiding. With 85 per cent of the new clip moved, this is only natural. Prices are at the top as the season ends, 25 cents being paid for the best Montana clip."

"Mohair still is slow and prices are hardly changed at about 40 cents for original adult Texas hair."

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations: scoured basis.
Oregon—Fine and f. m. staple 73-75; fine and f. m. Fr. combing 70-73; fine and f. m. clothing 56-67; valley No. 1 67-68.
Mohair: Oregon 38-40; domestic grading, first combing 50-52; good carding 34-35.

Flour Price Is Reduced; Melons Movement Heavy

PORTLAND, Ore., June 27 (AP)—Butter and egg quotations remained unchanged on the Portland wholesale market today. Demand was fair for both. Butter receipts were cleared well. Egg receipts were liberal, part going to storage.

Quotations and demand for country dressed meats and poultry continued steady with Thursday conditions.

The Sperry Flour company announced varying reduction on flour. Watermelons continue their very heavy daily movement of 1700 cars. Portland's melon consumption is still light, although prices are low enough—$15.00 per ton at Southern California shipping points, and 2 1/2 @ 3c per lb. to Portland retailers.

Arnot's cantaloupe movement is in full swing now, with daily shipments in excess of 100 carloads. Quality is reported very good. Portland's first arrivals are expected in a few days.

Household tomatoes are moving slowly, due to plentiful supplies of good-quality Californians. Householders continue in fairly good demand, as supplies are only moderate, and outdoor cukes are not an important factor yet.
