Michigan when their cabin aquaplane plunged into the water south of South Haven, Mich.

Witnesses said the plane had veered out over the lake to avoid shoreline bluffs hidden by fog, and was flying low. Coast guardsmen recovered the body of Kogke.

Dives Into Bay
Dick Dodds, of Santa Ana, Cal., was stunting above the Sunday crowds at Laguna Beach, Cal., when his plane lost altitude in a steep dip, failed to right itself and dived into Crescent bay.

Fishing boats and pleasure craft dragged the twisted wreckage ashore. Dodds' body was in the cockpit.

Martin Wilksa, 19, a student pilot, and John W. Gorman, 40, his instructor, were killed at Floyd Bennett field, on Barren Island, New York.

Witnesses said the two men, both of New York, were flying at a low altitude when their monoplane went into a flat spin and crashed. Wilksa was the control pilot and Gorman was the pilot.

The Barren Island field recently was dedicated by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in honor of Floyd Bennett, pilot of Byrd's north pole flight.

was read. Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, called up the treaty and went through the formality of having it read. He then moved adjournment until tomorrow when Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, will open the debate in behalf of the pact.

Before adjournment was taken, however, Senator McKellar, democrat Tennessee, an opponent of the pact, led the assault on the treaty by introducing a resolution to have the senate demand of President Hoover documents relating to the preliminary negotiations surrounding the pact. The president declined to give these to the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Reed replied the whole row over the documents related only to cablegrams exchanged between Ambassador Dawes and the state department prior to the London party. He said those cablegrams had been given to members of a delegation in confidence. He volunteered to show them.

Volunteers to show them.

He volunteered to show them to any member of the senate if they were kept confidential.

"If the senators will accept this offer they will readily see why the papers ought not to be made public," added Reed.

Senator Johnson, republican, California, jumped to his feet to assail this offer.

"The senator from Pennsylvania," document in confidence" shouted Johnson. "I scorn it. I demand for the United States senate and for my government the right to examine freely all the documents relating to the negotiation of this treaty."

A New Problem

The McKellar resolution which thrusts a new problem into the senate debate, went over until tomorrow, "President Hoover's message said in part:

"We must naturally expect opposition from those groups who believe in unrestricted military preparedness and the strength of the American nation."

"Indeed, we find the same type of minds in Great Britain and Japan in parallel opposition to this treaty. Nevertheless, I am convinced that the overwhelming majority of the American people are opposed to the conception of these groups."

"The present treaty... is in the interest of the United States. It is fair to the other participating nations. It promotes the cause of good relations."

"The only alternative to this treaty is the competitive building of navies with all its flow of suspicion, hate, illwill and ultimate disaster."

"It has been favorably reported by the senate foreign relations committee. Every solitary fact which affects judgment upon the treaty is known and the document itself comprises the sole obligation of the United States."

which are in the human body, and of something else which is possibly the ether, as well as a material not known to exist in any organic substance. It dissolves in light." Afterward he discovered that he "had seen and handled ectoplasm, so that for me, at least, all doubts as to its existence have become absurd."
