GAS WAR AT END; PRICES GO SKYWARD (Continued from Page One) bought in Union county yesterday, in spite of a heavy demand for such containers.

Old Prices Return But today is a different story. With the Standard and Shell Oil companies announcing a return to wholesale quotations existing before the coast war began, prices skyrocketed to 25 1/2 cents this morning, although some of the wholesale companies, including Texaco, were still selling at prices permitting 11-cent gas at 10 o'clock this morning.

Left This Morning—Miss Hazel Jones left this morning for Alameda, Cal., where she will visit her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Jones for several months. She is a sister of Mrs. E. Hollister of this city.

To Scout Camp—Miss Helen Melville and Miss Betty Bohnenkamp are driving to Baker tomorrow evening where they will join the group of girls who are attending the Girl Scout camp at Anthony Lake. The camp will last for eight days. Camp routine includes sports and such diversions as boating, swimming and hiking.

BOBBY JONES LEADS WITH CARD OF 287 (Continued from Page One) years of competition in this event. He shot two 69's last year, one at the green, and the other in the playoff. His famous putter, Calamity Jane, never was working more brilliantly.

Standard's announcement, made last night, said wholesale prices which prevailed June 12 would be restored this morning, that they would see to it the retailers sold the gasoline 20 cents a gallon, and would refuse to sell to any dealer "found guilty" of price cutting. The Shell company immediately agreed to adopt the same tactics.

Richfield, Union and Associated made no statements but their officials intimated their companies would follow suit. Charles Jacobs, secretary of the Retail Service Station Dealers association of San Francisco, saw in the announcement the "end of the war."

"It Won't Be Long" "It will take some time for the loose ends to be gathered up," Jacobs said, "and there may be some dealers who will hold out for a few days, but if they can't get gasoline to sell at cut prices they can't sell gasoline at cut prices."

Prices yesterday ranged from 5 to 12 cents in Seattle, 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 cents in Portland, 9 to 12 1/2 cents in Los Angeles, 7 to 14 cents in San Francisco, 8 to 9 cents in Sacramento and Fresno, 5 1/2 to 7 1/2 cents in Tacoma, with similar fluctuations in other Pacific coast cities.

PORTLAND PRICE 21 1/2 CENTS PORTLAND, July 12 (AP)—A lot of private oil companies apparently didn't know the gas price war had ended today. Motorists bought fuel from 9 1/2 to 21 1/2 cents a gallon here. Major oil companies in the Standard, Associated, Shell and Gilmore ended the price war as suddenly as it began by posting price signs today of 21 1/2 cents.
