TOM ARMOUR AND SMITH ARE AHEAD

Two Scots Wrest Lead at Interlachen From Bobby Jones and Wiffey Cox.

By O. B. Keller
(Written For The Associated Press)
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 11.—Along in the cool of the evening of Thursday, when the thermometer in the Interlachen country club was away down around 66 degrees, two veteran Scots decided to take the lead for the first day of the national open golf championship away from Bobby Jones and Wiffey Cox, who had held it at 71, and when the shades of night and a few fleeting and well-gurgled flocks of mosquitoes had settled about Mirror Lake, Tommy Armour, national champion of 1927, and MacDonald Smith were tied at 70, two strokes below par, each having done the last and longest nine holes in 33. And there the matter rested for a few hours while the dried-out competitors absorbed gallons of water in the effort to regain the fluidity which had enabled them to imitate lawn sprinklers all over the Interlachen.

Fighting Humidity
If you haven't tried it or at least observed it, you can have no idea how freely the human system can disperse moisture at a temperature of 100 degrees mingled with what is popularly known as humidity.

Bobby Jones consumed successive vacuum bottles of ice water in playing his round when he gained the refuge of the locker room about 1 o'clock his necktie was a sodden knot and he couldn't untie it and I tried it and failed and then took and cut it off of him so he could get ready for a shower.

The aptest description of Cyril James Hastings Tolley in action on yesterday was to my way of thinking, as follows:
"Mr. Tolley," said a prim lady spectator sitting under a large shady tree, "looked just like an ironman who has carried a hundred pounds of iron up five flights of stairs and found the lady of the house not in."

Mr. Tolley was dressing and regarding a small heap of extraordinarily damp golf clothing.

"I wonder how much weight I lost playing that round," he speculated.
"How much do your golf clothes weigh?" I asked.

"Three pounds, normally," he said.
Nine Pounds Less
I put the damp bundle on the scales. It weighed six pounds and a half, but this increase did not include what Mr. Tolley had lost altogether by radiation. After some coaxing he got on the scales himself. I promised not to tell what the resultant weighed but it was nine pounds less than Mr. Tolley had scaled when he set out three hours before.

Chick Evans, who won both the open and the amateur championships of 1916, told me the head affected him curiously in that quite a number of shots were struck while he had lost the vision of the ball. Not one of them was an entirely bad shot, Chick said, but not an entirely good shot.

And it is a curious fact that without even being off the fairway in the 18 holes, or taking three putts on any Green, Chick returned a card of 82.

Mo' Misses Shortest
Den Mo' missed the shortest putt of the first round and turned in a 75, at that. The putt was three inches on the 17th green.

"I was swinging like some dear old lady," confessed the Portland infant, blushing. "I couldn't seem to put any punch in my shots. But of course I don't take a lot of punch to hole a 3-inch putt. I just went up to it, after missing the previous one, and tapped it into the hole but it didn't go in. That happens, sometimes."

Helen Madison Makes New Mark

SEATTLE, July 11.—Helen Madison, Seattle's swimming sensation, possessed another world's record today. Miss Madison covered the 120-yard distance in 1 minute 16.8 seconds, clipping 1.8 seconds off the mark held by Ethel Lackie, Illinois A. C. in an exhibition meet here last night. Another mark was shattered when Eleanor Holm, New York, covered the 400-yard course in back stroke fashion in 5 minutes 53.2 seconds. Former record, 6:19.2 was held by Sybil Bauer, Illinois Athletic club.

Paul J. Schissler Here on Saturday

Paul J. Schissler, football mentor at Oregon State college, will arrive in La Grande tomorrow morning on No. 24 and will spend the afternoon here, before continuing a trip to the middle-west. Mr. Schissler is to be in charge of a coaching school at Illinois Wesleyan this month.

Three Eastern Clubs Remain In American Race

By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Three eastern clubs are about all that are left in the American league pennant race, but the four western members are putting on a struggle of their own that is close enough to stir up some interest. Cleveland, holding fourth place by a diminishing margin over Detroit, is having a great rivalry with the Tigers while Chicago and St. Louis are staging an equally close struggle for sixth place.

The Indians went one up on the nearest rivals yesterday with eight victories against seven for Detroit by winning yesterday's opening game on an abbreviated series 2 to 5. St. Louis again moved ahead of Chicago's White Sox, taking sixth place by a half game margin and gaining a 7-6 margin in the games played between the two clubs by winning a ten inning game 7 to 6. The insertion of Ted Gullie into the lineup turned the tide in favor of the Browns. As a pinch hitter he singled to bring in the tying run in the eighth and in the tenth he hit a home run to win the game.

Senators Stay Ahead
Among the leaders, Washington and Philadelphia continued on even terms, the Senators leading by a half game margin. Washington recovered rapidly from the break in its winning streak by taking the final encounter from the Boston Red Sox 7 to 2, as Ossie Bluzie drove in four runs with two doubles and a home run. George Barnhart pitched the Athletics to easy triumph over the New York Yankees, allowing only three hits for a 9 to 1 triumph. Two of the Yankee hits were made in the final inning.

The National league had but one game on its schedule yesterday and there was some doubt as to whether it was baseball that New York and Philadelphia played. The Giants won by a score of 19 to 8, hardly an ordinary baseball result, and some of the fielding looked far out of place on a major league diamond. The New Yorkers had their biggest hitting spree in the third inning when they batted around twice, made nine hits and scored ten runs. They finished with a total of 26 hits, to which the Phillies added five errors. Pete Donohue yielded 16 blows, including the feature clout of the game, Chuck Klein's 25th home run of the season, but had no trouble going the route.

Keeping Up With the Neighbors
It's the modern wear and tear and strain that is causing so many cases of heart ailments, physicians have discovered, and usually it's nothing more than the strain of keeping up with the neighbors.—Charlotte News.

"Houses" of Red Indians
American Indians did not build log houses before the coming of the white man. That is, they did not build log houses in the sense that the settlers did later. But many tribes built wooden houses, composed of poles for framework, and roofs of bark and hatchwork. A few tribes even put logs together for their habitations, but they did not put them together after the fashion of the regular log house.

Where 'Coon Makes Home
Home to the raccoon is a hollow tree, usually an elm. The 'coon enters by an opening in one of the big limbs or high up in the trunk. The hollow sometimes extends down to the roots, and when the tree is felled the animals are found in the stump at the level of the ground. Three or four of the roly poly animals sometimes live together in the same tree.

Ancient Gravestone
A peculiar-looking stone discovered in a field near Schwadorf, Austria, by Johann Firth, a peasant, and delivered by him to Professor Langhauer, the local school principal, was found to be a part of a Roman gravestone with much of the inscription still clearly legible.

Famous Scottish Regiment
The tartan of the Black Watch is entirely military. In 1725, when General Wade was sent to Scotland to pacify the Highlanders, he gave orders that the six companies in existence adopt a uniform tartan. This was of a dark color and gave rise to the name of the Black Watch. In 1739 these six companies were formed into a regiment, and the history of the Black Watch began.

Denmark Lures Tourist
Denmark, "The Land of the Sea," is one of the smallest of the northern kingdoms of Europe, but its geographical position, its extensive coast line—it is almost surrounded by water—its invigorating climate, and its ancient historical traditions coupled with a progressive modernity, make it one of the most attractive of all destinations of the tourist in Europe.

Early Use of Shellac
Reference to lac are found in Sanskrit literature. In early times it was used as a dye. Pliny in 77 A. D. wrote of lac gum, known in India and other eastern countries. Shellac as a varnish has been known in the east from very early times.

All From Same Root
The surnames O'neil in Ireland, Gow in Scotland, LeGoff in Brittany, Lefevre or Lefevre in France, Faber and Schmidt in Germany, are all equivalent to our English "Smith."

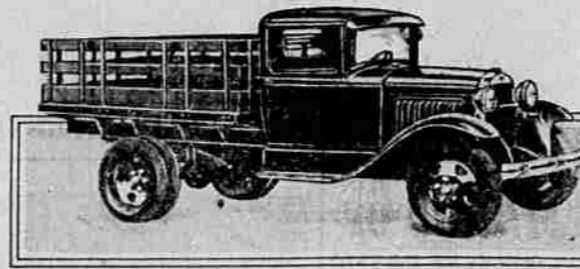

Lengthy Tunnels
The Upanalatta tunnel, not quite two miles long, between Los Angeles and Mendocino, is now the longest in South America. The Italian tunnel now under construction will be about three miles in length. They are both railroad tunnels in the Andes.

Most Volcanic Country
Japan possesses 51 active volcanoes, more than any other country in the world.

Proverbs
Not all proverbs hold wisdom. Some, such as "All's fair in love and war," hold dotted nonsense. Conscience—knowing what is right and doing it—is a better guide to conduct than proverbs.

Not Printed in English
Copernicus' great work in Latin on "The Revolution of the Celestial Spheres" which appeared in 1543 and laid the foundation for modern astronomy, has never been published in an English translation.

New Ford Truck With Closed Cab

NEW Ford Model AA trucks and Model A light delivery cars were announced this week by the Ford Motor Company and are on display in the show rooms of Ford dealers.

Changes in the truck bodies are principally in the front end, which has been completely redesigned and in the cab. The radiator is higher with more cooling surface, fenders are wider and flowing, and a black strip adds a note of distinction.

The new Model AA trucks with the four-speed transmission introduced several months ago may be had with enclosed or open cab. The enclosed cab, shown above, is all steel, is low in appearance yet with ample head room. The open cab is of black rubber top material and is easily removed. Both cabs are equipped with windshields of Triplex shatterproof glass and vacuum type windshield wipers.

Model AA trucks may be had with a platform body, which can be equipped with stakes or a panel body. The chassis has many improvements, including the four speed transmission, larger front brakes, stronger springs, power take-off opening and optional dual rear wheels.

The Model A line of new commercial cars comprises a light delivery truck with pick-up body, a deluxe delivery truck, a small panel truck and a station wagon. These cars have the smaller wheels and larger tires of the new Ford passenger cars.

California May Change Car Fee

SALEM, Ore., July 11.—If the people of California, in the fall election, approve a proposed constitutional amendment whereby the personal tax on automobiles becomes part of the state license fee, similar to the Oregon system, Secretary of State Hoss expects fewer California license plates on cars that are really owned in Oregon.

California's flat $3 fee has always been a temptation to some Oregon car owners to "bootleg" plates from the neighboring state. The state traffic department is on the lookout for these and Secretary Hoss believes that by far most of the California license plates seen in Oregon, even outside the tourist season, legal. Hoss has been informed that the reason California is trying to change its system is that 400,000 car owners evade the property tax on automobiles every year.

Monkeys Eat by Color

Monkeys can be taught to distinguish color, according to an announcement of the Berlin Physiological Institute, where experiments have been made. The tests were made with small Java monkeys, which come instantly when a yellow light is shown, but ignore all other colors.

Pessimistic Idea

No man is happy. Man strives all his life through for imaginary happiness, which he seldom attains, and if he does, it is only to be disillusioned.—Exchange.

Angels Are Not Under Wire; Lose To Seattle, 7-1

By The Associated Press
Four games remained on the schedule of the first half season in the Pacific coast league today, and still the winner was not definitely indicated.

Los Angeles, considered a sure winner at the beginning of the week, took its second severe beating out of three games at the hands of Seattle yesterday, 7 to 1.

Hollywood replaced Sacramento as the only team with a mathematical chance of beating out Los Angeles by defeating the Senators, 3 to 0, in a night game.

Oakland made it three straight over the Missions, 3 to 0. Howard Craghead turned in one of his best pitching performances of the season to blank the Reds.

Beavers Win
"Junk" Walters had San Francisco well in hand as Portland won, 6 to 2, although Miljus, hurrying for the Seals, gave less hits. The Seal fielding didn't match Miljus' work.

Los Angeles today needed one game to clinch the first half season flag. Hollywood still had a chance to win by four percentage points. Sacramento had an outside chance to tie the Angels for the final leadership.

Hero Too Ardent, So She Resigned
NEW YORK, July 11.—It was Muriel Kirkland's task, as the demure but eager southern girl in "strictly dishonorable," to encourage her opera singer acquaintance, Tullio Carminati, offstage, to make ardent love to her. He became too ardent, Miss Kirkland said today, and she has resigned from the leading role of the comedy, ranking long-run play of Broadway.
